Morrison, Six Others Perish In Plane Crash

A PARIS newspaper Saturday received a ransom demand offering to free the kidnapped wife of Marcel Dassault, French nuclear warplane builder, in exchange for ex-General Raoul Salan. Gen. Salan is the imprisoned chief of the French terrorist secret army. He is serving a life term for leading the secret army oganization in Algeria. (AP Wirephoto)

2,000 MARINES ABOARD

U.S. Naval Units Sail Toward Asia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Strong U.S. naval units, including a floating force of 2,000 combat-ready Marines, were believed Saturday to have been shifted toward hot beds of Communist trouble in Laos and South Viet Nam.

The extent to which President Johnson might commit these forces was uncertain. Only American reconnaissance flights to check on Communists attacking neutralist Laos have been authorized so far.

The Defense Department kept its silence on the exact location of the ships. But it did acknowledge that the U.S. 7th Fleet now in the Far East always has afloat a reinforced battle group of about 2,000 men.

TOUGH WARNING

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in one of the toughest American warnings to date, said in a speech here Friday night that expansion of the anti-Communist war in South Viet Nam "can be the result if the Communists persist in their course of aggression." And naming both South Viet Nam and Laos, he said "we have made it clear that we are not going to abandon people who are trying to preserve their independence and freedom."

The fleet, consisting of more than 125 warships manned by more than 60,000 men and led by three large aircraft carriers, normally is spread out along the China coast from the Sea of Japan to the Philippines. But it can concentrate quickly at danger spots.

Disclosures Friday that a reconnaissance plane from the carrier Kitty Hawk had been hit but undamaged by anti-aircraft fire over Laos meant that at least one of the carriers and its supporting ships were off the Southeast Asian coast.

The Kitty Hawk, the Midway and the Bonhomme Richard are the three carriers currently assigned to the 7th Fleet. They support about 100 warplanes each. But the Navy admitted the total number in the fleet is more than 650.

The Marines have with them helicopters which could be used for landings deep inland. They also are accompanied by supporting combat aircraft.

With Cambodia at diplomatic odds with the United States, Thailand is considered the only route that could be used for an invasion of land-locked Laos.

The 700-mile-long country is two-thirds dense highland jungle, with no railroads, all-weather roads or modern airfields. Most of its population of about 2 million lives in the Mekong River lowlands bordering Thailand.

French View Kidnapping As Political

Papers Receiving Calls Concerning Dassault's Wife

PARIS (AP) — A series of telephone calls Saturday night indicated the kidnapers of Mrs. Marcel Dassault had political motives or that foes of President Charles de Gaulle were trying to exploit the kidnaping for political purposes.

Police threw all their resources into a hunt for the three men — two gunmen and a driver — who carried out the predawn abduction of Mrs. Dassault, 63, the wife of a millionaire French nuclear warplane builder.

Anonymous callers contacted two Paris evening papers and the French Press Agency in each case purporting to speak for the kidnapers.

RANSOM MONEY

In the first case the caller told Le Monde the kidnapers wanted a ransom of $2 million.

Then France-Soir was notified that Mrs. Dassault would be freed in 70 hours if ex-Gen. Raoul Salan were released. Salan is serving a life term for leading the anti-Gaullist terrorist Secret Army Organization in Algeria.

A similiar call to the French Press Agency said the secret army had levied a $2-million penalty against Dassault for "high treason."

The caller said the sum would be put into the secret army's war chest to finance antigovernment activities or to compensate the government's "victims."

But there was no way of telling if these callers had any real connection with the kidnap gang. Police said they were unable to determine whether they were authentic or from cranks.

The family said it had no word.

Marcel Dassault, 72, slightly injured when the gunmen pistol-whipped him and their chauffeur, Louis Dubois, 48, was reported in a state of shock. Dassault's firm is the maker of the Mirage IV, France's supersonic atomic bomber.

The kidnaping occurred outside the elegant apartment house where the Dassaults live on the edge of the famed Boulogne Woods.

The Dassaults were returning from a dinner party at the home of friends. As their big American-made sedan stopped and they alighted, two hooded men approached. When the couple protested the two men quickly slugged Dassault and the chauffeur and grabbed Mrs. Dassault.

Cypriots Begin New Shooting

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Greek and Turkish Cypriots started shooting at each other again Saturday after a week of relative peace on the island.

The United Nations said Turkish Cypriots opened fire from their positions in the Kyrenia Mountain range northwest of here. Greek Cypriots did not fire back.

But the Greek Cypriots fired on Turkish Cypriot positions in the Nicosia suburb of Trakhonas. Turkish Cypriots, restrained by U.N. peace force soldiers, did not return the fire.

AUTOMATION TRAINEES

Wrestler Tussles With New Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Can an ex-wrestler learn a highly skilled job of running an electronic computer?

The former grunt-and-groan artist is wrestling now with electronic data: processing equipment in the first federal program designed to teach unskilled workers to handle jobs in the spreading automation industry.

The wrestler, by the way, "is one of our best students," says Swen A. Larsen, executive vice president of the Datatrol Corp. which is training 36 persons in the pioneer program.

Other trainees whose previous jobs were far from the automation field include a meat cutter, a librarian, a grocery clerk and an office sweeper.

None of them was identified by name.

The training program is being financed by a $49,043 grant of Labor and Welfare Department funds under the Manpower Development and Training act.

While there is rising unemployment among the unskilled, there is an actual shortage of data-processing personnel for automated equipment, Larsen said. At the same time, automation is displacing large numbers of unskilled workers.

Hugh P. Donaghue, president of the Silver Spring, Md., firm, said the program "is very valid for business reasons."

He said due to the shortage of trained personnel, "too often we find scientists doing technicians' work."

Donaghue said the training program, which got under way recently, is being watched closely by federal and industry officials as a possible national pilot program.

The eight-month training course essentially involves trying to train high school graduates for jobs usually held by college-trained scientists.

Tribute Paid To Morrison By Governor

By SAM HANNA
Political Editor

Gov. John J. McKeithen said Saturday Louisiana lost "one of its most distinguished" citizens in the death of deLesseps S. (Chep) Morrison, a key political figure in Louisiana for almost 20 years.

"I personally am grieved," McKeithen said from his Columbia home after being notified that Morrison was killed in a Mexican plane crash. "All Louisiana is shocked by the tragic news."

KEPT IN TOUCH

McKeithen kept in touch with the Morrison family by telephone after hearing early reports that Morrison's plane was down in the Mexican mountains.

"I instructed our State Police and National Guard to make available to the Morrison family any and all facilities needed and requested," the governor explained.

"Louisiana lost one of its most distinguished citizens," he added.

Morrison, who called himself a Cajun boy from New Roads, lost to McKeithen in the second Democratic primary last January in his third unsuccessful bid for the governorship.

He served as mayor of New Orleans for 16 years, then was named Ambassador to the Organization of Latin American States by the late President Kennedy, who also met a violent death.

McKeithen said he had been in contact with Morrison "practically every week" since the general election in which Morrison threw his support to the Columbia attorney over Republican Charlton Lyons Sr.

"We had made available to Chep a state office in New Orleans where he was working with our administration on the industrial inducement program," McKeithen said. "He made innumerable contacts after the general election throughout the United States in an effort to bring industry to Louisiana."

Morrison, known for his ability in developing the industrial climate of the New Orleans area, headed a group of businessmen for McKeithen after the election on an industry-inducement trip to South America.

McKeithen said he would attend the funeral and thought the Legislature would adjourn for the services, which are pending. McKeithen said he would close state offices, "which I deem appropriate."

"I have expressed my sympathy to the Morrison family over the passing of one of our most distinguished citizens," he added.

Morrison, an anti-Long, twice led a big field of gubernatorial candidates, but lost in 1960 to Former-Gov. Jimmie H. Davis and then to McKeithen in the second primary.

He was defeated by the late Earl K. Long in the first primary of 1956.

But despite his three successive defeats, Morrison, 51, was preparing, until his death, to run for governor again four years from now.

Son Victim; Craft Slams Mexico Peak

CIUDAD VICTORIA, Mexico (AP) — Former New Orleans mayor and U.S. diplomat de Lessups S. Morrison, his young son and five other persons were killed instantly when their chartered two engine plane crashed in dense fog Friday.

The bodies were picked up in a mountain cornfield Saturday by a rescue squad sent to the scene 27 miles from Ciudad Victoria after a Mexican official flying overhead identified the wrecked plane.

A spokesman said the bodies were taken to the civil hospital in Ciudad Victoria. He said the bodies were mangled and unrecognizable.

OTHERS ABOARD

Also aboard the plane in addition to Morrison, a 52-year-old widower, and his seven-year-old son Randy, was socialite divorcee Mrs. Carolyn Cataldo Vandergrift, and her seven-year-old son Christopher.

Others were pilot Hugh Ward of Brownsville, Tex., Ovide J. Cemac, a Houma, La., businessman, and Riley Pellegrin of Montegut, La., an employe of a towing firm owned by Cemac.

Morrison and Mrs. Vandergrift were engaged to be married, her family said. They had been going together for several years but planned to wait and announce the date after he ran for governor, according to her brother.

Mrs. Vandergrift, 35, originally from Martinsville, W. Va., was married to Charleston, W. Va. businessman James

MORE ARMS AID

U.S. Awaits List Of Laotion Needs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington stood ready Saturday to give more arms aid to Red-pressed Lao government forces and U.S. authorities are awaiting a list of needs from Premier Souvanna Phouma.

In the diplomatic arena, an atmosphere of crisis over the Southeast Asia situation simmered while diplomats maneuvered over what international political talks should be held.

NO NEW FIGHTING

News dispatches from Vientiane reported neutralist Gen. Kong Le describing the situation as "very bad" but official reports reaching the State Department said nothing of any major new fighting.

The assumption here is that Kong Le's estimate refers to the over-all situation created by the Reds' military successes of earlier last week—and ties into his government's request for more help.

State Department sources here indicated official reports from Vientiane do not yet answer this basic question: Will the Communists merely consolidate their hold on the central Plaine des Jarres or try to push on to the Thailand border, thus virtually conquering the northern half of the country?

U.S. sources said Kong Le appears to have successfully regrouped most of his forces with headquarters in a well-located hill position near the plaine.

According to State Department authorities, Souvanna Phouma has indicated in a general way that he will ask for more assistance from the United States, and also from Britain and France.

They said the United States is prepared to supply more military and economic assistance when a specific request is received. The Geneva accord guaranteeing Laos' neutrality, they said, does not bar outside aid when sought by the ligitimate government for self-defense.

President Johnson has made no decision yet to send in either U.S. military advisers or troops, it was stated.

MORRISON TRAGEDY

Family Cook Cries Over Randy's Loss

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—"Randy didn't want to go."

"But I got him into his cowboy boots and he was wearing a Mexican hat when they left."

Josephine Brant, the 60-year-old Morrison family cook, couldn't control her tears Saturday as she told how she got the seven-year-old son of former U.S. Ambassador deLesseps S. Morrison ready for the trip with his father that ended in a tragic plane crash in northern Mexico Friday night.

Randy finally changed his mind and left with his father and five others on a flight to Tampico, Mexico, that was cut short when the twin-engine plane plowed into a mountainside southeast of Ciudad Victoria.

Miss Brant said she bought Randy an air rifle, the cowboy boots and a Mexican hat to encourage him to make the trip.

"Randy wanted to take his kitten with him, too," she said. "'But I told him he couldn't do that. But he did take Scamp with him."

Scamp was an eight-week-old German shepherd puppy.

"He was quite a sight when he left," the cook said of Randy.

"Don't worry Jo, I'm going to bring you a rabbit back from Tampico," he told me.

Morrison's son, deLesseps Jr.—Toni to the family—kept in constant telephone touch with Mexican authorities and Roy Reed, assistant manager of the Tampico ranch the Morrison party was headed for.

Toni, 20, never left the telephone and Corinne, 16, his sister, stayed beside him through the vigil.

The former diplomat's mother and two brothers also gathered at the stately old home in a fashionable residential area to await news.

The mood shifted from elation to uncertainty as the hours wore on with conflicting reports about the fate of those aboard the plane.

Goldwater Plans To Run Clean Race

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater pledged Saturday to wage a clean campaign in California—win, lose or draw. He also offered a revised apprisal of his chances of cinching the Republican presidential nomination.

Goldwater told a news conference there have been efforts to turn California into "a political butcher shop" and that friends and advisers have urged him to make a direct attack against smears, "hate" literature and misrepresentations.

'ODOROUS ATTACKS'

"Even more odorous attacks, we are told, will come," Goldwater said.

But he said he will continue to seek support at the grass roots, adding that "I trust completely the standards of fair play and the common sense and common decency of the people in California."

When questioned later, the Arizona senator exempted New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller from portions of his statement. He and Rockefeller are the only candidates on this state's June 2 GOP presidential primary ballot.

Goldwater said the "hate" literature had been mailed into California from the East and that it was of an anti-Semitic nature. He traced it to George Lincoln Rockwell's American Nazi party, and said it had no connection with the Rockefeller people.

He said the governor likewise was not responsible for smear tactics, although he said there have been misrepresentations on the issues.

Goldwater said there was no question that Rockefeller has improved his position as shown by the findings of some pollsters. And he said that a victory in California by Rockefeller "would certainly be a big boost."

Of his own position, Goldwater said he expects "a real tough go" in California. Even if he wins here, he said, he still may be about 50 delegages short of a first-ballot nomination at San Francisco.

GOP Attacks Candidacy Of Kennedy

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) —U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's possible candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate from New York was attacked Saturday night by State Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney, a Republican.

Mahoney said the state's Democratic party will be "judged utterly bankrupt if it has to resort to a flagrant play on the emotions of the people by even considering running a Back Bay carpetbagger" against Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating. Back Bay is a part of Boston.

Mahoney spoke at a state meeting of Young Republicans.

Democratic State Chairman William H. McKeon said meanwhile his party hoped to decide on a senatorial candidate by mid-June.

The state nominating convention will be held in September, but the party intends to make an unofficial choice earlier to give more time for campaigning against Keating.

Kennedy, who has been mentioned often for the vice presidential nomination, was reported a week ago to be considering the possibility of seeking the Senate nomination from New York.

At that time, it was believed he would not make a decision until after the Democratic National Convention which opens Aug. 24 in Atlantic City, N. J.

It is understood now, however, that Kennedy will announce his decision by mid-June so state party leaders can make an early choice and get the campaign under way.

The late president's brother is a Massachusetts voter who in recent years has been residing in Virginia, but he would be eligible to run here.

Federal law concerning residence requires only that a senator live at election time in the state from which he is elected. Kennedy maintains an apartment in Manhattan and could make that his official residence before the November election.

Kennedy Elected Tax Assessor In East Carroll

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — Leonard Kennedy, a bank teller at the Lake Providence Bank, was elected tax assessor for East Carroll Parish over J. C. Butler in a runoff vote here Saturday.

Complete unofficial returns gave Kennedy 882 votes to Butler's 520. Seven candidates were entered in the primary race earlier this month.

NATION'S MAYORS MEET

NEW YORK (UPI)—The biggest and most representative annual conference of mayors opens here Monday to discuss problems high on the agendas of city halls throughout the country.

About 600 delegates have registered in advance for the 1964 meeting, and officials said that with observers and other officials guests attendance should top 1,000 — the largest in the 31-year history of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

LOCAL OBSERVANCE SET

Activities Planned For Realtor Week

"Move Up to More in '64—A Better Home Thru a Realtor" has been selected as the slogan for the 1964 Realtor Week, which opens today, J. W. Webster Jr., president of the Monroe - West Board of Realtors, announced. Mrs. Terece Salley is Realtor Week chairman.

Realtor Week activities have been planned for today through May 30, Webster and Mrs. Salley said, as realtors from this area join with the more than 75,000 others throughout the nation in efforts to emphasize the distinction between realtors and just anyone in the real estate business and to acquaint the public with the services offered by them.

"A Realtor," Webster and Mrs. Salley explained, "is a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, one of the largest professional and trade associations in the nation. To qualify for membership in NAREB, a real estate broker must demonstrate his professional ability, must be approved by the other members of the local board, and, finally, subscribe to the rigid Code of Ethics of the National Association. The primary goal of the realtor under this code is to keep the interests of both the buyer and the seller uppermost in mind during a transaction."

Only members of the Monroe-West Monroe board and NAREB may use the term realtor, which is a service mark (similar to a trademark, registered in the U. S. Patent Office, he added.

In selecting the motto "Move Up to More in '64 — A Better Home Thru a Realtor," Webster and Mrs. Salley said, realtors are redeclaring their faith in the continuing prosperity of the country and, at the same time, are pointing out that Americans now, as in no time in the past, have the wherewithal to provide their families with not only adequate housing but dwellings that will permit them to live in the manner they wish.

"Much of the world today is enjoying this new prosperity," they stated, "but nowhere else is home ownership more available. In fact, the ease of owning one's own home in the United States is unique throughout the world."

Realtors, Webster and Mrs. Salley concluded, feel they have contributed greatly to the nation's prosperity. NAREB and its leaders have for years urged and promoted home ownership both by the business in which they are engaged and by support of legislation and custom that have made purchase possible for millions of families who could not previously afford it.

Events scheduled here for Realtor Week include an award, breakfast at the Holiday Inn Tuesday at 8 a. m. and Dutch-treat picnic Saturday in Bernstein Park.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards was founded in 1908 in Minneapolis and now maintains offices in Chicago and Washington, D. C. Realtors are kept up-to-date on changes in real estate law, mortgage rates, buying trends, and other business factors through publications of the Association's professional staff, which maintains close contact with developments throughout the country.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The British in North Borneo have erected a "floating military outpost" off the Sibatik island near the port of Tawau, the official Antara news agency reported Saturday.

The report from Tarakaf, Indonesian northeastern Borneo, said the outpost is being used to track down guerrillas infiltrating to Malaysian North Borneo.

Rights Leaders Lack Cloture Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Associated Press poll indicated Saturday Senate leaders still have an uphill fight to muster a two-thirds majority to force an early halt to a Southern filibuster against the civil rights bill.

The balance of power lies with 17 senators, mostly from the Midwest and Rocky Mountain area, who gave qualified or noncommittal answers.

The poll showed 56 senators—38 Democrats and 18 Republicans — prepared to vote for debate-limiting cloture early in June if a leadership-sponsored package of amendments is generally agreed on by then.

Lined up in opposition were 27 senators — 25 Democrats and two Republicans, Sens. John G. Tower of Texas and Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Never in its history, despite numerous attempts, has the Senate voted to apply its anti-filibuster cloture rule to a civil rights bill.

But after 62 days of Senate debate on the House-passed measure now up for action, leaders are hopeful they can line up the required two-thirds majority. This will take 67 votes if all 100 senators vote.

While the leaders may have some commitments not publicly disclosed, there are indications they may have to persuade some opponents of cutting off debate to stay away when the roll is called if the move is to succeed.

Under the cloture rule, each senator's speaking time on the bill and all amendments would be limited to one hour once it were put into effect.

As time has gone on since the battle began March 9, leaders of both parties have become convinced that cloture is essential if the bill is to get through the Senate.

In hopes of winning over the required two-thirds majority, they have worked out a package of amendments with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The key amendments, to sections of the bill prohibiting discrimination in employment and in public accommodations, are designed to give more emphasis to state laws and to conciliation efforts in these fields.

Finishing touches still remain, but the leaders plan to introduce the package of amendments soon and then to file a cloture petition early next month in an effort to force action.

In the poll conducted by The Associated Press, senators were asked this question: "Will you vote for cloture on the civil rights bill by early June, assuming that a leadership package of amendments is generally agreed upon by then?"

A tally of the replies — in a few cases from aides of absent senators — showed 56 saying "yes," including ailing Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif.

Engle, who recently underwent a second brain operation, may not be able to vote, but an aide said Engle would like to vote for cloture.

If all senators except Engle vote, the total required to apply cloture will be 66 — or two-thirds of 99.

In contrast to the 56—counting Engle — who replied "yes" to The AP question, 11 senators declined to commit themselves.

Three replied affirmatively with qualifications, two indicated they would vote for cloture but not necessarily in early June, and one said it would be some time before he would vote for cloture.

Among those declining to commit themselves was Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, chairman of the Senate GOP policy committee.

He said that whether he will vote for cloture depends on the package of proposed amendments. In its present form, he said, the package needs considerable alteration.

LEOPOLDVILLE CURFEWS

Congo Tries To Halt Terrorist Bombings

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The Congolese government clamped a dusk-to-dawn curfew on Leopoldville Saturday after terrorist saboteurs bombed two Roman Catholic churches, killing a worshipper.

"There will be no exceptions," declared security Police Chief Victor Nendaka. The 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew was announced by Interior Minister Joseph Maboti.

The Congolese capital has been under martial law since October. Maboti is one of three special commissioners appointed to rule the city.

The curfew follows a series of plastic bomb attacks, mostly aimed at the city's electric power supply.

Friday night two plastic charges exploded in a doorway of the Roman Catholic church of Christ the King just as mourners were leaving a funeral. One Congolese who was in the doorway was fatally injured by flying concrete. Several other churchgoers were slightly injured.

An hour later, another blast damaged a wall of the Catholic church of St. Peter in Dendale African quarter. Four Congolese sitting on the porch of a house 50 yards away were injured by the blast of two plastic charges placed in ventilation ducts.

The saboteurs are believed to come from Brazzaville, capital of the former French Congo, where exiled extremists have set up their headquarters in close collaboration with Communist Chinese diplomats.

The Chinese arrived in Brazzaville, only 20 minutes away from Leopoldville across the Congo River, when the left-leaning government there followed France's lead and recognized the Peking government.

Senatorial Group Discloses Successor Recommendation

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee charged with studying presidential succession laws favors a constitutional amendment to permit the President to fill a vice-presidential vacancy, with approval of the Senate and House.

Four members of the six-man judiciary subcommittee on Constitutional Amendments announced Saturday their agreement in principle on this means of filling a vice-presidential vacancy such as exists now.

They approved also altering of the Constitution to provide for the President to delegate his powers to the vice president when the chief executive is unable to act, with Congress having the final say on whether the President is incapacitated.

The subcommittee chairman, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., released the report in which he was joined by Sens. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., and Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii. He said the other two members, Sens. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., and Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., are studying the proposal accepted by the majority.

The statement said formal action probably will be taken Wednesday "and there are indications it will be approved unanimously."

It was noted that the subcommittee choice is similar to a proposal submitted by the American Bar Association.

A constitutional amendment requires approval by a two-thirds vote in each branch of Congress and ratification by three-fourths of the states.

The question of presidential disability is regarded by many as a much trickier problem than the matter of presidential succession and here is the three-way procedure by which the subcommittee would deal with this:

1. Whenever the President declares in writing he is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the vice president would become acting president until the President declared himself ready to resume his duties.

2. If the President did not make known his inability, the vice president, with the concurrence of a majority of the Cabinet, could declare the President disabled and assume the powers and duties — but not the office — of president.

3. If the President disputed the action of the vice president and the Cabinet majority, the Congress would decide the issue. It would take a two-thirds vote of both houses to enable the vice president to continue as acting president. Otherwise, the President would resume the powers and duties of the office.

Only a majority of the Senate and House would be needed to elect a vice president selected by the President.

CONCERNS ASSASSINATION

Paper Calls Picture Subject Of Dispute

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Herald Tribune published Saturday night what it called "probably the most controversial photograph of the decade."

It is an Associated Press picture of President John F. Kennedy's assassination last Nov. 22 in Dallas, with a man standing in the background in the first floor entrance of the Texas School Book Depository building.

The man in the picture taken by AP photographer J. W. Altgens resembles Lee Harvey Oswald, who was formally accused of slaying the President by rifle fire from a sixth floor window of the building. Oswald was shot to death two days later by Jack Ruby.

The picture, the only one of the assassination taken by a professional, arounsed interest here and abroad as long ago as Dec. 2. If the man in the picture actually had been Oswald, it would seem to prove he was not the Kennedy assassin because he would not have had time to reach the building entrance after the shots were fired.

However, at that time, the Associated Press quoted R. S. Truly, superintendent of the book depository, as saying the man in the picture was Billy Lovelady, another employe of the firm, where Oswald also worked.

"I showed the photograph to Lovelady," Truly said at the time, "who said, 'Yes, that's me.'"

Lovelady said again Saturday through his employer that it was he and not Oswald who appears in the picture.

The picture was widely published here and abroad again Saturday, accompanied by a revival of the story.

At the time the picture first came to public notice last December, the FBI said it also had investigated the photograph and was satisfied that the man shown in the picture was not Oswald.

The Herald Tribune quoted Jones Harris, a New York theatrical producer, and his attorney, Arnold Krakower, as saying they called the picture to the attention of the Warren Commission, which is investigating all facets of the Kennedy assassination.

The Herald Tribune also interviewed Lovelady in Dallas and the story by reporter Dom Bonafede says:

"Lovelady maintains it is he standing in the doorway at the moment of the assassination. 'I was standing on the first step,' he told me when I interviewed him two weeks ago in Dallas. 'Several people in the picture saw me.'

"Lovelady said that the night following the assassination two FBI agents visited his home. 'They said they had a blown-up picture they wanted me to see. Right away I pointed to me and they seemed relieved. One had a big smile on his face because it wasn't Oswald.'

"Lovelady is more than a little irked by the attention he has received over the picture that still haunts Jones Harris. 'The FBI, Secret Service, and Warren Commission have all questioned me I don't know how many times,' he remarked."

Soviets Propose 14-Nation Meet On Laos Crisis

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government has formally proposed the convening of a full 14-nation conference in Laos in Geneva some time in June, the official Tass news agency reported Saturday.

Tass made the announcement as the government newspaper Izvestia was accusing the United States of "gross violations" of the 1962 agreement guaranteeing Laos its independence and neutrality.

Tass said the call for the new Geneva conference was made by Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in a message delivered to the British Embassy in Moscow on Thursday.

There had been unofficial reports the Russians were asking for a conference sometime in June.

The proposal was made to Britain because the two nations are co-chairman of the 1962 Geneva conference. It was in reply to Anglo-American proposals for a conference of ambassadors of the 14 nations to try to end the fighting in Laos.

Negro Is Killed In Fall Under Truck Wheels

A West Monroe Negro, George Coleman, 24, was crushed to death beneath the wheels of a truck Saturday at Selman Field after he apparently fell beneath the moving vehicle. Coleman, of Rt. 4, Box 187, was pronounced dead on arrival at E. A. Conway Hospital by Asst. Coroner, Dr. Cummings.

Witnesses told Monroe Police that Coleman was running beside a truck driven by Robert Lee Washington of the same address. They said the victim disappeared in a cloud of dust raised by the moving vehicle.

Coleman was one of several people doing farm work on leased property at Selman Field. No charges have been filed.

A three-car accident at the intersection of S. 5th and Plum Streets Saturday afternoon resulted in injuries to two Monroe residents.

Helen Roberts, 42, of 1713 S. 5th St., was admitted to St. Francis Hospital with suspected internal injuries. Her condition was not known late Saturday. Ronnie Brasher, 18, of 1618 S. 8th St., Monroe, received minor leg injuries in the same accident. He was treated and released.

According to investigating police, Mrs. Roberts was a passenger in a car driven by Sidney Kahn, 72, of 703 Roselawn Ave., Monroe. Kahn's vehicle, traveling north on 5th St., apparently ran a red light and collided with a vehicle driven by Stephen H. Rugg, 18, of 406 Grayling Ln., which was going west on Plum Street. Rugg's car struck the Kahn vehicle, knocking it into a third vehicle driven by Myrtis Watson, 30, of 804 S. 5th St. The Watson vehicle was headed south on 5th St., and was stopped for the red light.

The injured Brasher youth was a passenger in the Rugg vehicle.

Kahn was ticketed for running a red light.

Boats Collide; 4 West Monroe Residents Hurt

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Two West Monroe couples on an outing at D'Arbonne Lake were injured when their boats collided at a narrow channel in the Saturday afternoon.

Earl David Beavers and his wife, Claudell, of John Green Road, and James A. Butler and his wife, Carol, of Route 4, were admitted to Glenwood hospital in West Monroe.

Another couple in the Butler boat and the Butlers' two small children were not believed injured in the crash which destroyed both boats.

According to the Union Parish sheriff's department, the collision happened when the boats were meeting each other on a blind curve in the channel about 4:15 p.m. near the Farmerville-Ruston Highway bridge which crosses the lake.

As the boats were approaching each other, Butler tried to turn his cruiser type craft to give the Beavers' boat more room to pass. As he did, his boat went crossways of the channel and the Beavers craft, a 14-foot runabout, rammed into the cruiser's side.

Glen Wiggins of West Monroe, a friend of the Beavers who was following their boat, said Mrs. Beavers apparently was thrown against the dash causing head injuries. He said that both boats sank before they could be removed from the channel.

Mrs. Beavers, believed to be the most seriously hurt, was still in surgery late Saturday and no report was available on her condition.

Bayou Dragged For Two Bodies

JENA (Special) — LaSalle and Catahoula parish sheriff's departments were searching late Saturday night for the bodies of two persons reported to have drowned in Saline Bayou.

Heavy brush in the bayou which is on the Catahoula-LaSalle parish line hampered the recovery effort. Identification of the persons had not been definitely established. The sheriff's department said both victims were believed to be from Pineville.

STORE STRIKE SPREADS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A five week strike of food market clerks in the Baltimore area spilled over Saturday into the Washington area. The strikers set up picket lines at a number of Safeway stores here.

The Washington Food Store Clerks Union local said its members would not cross the picket lines set up by the Baltimore local members. The Baltimore strike affected all chain supermarkets although it was directed primarily at Safeway.

Laos Red Drive Continuing

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—A Communist - led army maintained pressure on battered neutralist troops in the north-central highlands of Laos Saturday and the neutralists' commander Gen. Kong Le, said their situation "is very bad."

Kong Le made a flying trip to this administrative capital from his temporary command post at Ban Na, about 100 miles northeast of Vientiane, for emergency conferences with Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma and two rightist generals.

The U. S.-trained paratrooper, normally dapper in uniform, arrived in civilian clothes—blue trousers, a blue cap and sports shirt. He was unshaven and looked tired.

Results of the ebb and flow of tension were evident also in neighboring nations of Southeast Asia.

—A company of 152 military policemen arrived in Saigon by air from Ft. Chaffee, Ark., to provide additional security for Americans in the face of increasing Communist terrorism in that capital of South Viet Nam.

President Nguyen Khanh's government produced three Communist Viet Cong prisoners at a Saigon news conference to back up its charge that the Red guerrillas use neutralist Cambodia as a sanctuary.

All said their units were under instructions to flee into Cambodia whenever a superior Vietnamese government force approached.

Soviets Hedge On Expulsion Of Red China

MOSCOW (UPI) — Communist China's expulsion from the Communist camp was again foreshadowed Saturday by an article asserting that the Soviet party has had wide experience dealing with "enemies, open and secret who try to deflect it from its Leninist course."

"Not once have all sorts of anti-party groups, Trotskyites, rightist deviationists, nationalists and revisionists attacked our party," Krasnaya Zvezda (Red Star) said.

The Defense Ministry organ quoted a resolution of the 13th Communist party congress issued 40 years ago Saturday which demanded "the harshest repressions of the slightest show of factionalism."

"The party smashed the heads of splinterers and renegates and defended the purity of Leninist teachings," Red Star said.

FINDS PARTTIME JOB

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Luci Baines Johnson, the President's 16-year-old daughter, has found herself a parttime summer job—like millions of other American youngsters.

Son Victim; Craft Slams Mexico Peak

Vandergrift. Since a divorce five years ago she has maintained homes in Washington, D.C., and Golden Beach, Fla.

Col. Arthur Beall of the Air-Sea Rescue Headquarters, Kansas City, notified the Morrison family at New Orleans that the bodies had been removed from the wreckage and taken to Ciudad Victoria. He said the bodies would be flown to Corpus Christi, Tex., Saturday night and then on to the Navy Air Station at New Orleans.

Beall estimated to the family that the C-5 carrying the bodies would reach New Orleans early today.

The official said planes from the crash reported wreckage scattered across the mountain. He said no pieces larger than three feet in diameter were found.

According to several versions, this is what happened:

Morrison and his party took off from Matamoros, across the Rio Grande from Brownsville, Tex., at 5:05 p.m. Friday after eating a supper at the airport restaurant.

They had hired a Piper Aztec, and had planned to fly to the Santa Clara ranch near Tampico on a combination business-pleasure trip.

The weather at Matamoros was good at the time, but storms had been predicted along the route. The plane had enough gasoline for a four and a half-hour flight, although it only takes slightly over an hour to fly from Matamoros to the ranch.

They were expected at the Charles Miller ranch at around 6:10 p.m. But apparently they ran into storms, and detoured slightly towards the La Guajolote Ranch, about 27 miles from Ciudad Victoria.

The ranch name means "turkey" in English.

Farmhands and cowboys said they heard the plane overhead. They said its engines seemed to be sputtering. They said it circled the ranch twice, apparently seeking a place to land, and crashed at 6:15 p.m. They could not locate the plane immediately because of the weather.

A peon was sent on horseback to Ciudad Victoria to notify the owner of the ranch, a Mexican named Prof. Arturo Lerma Anaya. It took the peon most of the night to ride to Ciudad Victoria.

Early Saturday, Anaya and a friend of Charles Miller named Bill Nelson, 38, formerly of Corpus Christi, hurried to the scene of the crash with doctors, medicines, and bandages.

They arrived at 10 a.m. and reported the scene was "unbelievable."

The small plane had slithered 200 feet through thorny chaparro bushes on the edge of a small gorge. Not far away was a corn field, apparently the goal of the pilot. Part of the field was plowed but unplanted.

The bodies were carried by mules about two miles to a dirt road, and then placed in a truck for the 25-mile drive to this state capital 200 miles south of the border.

The terrain is rugged and tropical. Although most of the area is rolling and hilly, there are several peaks nearby rising over 4,000 feet which in the past have caused plane accidents.

All money and valuables carried by the party were recovered, officials said.

Investigators said the plane, although still containing fuel, did not explode or burn.

Luis Gutierrez, a Mexican aeronautics official, made the identification of the wrecked plane from a privately owned twin engine DC3 that couldn't land near the crash site because of the mountainous terrain. He said 20 persons, possible volunteer rescuers, were seen in a nearby clearing.

Gutierrez said the fuselage of the downed Apache was twisted and resting near a mountain, 27 miles southeast of this northeastern Mexican city.

"We were unable to identify the group of people who were signalling our plane," Gutierrez said. He added the DC 3 couldn't fly close to the scene because of the terrain.

Police patrols and ambulances were dispatched. It was expected it would take about two hours to reach the scene over rough roads.

Gov. Praxedis Balboa of the state of Tamalpais ordered all assistance possible.

The crash site is in an area known as the Ranch of Guajalote. It is rugged mountainous terrain covered by thick, thorny bushes.

Two small planes first spotted the wreckage and guided the DC3 to the spot.

The phone call to the Morrison family in New Orleans came from Roy Reed at the Santa Clara Ranch at Tampico, who said his information came from a ground party which had reached the scene.

The office of a ranch owner who also had connections with Morrison said all seven persons aboard the plane had died in the crash. The plane was bound for Tampico.

Morrison was a former U. S. ambassador to the Organization of American States. He resigned that post to run for Louisiana governor but lost the Democratic runoff primary last January.

Morrison, 52, flew to Tampico with his son Randy, 7, who planned to spend the summer on a ranch near Tampico.

The chartered plane was due at its destination at 6:05 p.m. Friday.

The others on the plane were pilot Hugh Ward, Brownsville, Tex.; Ovide J. Cenac, Houma, La.; Riley Pellegrin, Montegut, La.; Mrs. Carolyn Vandergrift and her son Chris, believed to be from Golden Beach near Miami, Fla.

A massive ground search had centered on northeast Mexico before the plane was discovered.

Morrison leased the twin engine Piper Apache from Coastal States Aviation Co. of Corpus Christi, Tex. Lew S. Collins, general manager of the firm, said earlier he had received a telephone call from one of three pilots he sent to join the search that the missing plane had landed in a field and all aboard were safe.

Ciudad Victoria is 185 miles southwest of Brownsville. The Morrison plane took off Friday from Matamoros, across the border from Brownsville, bound for a ranch near Tampico, about 270 miles south of Matamoros.

The Morrison party earlier Friday had flown from New Orleans to Corpus Christi.

A Tampico newspaper said it was a business trip and that Morrison and the others were interested in a meat canning investment in the area.

all their points of view, the afternoon was a great success.

The kids have just three more days of school — next Monday through Wednesday — then come back Friday for the coup de grace, their report cards.

Speaking of outings, it was a gay time recently for the pep squad, cheerleaders, majorettes and sponsors at Ouachita Parish Junior High School. They went over to Chemin-A-Haut, near Bastrop, and from all accounts, had a ball.

UAW Chief Picks GMC As Target

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers Vice President Leonard Woodcock said Saturday he wants the union to again pick General Motors as its strike target in the auto negotiations this summer.

Woodcock told a news conference that delegates to the union's GM council supported this stand and he will urge the UAW executive board to select GM as the pattern-setting firm in the 1964 talks.

But Woodcock, who bargains for 354,000 workers at 131 GM plants, said the executive board will not select a target until the talks "are well down the road" — meaning a decision probably in late August.

The 256-member GM council spent the past three days hammering out the bargaining program to be used when negotiations with the world's largest manufacturer begin July 1.

UAW negotiations with Ford and Chrysler also begin the same week but the union has traditionally singled out one firm in each round of talks as its main target—then applied the settlement there to the other companies. The last time in 1961 GM set the pattern for Chrysler and Ford.

Woodcock said in-plant working conditions would be a major issue at all three companies in 1964.

"I am positive there will be no settlement unless there are improvements in working conditions," he said. "They (the workers) can't be bought off this time with an economic package."

Woodcock said there are more working condition problems at GM than at Ford and Chrysler. He said disputes over production standards are difficult to settle because of the great variety of models and options on the same assembly lines.

In addition, he said, GM has "scrambled" its plants so that Buicks, Oldsmobiles, Pontiacs and Chevrolets are "indiscriminately mixed up."

Woodcock also said GM has "not lived up to" settlements of these production disputes and he proposed that procedures be changed to prevent this in the future.

The goal of the union, he said, would be to "humanize conditions in GM plants."

German Reds Release Editor Jailed As 'Spy'

BERLIN (UPI)—Communist East Germany Saturday announced the release of labor union editor Heinz Brandt, who was tried secretly and jailed three years ago as a Western spy.

But the 55-year-old Brandt did not return to West Berlin immediately and it was thought the Communists might have refused to allow him to leave East German territory.

Brandt, an East German who fled to the West in 1958, had been editor of Metall, the publication of the West German Metalworkers' Union.

In 1961, he disappeared on a trip to East Berlin and four days later the East German government announced his arrest on charges of espionage.

He was sentenced to 13 years in prison at a secret trial. Saturday, the East German news agency ADN said Brandt had been granted clemency and released from prison.

No grounds were given for Brandt's release.

"TAKE HER, SHE'S MINE'

Comedy Completes Theatre's Season

By JOHN CALE
Staff Critic

The vehicle comedy, "Take Her, She's Mine," opened Friday at Strauss Playhouse for a six-day split run to cover this and the upcoming weekends. In other words, there's a performance tonight, then the play will reopen Friday for three more showings. Curtain time will be 8:15 p.m. in all cases.

This production marks the final one for the local theatre's regular season, although big things are in the offing for the summer. Directors Richard Clark and George Brian will join forces for a summer theatre festival, representing the fifth of such collaborations between Little Theatre of Monroe and Northeast State College.

The big attraction is the musical, "My Fair Lady," slated for a July 24 opening. There will also be a children's production, "Simple Simon."

VEHICLE

Now that we've gone out on a limb with the words "vehicle comedy" a few paragraphs back, we've either got to scratch the word "vehicle" or clarify it.

Let it stand! Art Carney starred as Frank Michaelson in the Broadway production which opened back in December, 1961. And while the play also launched Elizabeth Ashley of Baton Rouge to stardom, it's obvious that "Take Her, She's Mine" was built to make full use of Carney's talent as a top flight comedian.

Now comes the test question for all provincial critics, onlookers and those who read and ponder: how does the vehicle operate when driven by attractive and talented townspeople in amateur theatres over the nation, that is, when Art Carney and Elizabeth Ashley are not taking turns in the driver's seat?

Well, the opening night audience found it entertaining. The script by Phoebe and Henry Ephron had many laugh-provoking lines and situations, and Beryl and Nancy Franklin, a veteran Little Theatre couple taking the part of Mr. and Mrs. Michaelson, gave the piece a genuinely homey touch.

Barbara Borgkvist and Margaret Doyle, as daughters Mollie and Liz Michaelson, respectively — both relative newcomers to Little Theatre — looked like sisters, which is something to be thought of in casting a play of this type.

Signifciant roles out of the 17 parts listed on the program were also played by Arthur Griffith, Bill Wells, Paul Wank, Janvrin Evans and Marie Pitts.

TENSION

One of these days, when there's time and money for unlimited runs, we'll be able to review plays on scheduled closing nights and say they're so good until they'll play several extra weeks. But right now, we'll take the situation as is; go on opening night, and hope the prospective audiences will find a point of interest or two among the verbal chips as they fall where they may.

Aside from the roles of Mr. and Mrs. Michaelson, there was a tension we can't quite single out, during the entire initial presentation. There were a great number of scene changes (someone said 17 during Act I), which limited the players to very small spaces on the stage. These were attractively designed, but there was hardly time for sufficient dramatic development before the lights went down and another set was moved in from one side or the other. This was comparable to the busy night in the freight yards when one hobo remarked to his companion, "The boxcars are restless tonight."

The sound system also gave trouble in a scene where two college couples were out dancing, a spot where no critic worth his salt can afford to leave out the needle. Neither can a phonograph operator.

BRIGHTER SPOT

But there was better atmosphere all around in the scene in which Paul Wank as Professor Hibbitts discussed modern English poetry during fathers' day on the campus. This was not only a good satire on poetry and lectures on such matters, but brought out some fine cooperation between Franklin and Miss Borgkvist as a father-daughter team.

It might be mentioned here that these two members of the cast, who carried the play's heaviest parts, also sensed and carried out the necessary shadings of character development. Miss Borgkvist characterized situations all the way from a spoof on college girl sophistication to near level-headedness, while Franklin ranged from high-flown "head-of-the-house" advice to middle-aged resignation.

We believe several of the weaknesses in the comedy were due to lack of imagination on the part of the writers rather than anything that occurred — or failed to happen — locally.

For example, the younger sister, played by pretty Margaret Doyle, just would not remain so completely in the background until the closing scenes of Act II, when she burst in with the announcement that she, also, would soon be going to college. Families just do not so function.

Also the character Emmett, the boy a year younger than Millie Michaelson and so aptly played by Bill Wells, would have hardly been able to get caught in such a situation as he did with an older sister and then come back to the same family to date the younger one — not locally or anywhere else.

Generally, "Take Her, She's Mine," is an enjoyable and colorful sequence of short vignettes about a family with two daughters, each reaching college age. We predict the many scenes will knit together more smoothly as the run continues.

LBJ, Sen. Byrd Agree On Bulbs

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—President Johnson said Saturday Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, agrees with the President's most widely publicized economy move—turning off the lights at the White House.

Johnson, in a brief address to a crowd of well-wishers at Woodrum Airport, said he and Byrd had conversed on the plane during the trip from Washington.

Byrd, a strong advocate of governmental economy, expressed his agreement during their talks, Johnson said.

HATS NO MORE

"Some cheeky blighters actually bagged my bowlers and then asked me to autograph them," he said. "It's too much."

Singer Marries Former Secretary

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Twice-widowed singer Lauritz Melchior, 74, married Saturday his former secretary, Mary Markham, 40, in a poolside ceremony at his estate atop the Hollywood hills.

The Danish-born groom and his pretty bride wore Danish wedding clothes, and the huge wedding cake was a gift of the California Danish community of Solvang.

Lutheran pastor Franz Oluf Lund performed the ceremony. Actress Jane Powell sang.

Five hundred guests were invited to the wedding and the reception.

. . . Yet both charge practically the same rates

The investor-owned electric companies manage to keep their rates low, even though they don't get the subsidies which REA Co-ops get. For example: Investor-owned companies have to pay about 4½% interest for money they borrow; REA co-ops borrow money from the federal government at 2%, for which the government has to pay about 4%. Investor-owned companies contribute their full share of taxes; the REA Co-ops pay no federal income tax and pay only token local and state taxes. The investor-owned companies' rates are regulated by a state commission or municipality; the REA Co-ops' rates are not.

At Northeast State, she is an honor student, reporter for the Honor Society, 1964 - 65 float chairman for Beta Sigma, and plays flute in the NLSC Band.

Italian Demos Warned By Pope Of Intervention

ROME (UPI)—Pope Paul VI indirectly warned Premier Aldo Moro's Christian Democrat party Saturday against too much state intervention in the economy and against using public office for private gain.

The warning came in a letter written on the Pope's behalf by Vatican Secretary of State Amleto Cardinal Cicognani to the "36th Social Week of Italian Catholics," an annual study meeting.

The letter, dated May 14 and made public Saturday, came at a time when Moro was under heavy pressure from his socialist government partners to carry out major reforms.

The letter did not mention specifically the government or any political party, but discussed Italy's problems in a general way in the light of the encyclicals of the late Pope John XXIII and of other papal documents.

The letter said direct intervention of public authorities would become "a duty" only "if the energies of private individuals or groups proved insufficient to achieve certain goals needed for the common welfare, or if they were unwilling to subordinate themselves to the proper extent to the requirements of general interest."

In an indirect reference to a recent wave of civil service scandals in Italy, the letter said office holders must be educated "never to act in a partisan spirit or with selfish goals to the advantage of particular interests or persons, in order to remove possible dangers or incentives of public immorality."

Red Terrorist Fails To Bomb Bar In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — A terrorist threw a grenade at a Saigon bar crowded with American servicemen early this morning but it bounced off the window and exploded harmlessly outside.

The grenade exploded on the sidewalk outside of "Rainbow Bar near an American enlisted men's barracks building, police sources reported.

It was thrown to go through the bar window but it bounded off a protective wire screen and on to the sidewalk, smashing the glass window and the screen but not harming anyone inside, police said.

The metal door on a office across the street was punctured by metal fragments.

About ten Americans were in the bar at the time of the explosion. Most of them were still there half an hour later.

American military policemen raced to the scene.

A company of U.S. military policemen arrived in Saigon Saturday morning to provide additional security for Americans here.

DALLAS (UPI) — Dist. Judge Joe B. Brown will meet Monday with prosecutors and defense attorneys to discuss a sanity hearing for Jack Ruby, condemned to death for the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald.

Bishop To Address Northeast Grads

The Most Rev. Charles P. Greco, Bishop of the Alexandria Diocese of the Roman Catholic Church, will deliver the baccalaureate address at Northeast Louisiana State College here on June 6.

Baccalaureate exercises for the spring graduating class are scheduled for 10 a. m. in Brown Auditorium on the campus. Commencement exercises will be held at 6:30 p.m. on the same date at Brown Stadium, weather permitting. In case of inclement weather the exercises will be moved to Brown Auditorium.

Bishop Greco holds the distinction of being the first member of the Episcopacy of the Catholic Church to be named Supreme Chaplain of the Knights of Columbus since the fraternal order was organized in 1882. He was also distinctly honored by Papal appointment as Consultant of the Preparatory Committee of the Ecumenical Council.

A native of Mississippi, Bishop Greco received his primary education at Blessed Mother Francil Cabrini's School and in the College of the Immaculate Conception, both in New Orleans.

His early training for the priesthood was obtained at St. Joseph's Seminary at St. Benedict and Jefferson College in Convent.

He undertook major studies in Belgium at the American College of Louvain, but the ravages of World War I compelled him to flee to Italy. He remained there for five months before concluding his studies for the priesthood at the University of Fribourg in Switzerland.

Returning to the United States in 1918, he first served as an assistant pastor of St. Francis DeSalles Church in Houma. He became first vice - chancellor of the Archdiocese of New Orleans in 1923 and was later elevated to the chancellorship.

In 1926, he became administrator and pastor of St. Maurice's Church in New Orleans, a post he held for some 13 years. He also served a brief term as pastor of Our Lady of Lourdes Church in the same city.

During his approximately 20 years in New Orleans, his service included various posts of the matrimonial court, the editorship of Catholic Action in the South, and vicar general of the archdiocese.

Consecrated as Bishop of Alexandria in 1946, he has amassed a record as a builder. Primarily responsible for St. Francis Cabrini Hospital inl Alexandria, he has been instrumental in renovation and expansion of Catholic hospital facilities in Monroe and Shreveport.

Earlier this month, Bishop Greco was here to dedicate the new Newman Club house at Northeast State.

Dirksen Refuses To Name Choice

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., refused Saturday as a delegate to the Republican National Convention to commit himself to any presidential candidate but said Sen. Barry Goldwater commanded attention.

"I'm not insensible to the fact that Goldwater got a substantial vote in the Illinois presidential preference primary," Dirksen said in a joint news conference with William E. Miller, of New York, Republican national chairman.

"This becomes somewhat persuasive," Dirksen said.

D-Day Plus 20
A Conversation with Dwight D. Eisenhower

Twenty years ago history changed its course as the Allies made a supreme and successful assault on fortress Europe.

The decisions leading up to D-Day were the terrible responsibility of one man, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Supreme Commander of the Allied invasion forces.

Now, two decades later, Eisenhower goes back to the scenes of the invasion, his command post, the beaches. He relives those fateful days; takes another look at what happened. And what might have happened.

Starting June 7, you can read his thoughts… in the perspective of time, including many details never before told. Why did Eisenhower at first postpone the Normandy invasion? Why did he decide to go ahead and make "the best of a bad bargain?" What was he thinking during the long waiting hours after his moment of decision? Why did he prefer Alexander over Montgomery as British Commander? How did Hitler's intuition almost wreck D-Day? What worried Ike most? And what if the invasion had failed?

Here, in 16 parts, is a revealing conversation with a man who shaped history. General Eisenhower's own reflections on his momentous D-Day decisions.

Decisions that affected all our lives.

TOO SCARED TO CROW

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Ray McKinney and his family drove from their McKee, Ky., farm in the family truck to visit relatives here.

When they arrived, they found Whitey, their 6-year-old rooster, clinging with feathers ruffled to the truck's undercarriage.

"We didn't hear a crow out of him," McKinney said after the [illegible]80-mile drive.

British Beef May Become Status Mark

LONDON (AP)—A prominent Labor party member of Parliament said Saturday that with the rising cost of beef in Britain, steak soon would become a status symbol along with "a Rolls-Royce or a mink coat."

George Wigg called the Conservative government inept in its handling of the meat crisis which has seen prices spiraling in recent weeks, with prime steaks costing up to 14 shillings —$1.95—a pound.

Wigg forecast that beef prices would shoot up even higher and said:

"We shall probably hear Sir Alec Marie Antoinette Home telling the electorate that beef is not good for them but that Conservative freedom has guaranteed ample supplies of smoked salmon and caviar."

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home is leading his Conservative government followers in a gradually developing campaign aimed at the general elections in October.

Tom Pasker, president of the National Federation of Meat Traders, urged housewives not to panic.

The Ministry of Agriculture said it was keeping a close eye on the situation. Agriculture Minister Christopher Soames has given up a Mediterranean vacation to keep in touch with the problem.

Soames was asked Saturday by the Caterers' Association of Britain to restrict the export of meat to the Continent until adequate supplies are available for the home market.

Europe Skeptical Of Assassination

LONDON (UPI) — Widespread skepticism persists in Europe — on both sides of the Iron Curtain — whether the "pure facts" have been or will ever be revealed on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Scarcely a day passes, six months after the event, that some new version or theory is advanced in a European newspaper, magazine, lecture or broadcast.

Except for the activities of two Americans who actively promote the now-it-can't-be-told hypotheses on Kennedy's death, the confusion and perplexity do not seem to be centrally organized.

The two Americans, on a seeming perpetual lecture and writing tour of Europe, are New York lawyer Mark Lane and ex-Communist Thomas Buchanan, now working for a consultative engineering firm in Paris. They maintain that the Kennedy assassination was part of the story.

This weekend, virtually every newspaper in Europe published an American photograph taken on the day of Kennedy's assassination purporting to show that a man looking like Oswald was on the street in a Dallas crowd the moment Kennedy was shot.

Buried in the story accompanying the photograph was the statement that the picture had checked out and the man circled was not Oswald at all.

(In Dallas, Billy Lovelady, an employe of the Texas Schoolbook depository building, identified himself Saturday as the "man-in-the-doorway" in the photo taken a second after President Kennedy was shot. Some newspapers had identified him as Oswald).

Such widespread publication of a photograph admitted to be not what it claimed highlights the festering suspicion that all has not been told of the assassination.

For different reasons, the suspicion extends from Russia through Communist-ruled Eastern Europe and across the Iron Curtain into Western Europe with its free press.

Kennedy's assassination is kept alive in Moscow by publication of comment from abroad suggesting the death was the result of an organized plot.

The Soviet press carefully has refrained from expressing a direct opinion to question the official American version.

U.S. Revising Asia Targets For Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)) — The United States presumably is beginning revision of its strategic target list for Red Asia as the time approaches for new, long-range missiles to come into the active arsenal.

It is coincidental, but nevertheless important, that this occurs as the United States is confronted with deepening danger in Laos and growing difficulties in Viet Nam — with the basic source of trouble in Red China.

Revision of target lists to reassign targets as new or additional long-range missiles and aircraft become available is customary. This is done by the Joint Strategic Target Planning Group, an Air Force-Navy organization, at the Omaha headquarters of the Strategic Air Command.

Two developments now dictate revision of the target plan list for the Eastern Hemisphere:

1. By the end of this year, a squadron of Polaris missile submarines will be deployed in the far western Pacific.

2. By the latter half of next year the Air Force expects the first of the new Minuteman II intercontinental ballistic missiles to be poised in launching silos in the United States—with range to reach targets in Red China.

Until recently, the great proportion of the targets on the list for missiles have been the Soviet Union and its neighboring satellites.

There are several apparent reasons for this, among them (a) Russia is the major immediate missile-bomber threat to the United States (b) the profitable strategic targets in China are fewer in number (c) the strategic weapons for possible use against China up to now have been comparatively limited.

U2 planes like those used in photo missions over Cuba are flown by pilots of the Nationalist Chinese government, taking off from fields in Taiwan and overflying Red China. Other Nationalist jets also make sweeps into the mainland.

SOUTHEAST ASIAN CRISIS

Reds Threats May Bring U.S. Forces

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Communist threat this week to Southeast Asia brought a grim warning of possible U.S. military intervention.

American jet reconnaissance planes kept around - the - clock checks on the Red - Chinese-backed Communist Pathet Lao attack which breached a 1962, 14-nation Geneva pact guaranteeing Laotian neutrality. Red China and Russia were among the pact's signatories.

More than 15,000 American soldiers already are committed to a costly anti-Communist war in neighboring South Viet Nam which, like Laos and Cambodia, is coveted by Red China.

U.S. withdrawal would open the rich storehouse all of East Asia to possible Communist conquest.

President Johnson sought to end the crisis through diplomatic channels and the United Nations. But he made it clear that Laotian neutrality would be protected at whatever cost. He was weighing whether to send the Seventh Fleet and stand-by troops to Thailand adjacent to Laos as President John F. Kennedy did in similar circumstances two years ago.

United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, recalled hastily from Europe, placed the U.S. case before the U.N. Security Council with suggestions for a U.N. peace-keeping role in all of the area which was once French Indochina.

He warned that "the United States cannot stand by while Southeast Asia is overrun by armed aggression." And he rejected demands by Russia, Red China and France that the Geneva conference, which set up the present countries and guaranteed their neutrality, be reconvened.

"What is needed," Stevenson declared, "is to respect and honor agreements already made." He added that there was fighting in Viet Nam and Laos because the Communists had systematically violated the Geneva pact. Then he quoted Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that every nation's territorial integrity must be made secure.

In Congress the House Foreign Affairs Committee unanimously approved President Johnson's request for an extra $125 million to beef up the war in South Viet Nam. It also approved in full his new $3.4 foreign aid authorization bill which carries more Viet Nam funds.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara told the committee the U.S. "must do what is necessary" to protect all of Southeast Asia.

Former President Harry S. Truman once said "you can't trust the Russians."

The State Department gave those words some substance by disclosing that more than 40 Soviet eavesdropping devices had been dug out of the walls of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. They apparently were planted in the Stalin era in 1952 before the remodeled building was turned over to the United States in 1953.

The department was not sure whether sensitive state secrets had been compromised. But it noted that American personnel at many posts act on the assumption their offices or homes might be bugged.

Some of the devices were dead. Others were very much alive. U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler lodged a stiff protest with the Russian Foreign Office. It promised to investigate.

CORE Woman Disrupts Meet Of Republicans

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A woman member of the Congress of Racial Equality disrupted Republican State Convention proceedings Saturday when she sat on the floor in the vestibule of the Milwaukee arena and refused to move.

Mrs. Lee Zeldin, an official of the Madison, Wis., CORE chapter, dropped to the floor just outside the convention hall after George Greeley of Madison, the convention's executive secretary, pulled a guest ticket from her dress and ordered her to leave the building.

Mrs. Zeldin refused to budge and Greeley summoned two sergeants-at-arms and directed them to remove her. The sergeants, one of them Sheriff Roger Reinel of Jefferson County, did not immediately carry out Greeley's order and a crowd gathered around the sitting woman. She was still there when the convention ended.

Some 20 CORE demonstrators, all of them from Madison, had obtained guest tickets to the convention. But when they tried to enter the hall with placards calling for civil rights legislation, Greeley had the door barred.

GOP Of Illinois Names Delegates For Convention

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois Republicans in a glow of harmony selected 10 delegates at large to their national convention Saturday at least six of whom are counted as backers of Sen. Barry Goldwater for the GOP presidential nomination.

Two threatened floor fights failed to develop at the state convention after Charles H. Percy, nominee for governor, called for unity among Republicans.

Goldwater leaders were elated by the choices and predicted all 10 delegates will cast their first ballots for the Arizona senator.

"Selection by the convention of these outstanding pro-Goldwater delegates is practical recognition of the grass roots Goldwater strength in Illinois," said U.S. Rep. Edward J. Derwinski of Chicago, Goldwater for President chairman in Illinois.

Goldwater banners and placards were the only signs in evidence at the state armory session attended by more than 3,000 persons.

Thirty of the 48 national convention delegates elected in the April primary already have pledged their votes to Goldwater.

Before the convention opened, State Rep. William Robinson, of Chicago, a Negro, said an attempt would be made on the floor to name a Negro as an at-large delegate.

However, when names of the delegates were read at the convention there were no dissenting votes.

LBJ CALLS FOR CLOSER TIES

President, Ike Pay Tribute To Gen. George Marshall

By FRANK CORMIER

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP) — President Johnson, joining former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in honoring the memory of Gen. George C. Marshall, called Saturday for new efforts to forge closer ties with Communist-controlled Eastern Europe.

Johnson and Eisenhower shared a sun-bathed platform at Virginia Military Institute to dedicate the $600,000-Marshall Research Library.

The white stone building houses the papers and mementos of Marshall, the VMI grad who was Army chief of staff in World War II and both secretary of state and secretary of defense in the postwar years.

Johnson keyed his address before an audience of 10,000 to Marshall's original proposal that the "Marshall Plan" for the reconstruction of Europe be applied to both sides of the Iron Curtain — an idea rejected by the Communists.

The President said the United States works to carry on Marshall's vision of a single European civilization.

He said this country will "continue to build bridges across the gulf which has divided us from Eastern Europe." And he said these will be "bridges of increased trade, of ideas, of visitors and of humanitarian aid."

Eisenhower who served under Marshall as Allied commander in Europe during the war, said the Marshall papers collected here "will tell future generations what those of us who were privileged to serve with him have long known — here was truly a great man."

Former President Harry S. Truman had planned to be present but stayed home in Missouri on doctor's orders. General of the Army Omar Bradley read a Truman tribute to Marshall as "one of the outstanding men of the 20th century."

Johnson, in calling for new ties with the Communist satellite countries of Europe, said the leadership of Truman, Eisenhower and President John F. Kennedy has given America "the strength and self-confidence to follow a course based on hope rather than hostility—on opportunity rather than fear."

He said that the goal of making better neighbors of all European countries "will not be achieved by dramatic deed."

But he said "the nations of Eastern Europe are beginning to reassert our own identity.

"There is no longer a single Iron Curtain. There are many. Each differs in strength and thickness — in the light that can pass through it and the hopes that can prosper behind it," he added.

Against this backdrop, Johnson predicted "the years to come will see us draw closer to Marshall's bold design that at any time" since the general proposed the Marshall Plan.

Johnson said the United States will promote stronger ties with Eastern Europe "within the framework of our unalterable commitment to the defense of Europe and the reunification of Germany."

Indeed, he said, "skillful development of relationships with the nations of Eastern Europe can speed the day when Germany will be reunited."

U Thant Plans To Ask Longer Stay In Cyprus

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant was reported Saturday to be planning to ask the Security Council to double the life of the U.N. peacekeeping force in Cyprus.

The council set up the force for a three-month period that ends June 27.

They said he so informed countries in the operation Friday, and asked if they would continue to participate.

Thant had a private meeting with delegates from the nine countries — Britain, Canada, Denmark, Finland, Ireland, Sweden, Australia, Austria and New Zealand.

He was said to have told them he had an optimistic report on Cyprus from his special representative there, Galo Plaza Lasso, who passed through New York this week on a short trip home to Ecuador.

Thant said Plaza told him some fortifications had already been dismantled in Cyprus and all the roads were clear, except one through the Krenia Pass.

ELECTRIC CO-OPS

REVENUE PER MILE OF LINE
(FIGURES AS OF 1962)

A Tiny Spark of Competition Keeps Your Power Bills Low

Nationally, Electric Cooperatives gross only $460 per mile of lines, compared to $7,164 a mile on power company lines. In Louisiana, the four power companies enjoy 97% of the retail business—plus 100% monopoly of wholesale power sales. Still, they are unhappy!

WHEN MONOPOLY RULES BOTH THE MARKET AND SOURCE OF SUPPLY, YOU CAN'T TELL IF YOUR PRICE IS RIGHT.

Non-profit Electric Co-ops provide the only spark of healthy competition—the only "yardstick"— in Louisiana to assure you of fair power rates.

That, in a nutshell, is what the critics of Electric Co-ops are unhappy about.

VIEWS DISCUSSED

Baptists Remain Split On Issues

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Baptist leaders from seven denominations reaffirmed their disagreement over major issues Saturday in an unprecedented forum before 10,000 members of the denomination.

Opposing views were aired by a panel of 20 clergymen as part of a program celebrating the 150th anniversary of the Baptist organization in North America.

Racial issues provoked debate as some of the clergymen objected to a pamphlet on Baptist views.

"Only four lines were devoted to race relations," said the Rev. Jituso Morikawa of Valley Forge, Pa., evangelism director for the American Baptist Convention—the Northern group.

A Negro panelist, the Rev. C. T. Epps of Jersey City, N.J., agreed that more should have been said on racial issues. But another Negro clergyman, the Rev. C. M. Smith of Philadelphia, defended the pamphlet, composed by a special committee.

"There are certain issues the committee felt it did not have to put into print if we could get the message into the hearts and lives of Baptist people," the Rev. Smith said.

A Southern Baptist, Dr. Theodore Adams of Richmond, Va., said, "we have our differences as Baptists but we are one in Jesus Christ."

A joint committee of the seven denominations presented a report urging every Christian "to involve himself in the struggle against the social evils of our day."

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Use Of Ouachita Library Is Growing

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The use of the Ouachita Parish Public Library is growing every day and the book collection is growing with it. This week there are a number of new titles. Probably the most interesting book of fiction for our readers is "And Wait For the Night" by John William Corrington. This is a story of the Civil War and reconstruction based in Shreveport and Vicksburg. Although this is not a great novel, it will have much local interest. "I Was Dancing" is the title of the latest book by Edwin O'Conner. It is a family novel and brings out the conflict between the different generations. "An Honorable Estate" by Lane Kauffman is a family novel, which should be extremely popular. There are many features which will appeal to different types of readers. "Fight Night on a Sweet Saturday" is the title of Mary Lee Settle's latest novel about the West Virginia hill country. Those who have read "O Beaulah Land" and "Know Nothing' will not want to miss this.

There are a number of non-fiction titles which also make good reading. "How to Marry Someone You Can Live With All Your Life" by Leland E. Glover is a thoughtful book, which all young people should read. "The Masks of God" by Joseph Campbell is a very fine discussion of Oriental mythology. For the man or woman interested in the stock market "The Strategic Investor" by Douglas Bellemore should be most valuable. Any person who has had trouble with spelling, should see Norman Lewis's new book, "Correct Spelling Made Easy."

This week theres a number of new books in the science field. This is a section in which the library desperately needs books. "Thinking Machines" by Irving Adler is an introduction to logic, Boolean Algebra and computers for the layman. A similar book is "Computers and How They Work" by James Fahnestock. "The Riddle of Time" written by Thelma and Corydon Bellis a very fine study of time and metods of computing it. "The Magic of Rays" by Johannes Dogigli is an interesting addition to the physics shelf. "All About Tropical Fish" by Derek McInerny will be most useful to our many patrols who have this hobby. "New Paths in Biology" by Adolf Portmann is a very useful book for the student and the interested layman. Another lovely volume in the Life nature library is "The Mammals" written by Richard Carrington. This book is profusely illustrated and will fill a definite place. "Tennis, the Professional Way" by Alan Tengrove contains much useful advice for tennis players.

There are also a number of additions to the literature shelf this week. "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder is one of the classics of the American theater. "Collected Poems" by Robert Hillyer is a fine collection by one of the outstanding modern American poets. Another collection of poems by a modern poet is "Collected Poems, 1930-1960" by Richard Eberhart. There are two other collections of poems by modern American poets, "Selected Poems" of Robert Aiken and "To Ireland With Love" by Alice Boyd Stockdale. The student of the American novel will want to read "Form and Fable in American fiction" by Daniel G. G. Hoffman. "The Family book of Verse" edited by Lewis Gannett is a collection which will be widely used. "Resistance, Rebellion and Death" is a book of essays written by Albert Camus, the great modern French writer. Another worthy addition to the literature collection is a two volume set of the dialogues of Plato and last of all there is a very fine book by the Chinese philosopher, Lin Yutang called "The Importance of Understanding.

There are a number of excellent additions to the reference collection this week. "The Dictionary of National Biography, Parts 1 and 2" is an abbreviated edition of this fine standard reference work. This set will be most useful to students. Three of the new reference books are in the field of genealogy. They are: "The Rohrbough Family by Fred Ware Rohrbough; "Records of Emigrants from England to North Carolina," edited by A. R. Newsome and "The History of Orange County Virginia" by William Wallace Scott.

Bookmobile patrons are reminded that the bookmobiles will not operate this week and that the summer schedules will go into effect next Monday. If you do not have a copy of the summer schedule, please call the library and we will mail one to you.

School Library To Get Papers From Stevenson

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson, U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations and twice the Democratic presidential candidate, announced Saturday that he is giving a large portion of his personal papers to Princeton University.

Stevenson, 64, diplomat and statesman, who graduated from Princeton in 1922, already has turned over more than 100 file drawers of his papers to the university. The collection will be housed permanently in Princeton's Firestone Library.

The documents, which include the record of Stevenson's unsuccessful campaigns for the presidency in 1952 and 1956, will form part of Princeton's newly created Center for Studies in Twentieth Century American Statecraft and Public Policy.

Announced two weeks ago, the project is designed to stimulate study by scholars in the development of American foreign and domestic policy. Bernard M. Baruch also announced at that time that he would present his papers to Princeton.

Stevenson said in a statement to university officials that the papers will be available on a restricted basis.

"Access to the papers during my life time," he said, "will be by consent of the university librarian and myself."

The former governor of Illinois added that many of his papers were being sorted in Illinois, some to be given to Princeton and the remainder to be kept there.

Many Shades Of Red

ON DEALING WITH THE COMMUNISTS. By George F. Kennan. Harper. $3.

Diplomat Kennan is engaged here in a process of clearing the air of a good many notions about the nature of the Communist world, which he believes are erroneous, out of date, dangerous or all three.

In discussing coexistence, for example, he asserts that a get-tough, we-or-they policy would not have worked 30 or 20 years ago, and is even unthinkable in the new era of nuclear weapons. He believes it is dangerous for many Americans to retain the attitude that co-existence is still a debatable policy.

Kennan also makes the point that there are many shades of the color red, citing the old Stalinism of Russia, the home-grown varities of Communism in Poland, Yugoslavia and Albania, and the new, militant Marxism of China.

In fact, he finds the term "Communist" has so many meanings that he says in his foreword that there ought to be a ban against using it.

This little book is composed of three Elihu Root Lectures which the author gave last year, under the sponsorhip of the Council on Foreign Relations. The crux of his presentation lies in the way he analyzes the West's possible maneuvers in the presence of differences among the reds and pinks.

Essays Merit 2 Readings

THE CART AND THE HORSE. By Louis Kronenberger. Knopf. $4.95.

Kronenberger is a man whose type is found rarely these days.

He is an intellectual in the true sense, and not in the debased coinage of that word, which so often has been used with a sneer. Furthermore, he is a writer who feels no need to "write down" to his reader; to use a fashionable term, he "communicates" in a polished prose, assuming that his audience will appreciate his wit as well as his clarity.

His vehicle is the essay, a form once great, which seems to have faded into a low estate, and to be languishing somewhere between the articles of the mass magazines and the academic jargon of the too-self-conscious esthetes. His essays are a fine combination of the form's two essential — cogent observations, expressed in a language that is a tonic to the mind.

He writes about American culture of the present era, on the theme that the leaders "who should know better" do not necessarily live up to that tenet. He begins with the premise that "What seems to me socially, culturally, humanly amiss in American life as a whole is its way of jumbling values."

So he examines the upsidedown values, the self-deception, the worship of giantism, the craving for status, the erosion of personal ethics. He finds Main Street's Babbiett has been replaced by Madison Avenue's New Babbitt.

He examines the flaws of the academy and of writers' motives. And in "Reflections and Complaints of Late Middle Age" (a fascinating essay which of course goes far beyond the understatement of its title) he ponders in all good humor such propositions as "Good sense is not, at the moment, a conspicious American trait."

Kronenberger delights in the right word, the striking phrase, the clean stroke of insight, the apt characterization, the turn of phrase which sounds a sterling bell.

RETURNS TO CAIRO

Tired Khrushchev Lightens Program

CAIRO (AP)—Premier Khrushchev returned to Cairo Saturday night to put last minute touches to a final communique before the end of his crowd-pleasing but tiring 17-day tour of Egypt. He leaves for Moscow Monday by plane.

Khrushchev, showing increasing signs of strain and fatigue, cut the last days of his official program to a bare minimum.

The Soviet leader and his party traveled to the capital from the Mediterranean seaport of Alexandria by train for a day of rest today.

A scheduled stop at a textile factory on the return journey to Cairo as well as a visit to a steel plant were canceled.

The last remaining piece of work was the official communique of the visit, already reported drawn up and agreed on by aides of Khrushchev and his host, President Gamal Abdel leaders.

The communique was expected to be a statement of harmony that would ignore areas of reported friction in the series of private talks between the two leader.

The two men carried on their public debate during the visit over Nasser's Pan-Arab unity campaign. Khrushchev criticized it as narrowly nationalistic and took the opportunity to propagate class struggle doctrines.

Khrushchev was reported to have failed in efforts to persuade Nasser to soften opposition to domestic Communists. The Egyptian strongman jailed most Communists in 1958 and only recently released them.

Nasser also was reported to have resisted Khrushchev's recommendations to turn his ruling party into a proletariat organization.

The sensitive subject of Soviet economic aid also was said to have presented obstacles to complete harmony.

CLIMAX, Colo. (AP)— The stillness of the snow-topped Rockies was shaken Saturday by an explosion described as the biggest underground mining blast ever staged in this country.

The detonation was designed to break loose over a million tons of molybdenite ore and drop it 600 feet into an area of the Climax Molybdenum Co. mine known as the "Glory Hole."

Nearly a half million pounds of explosives were used in the blast in 12,000-foot Bartlett Mountain about 100 miles west of Denver.

Several thousand spectators crowded on a mountain ledge to watch the blast from a distance of more than two miles. The sound was muffled because of the underground location but a black dust cloud rocketed 1,500 feet into the air.

The explosion went off without a hitch, said officials of Climax and the Dupont Co. explosives division, who claimed it was the largest U.S. mining blast.

The Colorado mine is one of the world's largest sources of molybdenum, which is used chiefly in hardening steel.

Although the blast was over in two-tenths of a second, three months of round-the-clock mining was expected to be required to process the ore it broke loose.

Sargeant York Begins To Heal, Hospital Says

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Veterans Hospital officials here said Saturday Sgt. Alvin York was in "satisfactory" condition.

The 76-year-old Congressional Medal of Honor winner was admitted to the hospital early Friday suffering from "bleeding of the kidney" according to his personal physician Dr. C. S. Allred, Jamestown.

Dr. Carter Williams, Veterans Hospital administrator, said "Sgt. York had a comfortable night. He is resting well and taking nourishment. His temperature is normal and his condition is satisfactory."

Williams said Friday the old soldier's bleeding had been and no emergency surgery or other emergency procedure was contemplated.

He said York would remain in the hospital for "a few days" to rest up following a rugged schedule of examinations and would be under close observation.

The World War I hero has fought a continuing battle against pain and illness since 1949. He has been bed-ridden since he was the victim of a crippling stroke in 1954.

Sgt. York won the Medal of Honor when he killed 25 Germans and captured 132 others singlehandedly at the Argonne Forest Oct. 8, 1918.

DR. W. A. WALKER

Professor Here Is Selected To Prepare Book

Dr. William A. Walker, professor of history at Northeast Louisiana State College, has been selected by a leading educational publisher to prepare a students' and instructors' handbook to accompany its world history text.

Dr. Walker was notified the past week by the College Editorial Department of Scott, Foresman and Co. that he has been chosen to collaborate with authors Dr. T. Walter Wallbank, professor of history at the University of Southern California, and Dr. Alastair M. Taylor, lecturer at the University of Edinburg, who are now preparing the fifth edition of "Civilization Past and Present."

This is a two - volume college and university text which has pioneered in the effort to create a meaningful synthesis of all phases of man's experience. It has enjoyed an immense and international popularity, having been widely adopted in all English - speaking countries, and has served as a model for other authors and publishers since World War II.

Walker will be responsible for the preparation of "Studying Civilization: A Guide to World History and Its Implications," Volume II, an educational aid and consisting of chapter outlines and summaries, map exercises, reading selections designed to illuminate the text, and study questions intended to focus attention on basic facts and concepts.

Walker has served as editorial consultant for the same company in an earlier revision of "Civilization Past and Present" and also during the planning stage of the current revision, has authored historical writings for several scholarly journals of history, and has assisted in the compilation of the "Littlefield Basic Documents" collection for United States history.

He was awarded the doctorate by the University of Texas and has been a member of the history faculty at Northeast State since 1955.

Mrs. Kennedy, Family To Meet For JFK Exhibit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and other members of the late President's family will meet in New York Monday night for a private opening of the John F. Kennedy Exhibit.

The exhibit containing papers and mementoes of Kennedy will open to the public Tuesday and later will be sent on a tour of 22 other cities.

Later, when the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library at Harvard is finished, it will be placed there.

In a foreword to a booklet on the exhibit, Mrs. Kennedy said her husband had looked forward to retiring to his library at the end of his time in Washington.

"Now he will not see the building to be erected in his name," she wrote. "But his parents and brothers and sisters and I all look on it as his most fitting memorial."

In perhaps the first public commentary on her husband since his assassination last Nov. 22, Mrs. Kennedy wrote:

"John Kennedy believed so strongly that one's aim should not be the most comfortable life possible—but that we should all do something to right the wrongs we see—and not just complain about them. We owe that to our country, and our country will suffer if we don't serve her. He believed that one man can make a difference—and that every man should try."

The exhibit in New York will be open to the public without charge in the main floor show room of the International Business Machines Corp., building and will continue for 12 days until June 6.

New Shopping Center Slated At Winnsboro

WINNSBORO (Special) — A million-dollar McLemore Regional Shopping Center will be constructed here to serve Winnsboro and the surrounding five-parish area.

The McLemores stated that it will take about 16 months to complete the entire shopping complex, which will serve both wholesale and retail trade.

The buildings will comprise about 60,000 square feet and will feature a new concept in shopping convenience. Free parking for 324 cars will be provided and will be located on the north side of Winnsboro.

The center will be owned and operated by the McLemore families of Winnsboro and West Monroe. The family also owns a shopping center in West Monroe.

The center will be owned and operated on an eight and one-half acre plot between McLemore's Wholesale and the Sustan Garment Plant. The first units will be a Jitney Jungle Supermarket and a Farm and Sports Center.

These buildings will use 40,000 square feet of floor space. A distribution center, with 20,000 square feet of floor space, will be constructed to serve as retail outlets in Northeast Louisiana, with meats, frozen foods and produce.

When these units are completed, other stores will be started. The McLemore's do their own construction. They have just completed a $150,000 bulk blending fertilizer plant.

J. W. McLemore Sr., who is 75, is still active in all business activities. He started in the grocery business in Winnsboro in 1909. Assisting him now are his sons, Quinten McLemore of West Monroe and J. W. McLemore Jr. of Winnsboro.

By DON REEDER

MINOT AIR FORCE BASE, N.D. (AP) — Sprinkled across 10,000 square miles of wind-swept prairie hard by the Canadian border are 150 subterranean chambers. Each is covered by an 80-ton concrete slab, surrounded by a chain link fence, and wired with electronic devices which will detect any snooper. And each, ominously, is primed to erupt at the press of a button and hurl nuclear destruction toward any enemy as far as 6,300 miles away.

MUZZLE ENDS

The chambers are the muzzle ends, in a manner of speaking, of North Dakota's Minuteman missile complex. The trigger end is at Minot AFB, headquarters for the 455th Strategic Missile Wing. Other Minuteman bases are or soon will be installed at five other locations in North Dakota, Montana, South Dakota, Missouri and Wyoming.

Underground chambers conceal a vast United States Minuteman missile complex along the Canadian border, ready to erupt at the press of a button and hurl nuclear destruction at an enemy great distances away.

At Minot, two red phones hang side by side near the center of an awesome control panel. Both connect ultimately with the only person in the world who can give an authentic order to press the button: the President of the United States.

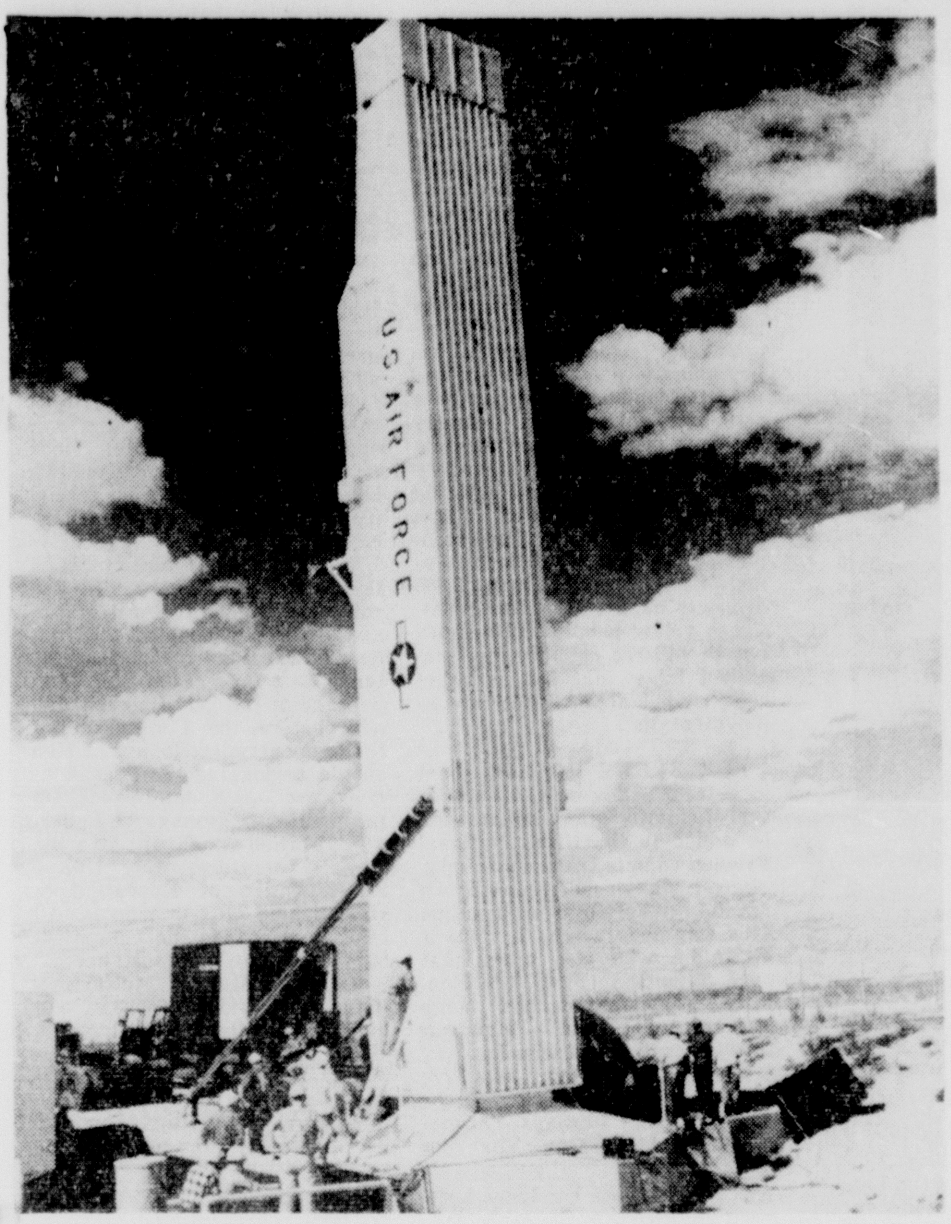
VITAL LINK

There seem to be two of nearly everything at Minot and at the 15 launch control centers in the defense web; two phones, two locks on every file cabinet, and two armed men on duty at every strategic post—each keeping an eye on the other.

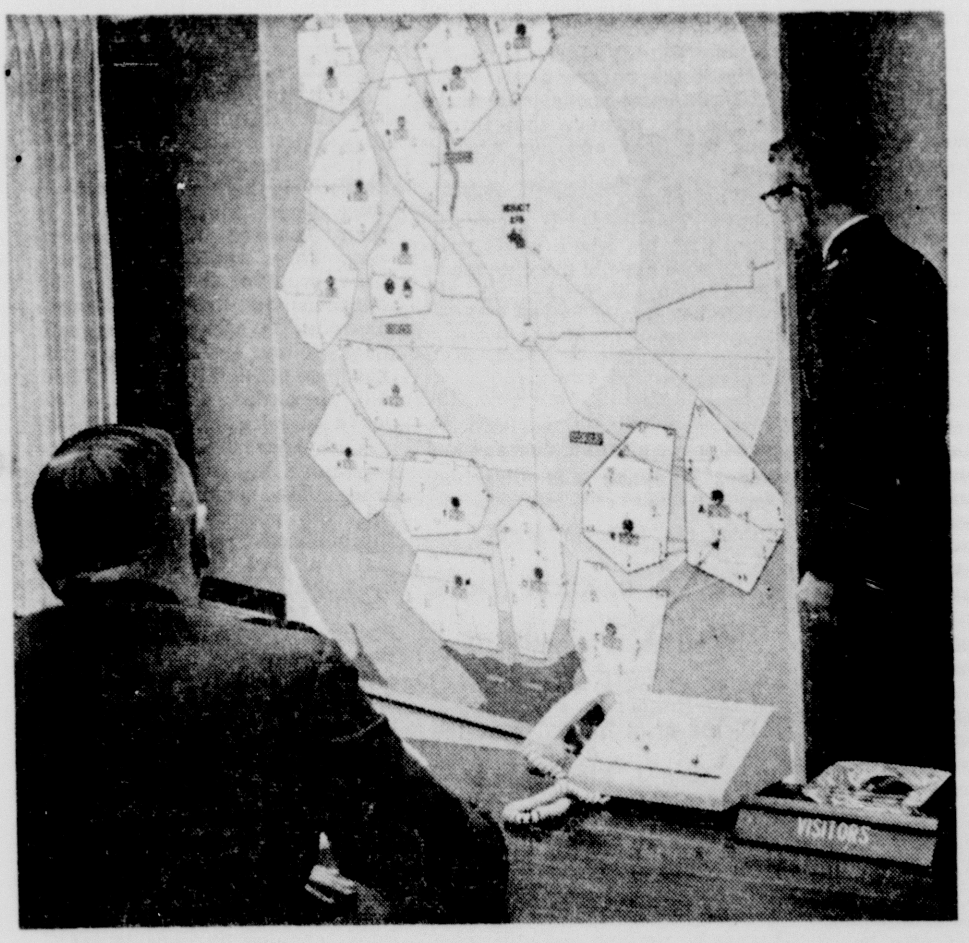
The launch control centers also are underground, linked to the missiles sites through 1,600 miles of buried cable. Each center is stocked with enough supplies to keep it operative for more than two months without outside help. Unscheduled drills, going right up to the point of launch, keep the crews on constant alert.

MISSILES READY

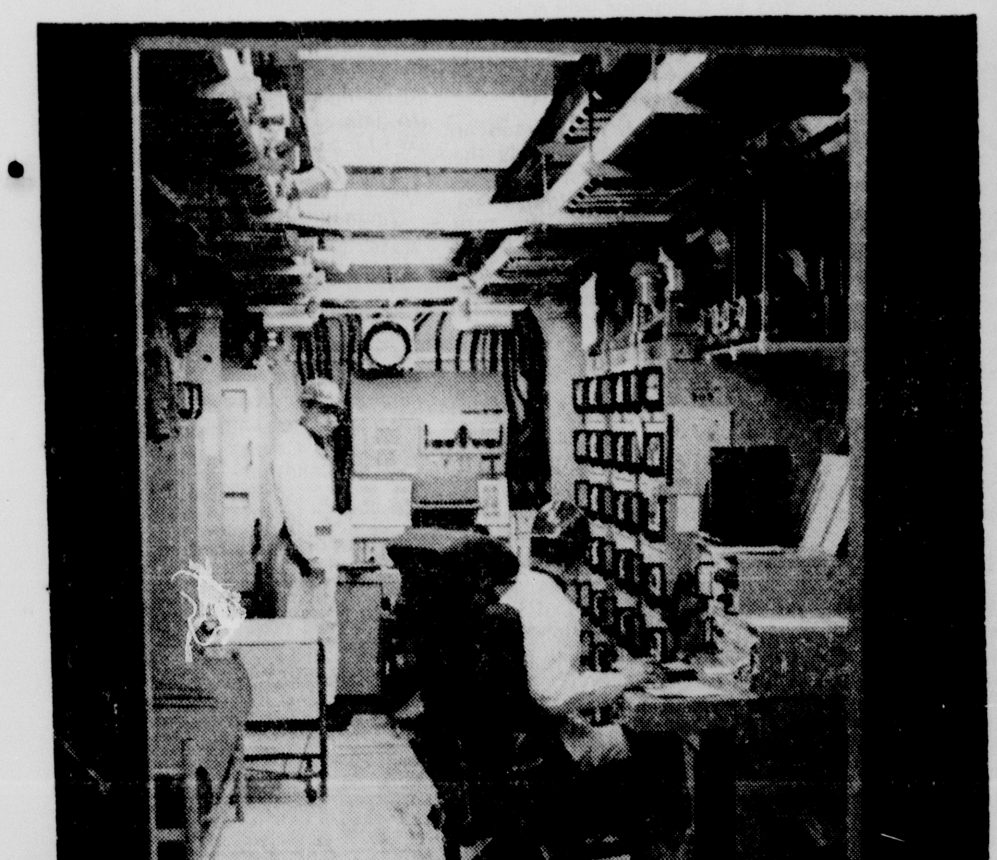
The missiles, too, are ready. Each is programmed periodically to a specific target: exactly what target is a super secret. Once set, it keeps itself zeroed in with tiny rotations within its gyro-stabilized electronic brain. Day and night it buzzes away in the underground vault, compensating for such factors as the rotation of the earth, always aimed right where it's supposed to go.



THE HUGE transporter-erector which carries the Minuteman-ballistic missiles is demonstrated near Malmstrom Air Force Base, Montana. The tractor-trailer rig is said to be the largest vehicle ever designed for regular highway travel. It transports the missiles to and from their launch sites and, up-ended, puts them into their launch silos.



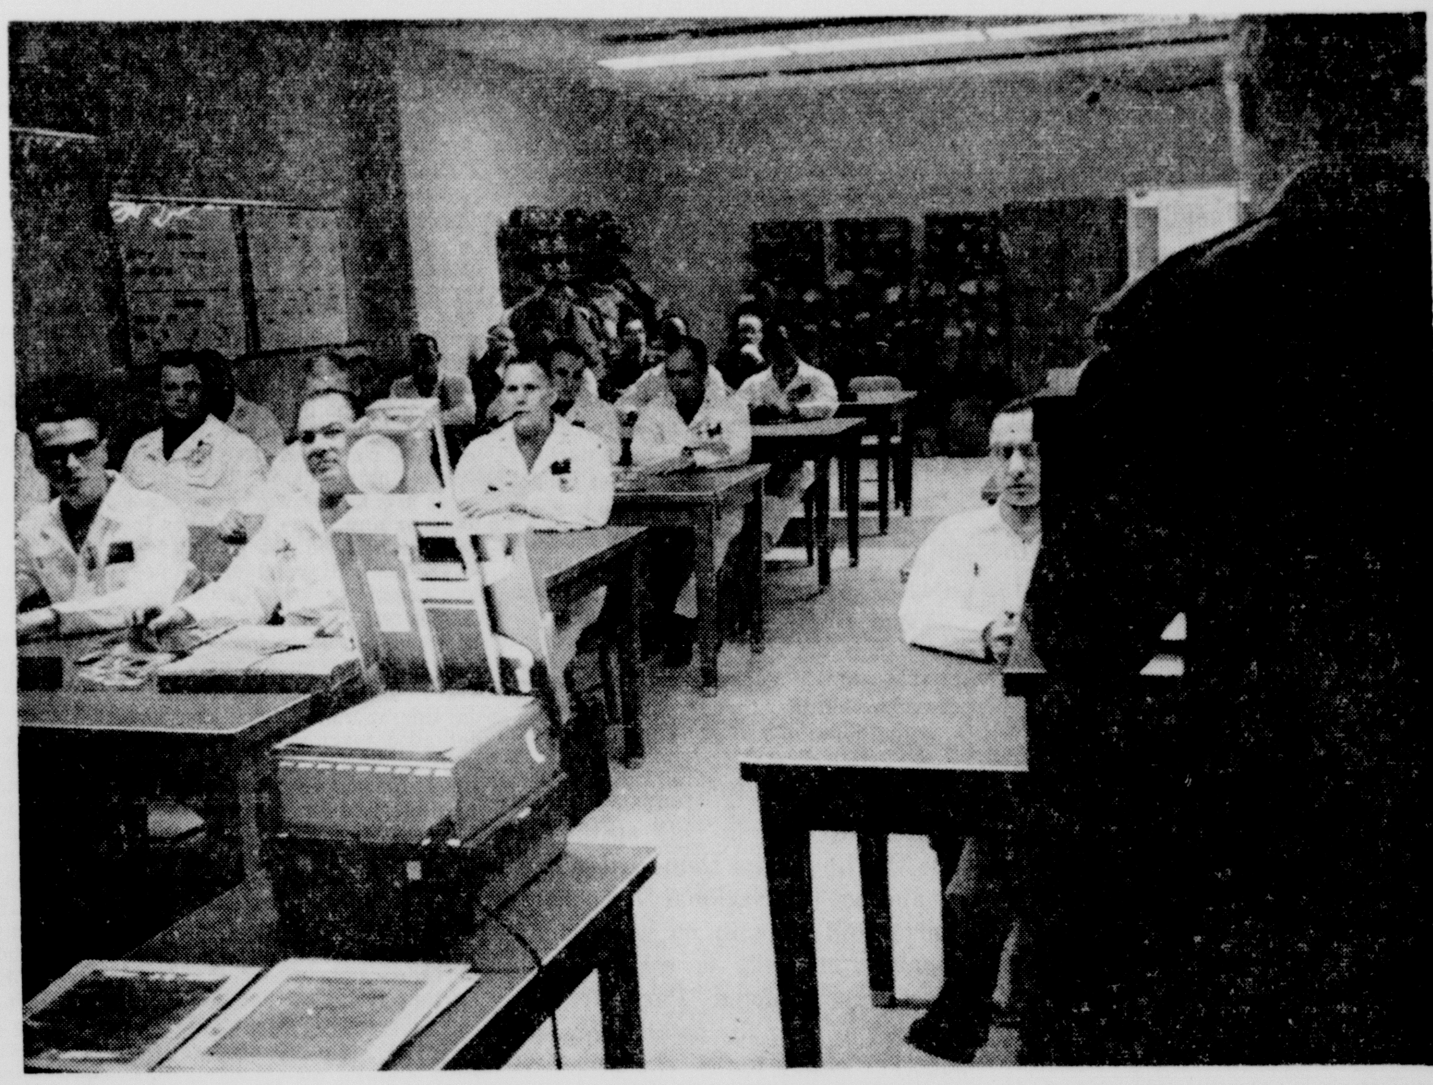
A BRIEFING OFFICER at Minot Air Force Base, shows the panel depicting the underground Minuteman missile sites in a C shape around the base. One hundred fifty such sites are being placed at six bases in a 10,000-square-mile area of prairie from Missouri to Montana. All will be equipped with the 6,300-mile missile which can be launched only on order of the President of the United States.



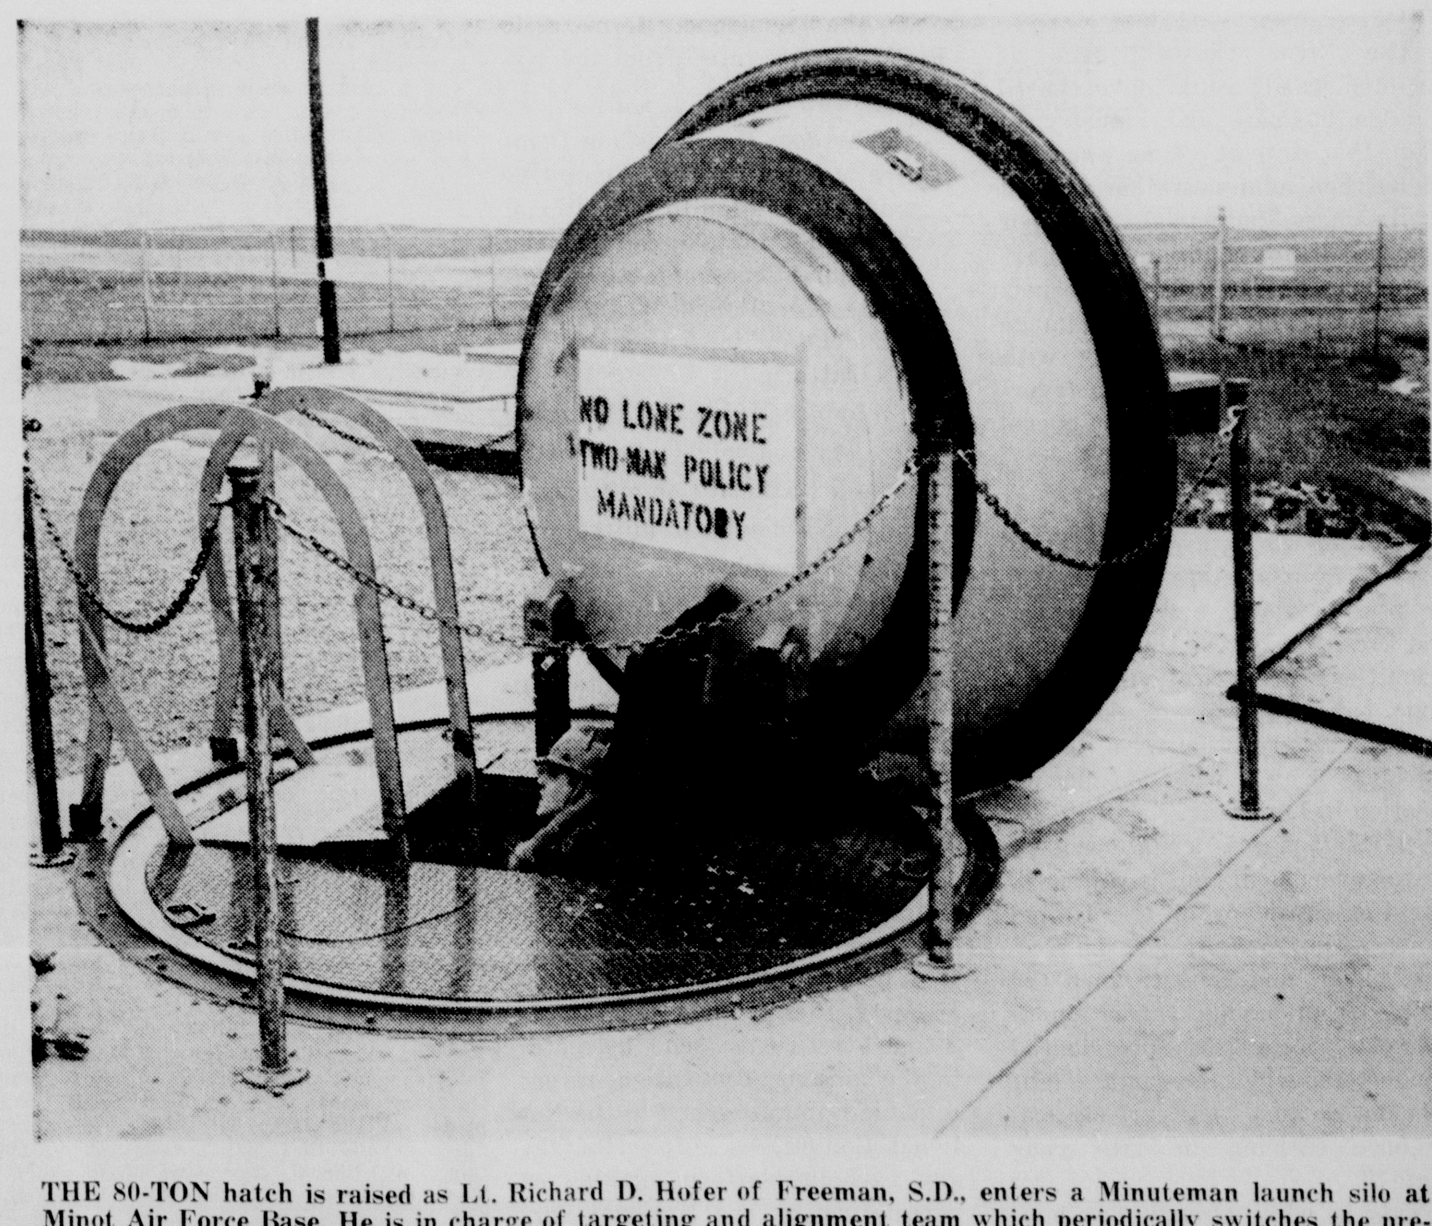
DEEP UNDERGROUND, Capt. David H. Howell, San Diego, Calif. (left), and Lt. William H. English, Edgewood, Md., work in a launch control capsule of the Minute missile complex at Minot Air Force Base. They spend 24 hours on duty close to the button which, only on order of the President could launch a missile and a war. The men—there never is one alone—are armed.

THE HEAVY STEEL and concrete blast door into a launch site control capsule is opened by Lt. Daniel J. LaGrande at Minot Air Force Base. To get to this heart of the Minuteman missile center, another such door must be opened into a tunnel of the underground building. Inside is the button which controls the missile.

SIGHTING IN a Minuteman ballistic missile, A1C Duane Bowser, Johnstown, Pa. (left), looks through theodolite while A1C Ronald Sammons, Danville, Va., makes notations at a launch site at Minot Air Force Base, N.D. Aiming a missile takes about eight hours. Once set, it automatically keeps itself on target. (AP Newsfeatures Photos)



MISSILE LAUNCH center crews are briefed before starting 24-hour tours of duty in Minuteman launch control capsules at Minot Air Force Base. They serve in two-man teams which can be broken up only on orders from Strategic Air Command headquarters.



THE 80-TON hatch is raised as Lt. Richard D. Hofer of Freeman, S.D., enters a Minuteman launch silo at Minot Air Force Base. He is in charge of targeting and alignment team which periodically switches the pre-programmed nuclear missiles to new secret targets. The sign on the hatch means that no man can be alone in the launch silo with its war-sensitive button.

Sound Democratic Step

The Democratic State Central Committee on Friday followed not only the wise course but the ethical and fair course in voting to put President Lyndon B. Johnson (assuming his nomination by the Democratic convention) and his running mate on the November general election ballot under the state Democratic symbol — the Rooster; in other words, accepting the national Party's nominees as those for the Louisiana organization in opposition to whatever may be the Republican ticket.

At the same time, the Committee voted to put Governor George C. Wallace of Alabama on the ballot as a third candidate — running presumably under the Democratic donkey symbol.

Thus, the people of Louisiana will have a choice between the nominees of the two major parties and Governor Wallace. This decision is a victory for Governor McKeithen, who had pointed out that the proposal for a Democratic Party primary to elect presidential electors would be a "scorched earth" policy and a case of "burning our bridges behind us."

The Plan

The so-called "free elector" plan, built around electing Democratic presidential electors in a primary to be held before the national presidential campaigns even were well under way, really was aimed at pushing President Johnson — or whoever might be the Democratic nominee — off the ballot entirely; and in a manner that would have made it almost impossible for him to get back. The intent, under this plan, was to "nominate" Governor George Wallace of Alabama to run under the state Democratic Rooster symbol against the Republican ticket. If that scheme were adopted, it would require a petition signed by 1,000 Independent voters — voters not registered as either Democrats or Republicans — to put the President back on the ballot. Since there are only about 1,000 voters in the state registered as Independents, obviously the practical effect of the scheme would have been the virtual barring of the National Democratic Party's nominee.

Governor McKeithen, while not trying to force State Central Committee action in any direction, made it clear publicly that he believed in following the natural and traditional course of placing the National Party's nominee under the state Democratic symbol, with a third ticket, or an additional slate of unpledged electors, for those who did not want to vote for the nominee of either major Party.

The "free elector" plan, if adopted, easily could have caused outside business and industry to shun this state at a time when the McKeithen administration as well as business, industrial and labor leaders all are combining to start Louisiana on the road to prosperity by replacing the present image of governmental instability with an image which would gain favorable recognition and support everywhere.

Hurt Economy

In other words, use of statutory powers by the state government in a roundabout manner to bar the President of the United States from the general election presidential ballot, easily could have brought this reaction from outside business which was considering location in Louisiana.

"If Louisiana is a state, with a state government that is willing to bar the President of the United States from your presidential election ballot, and thus to keep the people from having a free choice between recognized presidential candidates, what on earth might you not do to us legislatively after once enticing us into your state?"

This is what already has happened to some extent in Mississippi, with the result that Governor Paul Johnson and his administration have pulled back completely from their plans to bar development of the two-party system in that state through passage of some 22 legislative acts. This legislative package passed the Mississippi Senate before people began to realize what it really meant. Then, the Johnson administration began to hear protests from all over the state, particularly from business, and from economic leadership which was trying to get outside business to locate in Mississippi. The result was that the legislative package deal quickly was, in effect, killed in the House by an overwhelming vote to table it.

What "free elector" backers in Louisiana have sought to do with the presidential election here is comparable in principle to what a similar group in Mississippi tried to do with development of two political parties there.

* * *

Raymond Moley, the nationally syndicated conservative writer, points to the Mississippi case and what it might have meant to that state in one of his recent articles, in which he says:

Mississippi

"At the time I heard of this proposed legislation, I felt that it was quite incongruous for those in charge of Mississippi government to be trying to bring new industry to the state and at the same time attempting to lock the state by law in a one-party prison. Since so many of the industries they were seeking to bring in were controlled by Republicans, this was a poor way to make them feel at home if they chose to move.

"The anti-Republican bills passed the state Senate and were headed for adoption. But it seems that recently the Governor and other Democratic leaders have decided to change their plans and the offensive bills were pigeonholed in the lower house of the Legislature. The reason given is that they have decided that this sort of thing is not good for business. Apparently they not only saw the light, but felt the heat of rising sentiment against a course which would give the state a bad name over the country. There was not only realization of the unfavorable climate such legislation would create, but fear that this sort of thing could not stand a test in the courts."

* * *

"Free elector" sponsors have contended that in this state "we are the Louisiana Democratic Party and not the National Democratic Party and thus in no way bound morally, ethically or otherwise to place the National Party candidates on the November general election ballot under the accepted Democratic Party label." That is an argument which disproves itself — in this way:

Not Separate

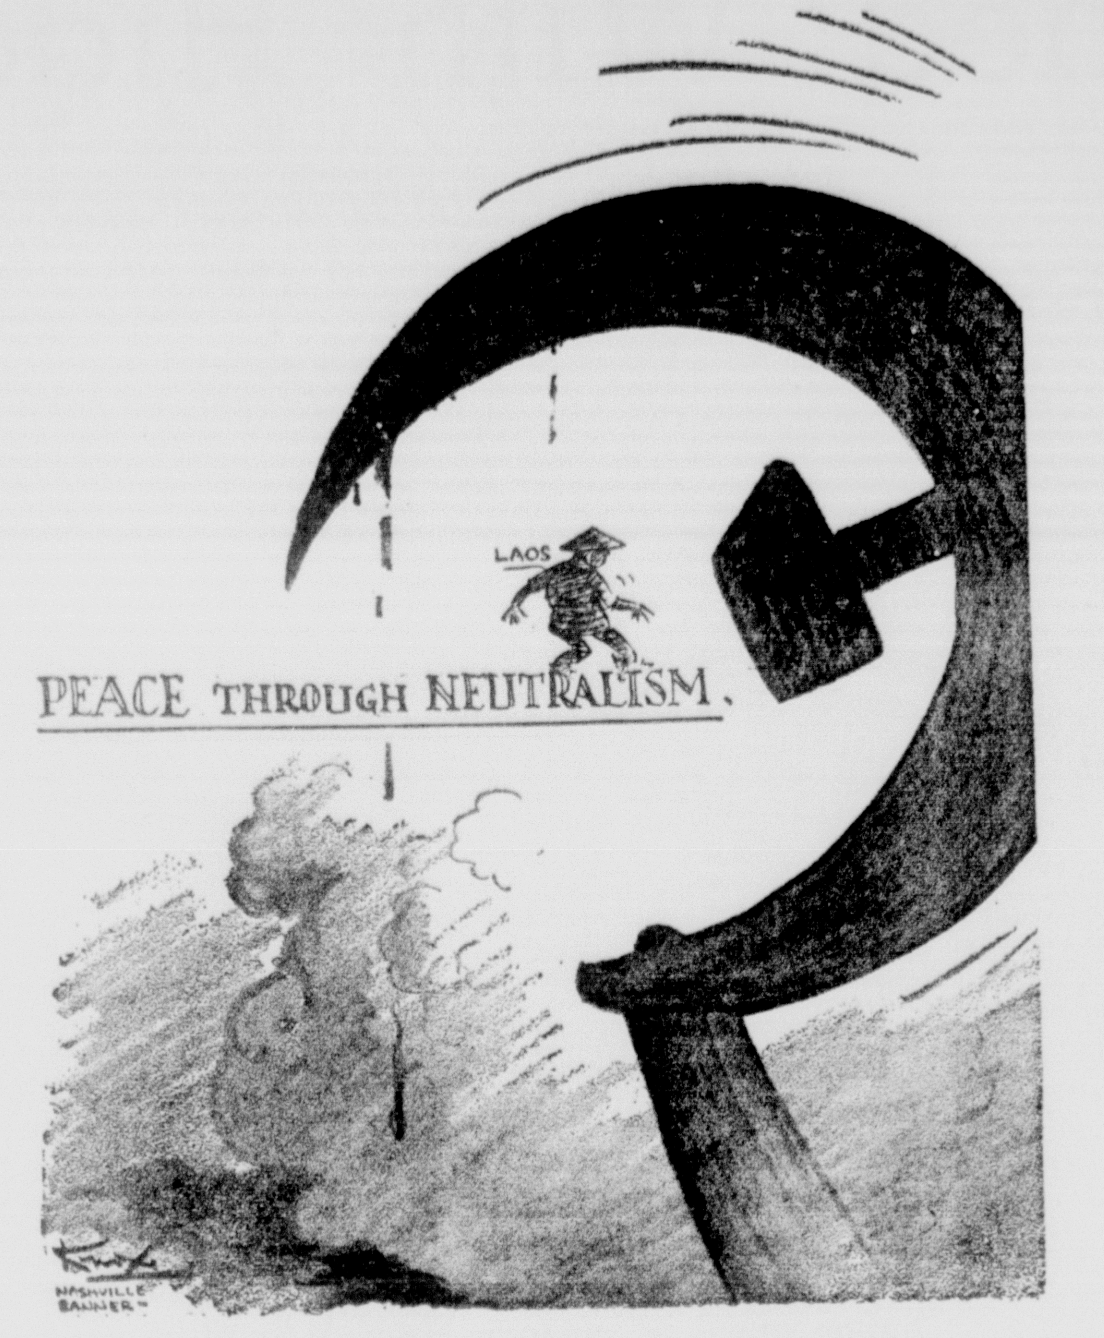
If the Louisiana Democratic Party is "separate" from the National Party, then—

Why does the Louisiana Democratic State Central Committee send a delegation to the national convention to take part in the procedures of nominating candidates for President and Vice President and in writing the Party's platform?

Why does this same Democratic State Central Committee name a National Committeeman and a National Committeewoman to be members of the Democratic National Committee — in other words, to be our ambassadors and our representatives inside the Democratic National Party and to handle for the people of Louisiana, such matters as federal patronage jobs?

This talk about "we are the Louisiana Democratic Party" is sheer nonsense. If the state party is to be separate from the National Party, then it must separate — it must refuse to send delegates to the national convention, refuse to name Committeemen to the National Committee, refuse to take any part in platform making or nominating by the National Party, or to have any other part in any activities of the Party.

End Of The Line



RALPH DE TOLEDANO

McKeldin Spurns War On Poverty

MAYOR THEODORE R. McKeldin of Baltimore, the former Maryland governor, believes that the Johnson "war on poverty" has more to do with winning elections than with alleviating the condition of the poor. Mr. McKeldin belongs to the liberal wing of the GOP so he can't be accused of Goldwaterism in making his very valid point.

Mayor McKeldin realizes, as do most Americans, that the answer to unemployment and unemployability is not the handout but training in the skills now required by industry. There is a direct correlation between the amount of schooling young people get and what they make when they go to work. The problem of "dropouts" is therefore a serious one. When young people leave school before they have finished high school, they are condemning themselves to low paying jobs — at least, as a rule.

Under President Kennedy, the beginning of a serious effort was made to convince the dropouts to return to school. The Kennedy program was financed directly out of the President's emergency fund. And it cost very little in terms of the great good it was doing. In Baltimore, for example, $6,000 from President Kennedy's fund brought almost 1,500 dropouts back to the classroom. These young people will benefit, but so will the country. It is unskilled labor that fattens relief rolls and lengthens the unemployment lists.

FOR EVERY DOLLAR spent in getting a boy or girl back to school, many, many dollars will be added to the Gross National Product (and to taxes collected); many, many dollars will be saved in unemployment benefits. This was underscored by Mayor McKeldin who also noted that on a nationwide basis, the Kennedy program reached some 59,000 young people — of whom 30,361 returned to school.

President Johnson, however, has shelved the Kennedy dropout program. Perhaps "economy" was his reason. That the investment was very small, with a tremendous return, did not seem to enter the President's mind.

In a letter to Mr. Johnson—Mayor McKeldin calls for a resumption of the anti-dropout program. He is aware, of course, that the program as administered by John F. Kennedy required a very small staff of counselors and no big bureaucracy to administer it. It is also one that does not lend itself to big publicity campaigns or the kind of giant billboards which announce every 2x4 Area Redevelopment project or Urban Renewal bowling alley.

BUT GIVEN MR. Johnson's repeated trips to Appalachia — the anti-dropout program would seem to be a natural for the Administration. The Domestic Peace Corps, which will cost many millions (if not a few billions before we are done), can never do as much to make a useful member of society out of an unemployment statistic. In fact, there are those who think the Domestic Peace Corps will simply serve as a crutch. Once it is withdrawn, the would-be beneficiary will again be a cripple in a highly technological society.

Training can solve many of the nation's problems. It can raise the economic level of Negroes, thereby opening the first door toward their social acceptance — a far greater step than passage of the "civil rights" bill now before the Congress. But the educationist lobby, which should be jogging the President, does not seem interested. Its major aim is passage of Federal legislation which will give the lobby's creature, the United States Office of Education, a stranglehold on our schools. All other matters, to the educationists, are of little importance.

Perhaps Mayor McKeldin's letter to President Johnson will have some effect. But first the White publicists and Democratic National Committee flacks will have to assess the anti-dropout program's vote-getting value and newspaper headline potential.

Views Of Our Readers

Uncle Sap

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Most Southern conservatives resist the spot announcements on the electronic media and pleas soliciting CARE packages and funds for overseas — to enrich the coffers of International Communism, or to obliterate the failures resulting therefrom, no doubt.

But when we read of a class project in a junior high school of this area where the students are collecting books for the Far East, we doubt that Southerners are brainwash proof! Are the teacher and students so naive as to think that the disbursing of our ALL around the world in the last quarter century has done one iota of good? Do we have a "better image" or have we saved ONE country from Communism? The countries around the world could not hate us any more or further insult us had we not given them ONE cent. Haven't these people heard we are "Uncle Sap" to the rest of the world?

It's a sad commentary when teachers are forced to get in the limelight and win publicity in this manner. Why not just let good teaching speak for itself? Is seeing a news account of a teacher's "activities" or getting his picture in the paper so very important, after all? Daily we hear of "educationists" who do the flamboyant hoping to win reputation and status. Small wonder their college counterparts inspire student junkets to Cuba and behind the Iron Curtain in defiance of law.

We parents are to blame for this sad state of affairs. We have allowed quite naively this pedagogical blueprint to function: "Begin the propaganda early in the child's life. Teach them that giving aid and comfort to the enemy is love and brotherhood and peace contributing. Then when they get to college, the outright teaching of pure Marxism won't be such a shock."

Such naivety even surpasses the writing of a letter to a national periodical to ask if they had any Communist writers!

Futility In Action

Baton Rouge, La.

To the Editor:

Don Quixote, a fictional character in Spanish literature, became the symbol of futility by chasing windmills. Less well-known but equally absurd was the command of King Canute, an early tyrant in the history of England. Sitting in his chair of state beside the sea, he was annoyed by the rising tide. He told his retainers to sweep the water back into the sea.

We now have a repeat performance of futility. LBJ has declared war on poverty. Jesus said the poor we shall have with us always.

The opportunity to fail is also the opportunity to succeed. When we applaud the wise and valiant, we spur others on to achievement.

Truth Pamphlets

Homer, La.

To the Editor:

We can now see the effectiveness of the "Truth Pamphlets" on the "civil rights" bill which are being mailed under Rep. Joe D. Waggonner's sponsorship to the professional and business people of the large Northern cities beyond the "paper curtain" of liberal newspapers where the voting public has not had the opportunities to hear and read the truth about this vicious piece of proposed legislation, as we have.

The "Truth Pamphlet" is being mailed as an official documentary report on the objectional features of the bill as submitted by the house minority group opposed to the "power grab" bill.

That the program is scoring well is evidenced by the protest of northern legislators who are berating Rep. Waggonner for daring to mail the truth into their home areas and who are, no doubt, under mounting pressure and criticism from their constituents for supporting a bill which had not been properly explained to and understood by their voters.

As the mailings continue, the pressure of northern voters on their liberal - minded lawmakers increases — perhaps enough pressure to bring about the defeat of this monstrosity which would take away more individual freedoms than it could ever bestow!

Funds are needed to continue the truth barrage and my purpose in writing is to give the conservative - minded people of our area an opportunity to DO SOMETHING in a very positive way toward preserving our God-given gift of governing ourselves.

Practically the only expense of the program is the printing expense and this is being done at considerable saving by an offset printing method.

To mail 500 of these missiles of truth to responsible, influential people in the north for a five dollar bill is indeed an opportunity for each of us. Mail your checks to: The Bossier Press, Bossier City, Louisiana—A receipt will be mailed to you.

About 34,000 copies have already been mailed. The goal: A million people to receive the truth about the civil rights bill. Send your checks today.

The Prayer Amendment

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

The Becker amendment may help the situation, but it is the wrong approach. As usual, some member of Congress tries to undo the wrongs of the Warren court after this same avid set-up has taken the reins into its own hands as to laws.

It seems that Congress has never learned the meaning of a correlative, or it's use. The First Amendment states very plainly that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." Nowhere in this amendment is there any mention of the supreme court, it's viewpoint, business, manifestations or decisions. The amendment simply states, Congress shall not do thus and so, and, after that little "or" the tale is made to mean that this same Congress shall not prohibit the free exercise thereof." This is like the rest of that memorable document, so plain and simple that anyone can understand it and it's meaning, that no lawyer is needed to understand the clear and plain fact — While Congress shall make no law on this matter, by the same token, IT SHALL NOT meddle with the free exercise of religion by the people. So why change the Constitution by adding an amendment, when none is needed?

If Congress is anxious to do something about the matter, let them, (both houses) stand up like men, tell the Warren court to attend to its own business — that of examining and passing on the laws made by Congress—and stop at once its nosey habit of trying to take over something which is not any of its business in any way whatever.

For over ten years now this Warren Court has overstepped the Constitution, bypassed the Congress and set up its own type of opinion, then calling such a decision "The Law of the Land," a thing which any child in its "teens" can tell is unconstitutional, and therefore unlawful. This may be one of the reasons why there is so much so-called juvenile delinquency, as the youngsters have no pattern of honesty set before them by Congress, the Courts or the White House. When the president asks on one day help from the church to pass his views, then turns and asks the A. D. A. to help in passing the same laws, somethings smells pretty putrid.

It seems odd, those fellows in Washington constantly trying to change the Constitution, yet not one has come up with any solution to give us anything better.

Rules For Revolution

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

"Communist Rules for Revolution" captured in Dusseldorf, in May 1919, by the Allied Forces, and secured by the Florida State Attorney's Office from a known member of the Communist Party, who acknowledged them to be still a part of the Communist program for overthrowing our government order:

A. Corrupt the young, get them away from religion and moral values. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial, destroy their ruggedness.

B. Get control of all means of publicity and thereby:

1. Get people's minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books, plays, etc.

2. Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.

3. Destroy the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding the latter up to contempt, ridicule, and obloquy.

4. Always preach true democracy, but seize power as fast and as ruthlessly as possible.

5. By encouraging government extravagance, destroy its credit, produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general discontent.

6. Foment unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders, and foster a lenient and soft attitude on the part of government toward such disorders.

Makes one cringe to see how close the Liberals are to saying "Mission accomplished", doesn't it?

What I See Ahead

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Tragically, despite these glowing prospects, we have entered also an age of lawlessness for which there is no precedent save the corruption that prevailed in the antediluvian world. It seems not only in the mounting statistics of murder, rape, and robbery, but in the seemingly hopeless battle being waged by police and other public authorities against juvenile delinquency and youth vandalism. Crowded prisons, and reformatories tell the same sad story, as do the daily newspapers. Lying and perjury are so common that truth and honesty seem to have well-nigh vanished from the earth. In some lands contending factions have cast off all restraint and have no law but violence.

As a result, we live in an age of fear. Never before have people been so afraid of the future. And never before has there been such valid reason for such fear. Never before has such a sense of futility blighted the visions of youth. Never before has there been reason to feel that the Negro race was traveling along a road ending in a bottomless precipice.

Man talks often nowadays of universal destruction that hangs over him, but in the vocabulary of our times, international suicide is the phrase used by our governmental spokesman to describe the menace that threatens our lives and our civilization.

What an apt description of our times! This indeed is a volcanic age, with the whole world rumbling with age-old discontent and frustration, throwing up the white-hot lava of hatred with ever-increasing force and frequency.

In this age of suspicion and fear, of panic and despair, we need peace of mind, courage and hope, guidance and direction. We can find all of this in the Bible, the book of books. Let us pray.

Writes To Senator

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Please print the following letter:

Hon. Allen J. Ellender
United States Senator
Washington, D. C.

West Monroe, La.

Dear Senator:

The record we have with Washington concerning our demands by petition and otherwise for a Federal postoffice building deserves a consideration from a higher level of political representation, since we have no other recourse after a continual denial by the lower level of representation sent there. Your position as a Senator and state overall service to the people warrants us to ask for a rightful place in the affairs of State and Human Relations.

The record at Washington on postoffice buildings reveals the leasing of over nine thousand privately owned buildings for service for about fifty two million dollars yearly. It is found that by research that some five million dollars could be saved by government ownership.

For years the west Ouachita area, including our city, has been trying to get a Federal building, even offering to build one on Government plan and terms and lease it to the Government but our regional representation there denied us that right and privilege? The West Monroe area comprises about one-third of the mail delivery system and our operational floor space is about one-fourth of that of the Monroe area.

It is well known that the State of Louisiana has had many buildings of this sort, even one now being arranged in a city within our State, and all of them to our certain knowledge with less than half the population per city. We have had the merits of our requests and demands disclaimed several times by this lower level of representation, which, of course, influenced denial by inspectors. We would like to have relief.

Knowing your long association with State and National matters and your long and honorable career in politics, we invite your particular attention to this seeming intransigent attitude of our regional representation.

J. H. WATKINS.

To the Editor:

I believe the article found in the Monroe Morning World, Friday, May 22, 1964 entitled, "Southern Baptists Reject Church Integration Proposal" was not entitled correctly. It should have been entitled, "Southern Baptists Approve Church Integration Proposal," because this is exactly what they did.

If a person reads the article objectively he will notice what they really wanted to do in their Southern Baptist Convention. They wanted to approve "the positive action taken by hundreds of Southern Baptist churches in affirming an open-door policy for all people regardless of racial origin!" What did they do? They voted to leave racial problems to the local churches. Did this reject anything? No! It approved just what they wanted to approve of, "the positive action taken by hundreds of Southern Baptist churches in affirming an open-door policy" for Negroes.

The real message for all Southern Baptists regardless of their Association or Convention affiliation is this: The majority of those present at the convention refused to believe that integration is wrong according to the Bible.

The American Baptist Association, of which our church is affiliated, has stated publicly by resolutions which have been adopted unanimously that we believe it is definitely against Bible teaching to allow integration of the races.

No resolution of this type can be found in this convention meeting. Only this camouflaged approval of integration in their churches can be found. Remember, they voted to allow any church or every church that wants to integrate to do so. What will you do when a Negro comes from one of your own churches to join your church by letter? Will you reject him, openly slapping a sister church in the face? I think not!

Incidentally; I would like to state publicly that the Landmark Missionary Baptist Church is not affiliated with that heretical group called the American Baptist Convention. We are affiliated with the American Baptist Association. They are not the same.

Local Contest

ELECTIONS IN the City of Monroe last weekend saw a fairly light turnout of voters — some 65 per cent — return incumbents to City Hall, the Monroe City School, and the Democratic Executive Committee with new faces added to the latter two bodies.

MAJOR W. L. HOWARD

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard was elected to a third term over contended M. L. Peters by a vote of 7,017 to 7,078. Commissioners H. W. McSherry and W. D. H. Rodriguez were also re-elect- to their posts.

SCORING VICTORIES in the school board race were J. H. Scogin, W. S. Gannaway and Frank Breese — all incumbent members — L. S. Daniel and Billy Hargiss garnering sufficient votes to assume posts on the board without a runoff election.

A similar situation developed in the contest for Democratic Executive Committee, where D. C. Bernhardt, H. Austin Miller and Simon Johnson, incumbents, will resume their duties along with newcomers James E. Patrick and Lloyd Voorhees.

THE OFFICIALS face no general election since there were no Republican candidates for any of the above posts.

Functioning

BY THE middle of the week, a bill had completed the full circuit of the current session of the Legislature at Baton Rouge, assuring citizens that once more the elected officials from all over the state could meet, debate and function as an organization. The bill was one setting aside $1,185,208 to pay the expenses of the current session. It reached the desk of Governor John McKeithen on Thursday.

ON THAT same day, 15 more bills were introduced in the state's Senate, bringing the total at the end of the second week of the session to 184.

Also, on the subject of state money, Governor McKeithen presented his proposed budget last week for the first year of his administration. It's up somewhat over last year—from approximately $949 million to $964 million — but still under the billion-dollar mark.

ZIP 'Buffons'

BRIDGING THE gap from the state to national news was the case of the Air Force Reserve Captain, a Roman Catholic Chaplain from New Orleans, who could possibly get the boot from his branch of the service for failing to supply his ZIP code number.

It's the work of "bureaucratic buffons," says Rep. F. Edward Hebert, of Louisiana.

THE CAPTAIN wrote Herbert last he had received a letter from the Air Force notifying him that he had twice been asked for his ZIP code number and that if he did not supply it within 30 days "we propose to take action."

Herbert replied "had I not been dealing with so many bureaucratic buffons during my 24 years in Congress, I would have been apologetical over the example you sent me."

But, suggested Hebert, maybe the whole matter would blow over.

It didn't.

IN A LETTER received Wednesday, Hebert said, the captain wrote that he had been informed an Air Force board is to convene June 22 "to consider my discharge for failing to send my ZIP code number."

Developments

IN THE MATTER of topic headings and actual distances, there are miles between happenings in the states of Maryland, Louisiana and Mississippi; there are denominational differences between northern and southern Baptists and between those two groups and Presbyterians. There are also some remaining differences between Democrats and Republicans at the national level.

The death of Dr. James Franck, 81-year-old scientist in the German university city of Goettingen, for example, may seem to have little to do with our position—or lack of it—in Cuba, Laos and South Viet Nam. But Franck, who received the Nobel Prize in 1925 for research into the laws governing the impact between electrons and atoms, was a pioneer in the development of nuclear weapons — now a big factor in our military considerations wherever international frictions begin to throw sparks.

Primaries

After winning 42 per cent of the Democratic vote in Maryland's presidential primary, Governor George Wallace of Alabama summarized his efforts to date with the following statements:

"I HAVE shown that sectionalism is not a factor in opposition to the trend of trying to solve everything by federal force.

"It is now evident that a new trend has been established, and it transcends sectional lines.

"This Maryland vote," he said, "should let them know in Washington and in both national parties that they can't get rid of us by calling us bad names.

"They called me a bigot, a liar, a racist, an agitator, a trespasser. They pictured my supporters with Ku Klux hoods. They called in 10 senators to beat us down, and yet," he said with an air of triumph, "a majority of the white people in Maryland gave me their support. I'm elated. That's far more than I ever expected."

The Alabama governor won about 42 per cent of the vote in the Maryland Democratic presidential primary against Senator Daniel B. Brewster, favorite-son stand-in for President Johnson. The state's Negro population is 17 per cent.

THEN GOVERNOR Wallace headed back to his home state of Alabama.

Huge crowds cheered him when his plane, bedecked with Confederate flags, landed at the Birmingham and Montgomery airports.

"From the looks of this crowd, I thought I was in Maryland," he told 4,000 persons here. Earlier, around 2,000 supporters had greeted him at Birmingham during a stopover en route from the Maryland presidential primary where he got 42 per cent of the votes.

"WE WON in Maryland and they know we won," he said, adding that his showing emphasized the strong opposition to the civil rights bill.

STILL CLOSER to home, Wallace agreed Thursday to be Louisiana's standard-bearer for a conservative Democratic splinter movement.

Wallace said he would be the conservatives' candidate for president in a primary this summer if they could get the legislature to change election laws to permit it.

LEADERS OF the movement indicated Wallace also would run for president in the November election.

FOLLOWING the Oregon primary where Governor Nelson Rockefeller came through with his first major sweep for that state's 18 GOP convention votes, Republican strategists turned their eyes toward California where the June 2 primary will decide which aspirant will get that state's pivotal 86 votes.

AFTER HENRY Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, lost to Rockefeller as Oregon's choice for the GOP presidential nomination, Lodge's supporters threw their weight behind Rockefeller.

MEANTIME, in San Francisco, Goldwater's California campaign chairman charged that Rockefeller criticizes U.S. policy in South Viet Nam while linking up politically with the ambassador who administers the policy.

Rockefeller has "contorted his position so much that he is beginning to meet himself coming and going," William F. Knowland told a news conference.

KNOWLAND, Oakland publisher, heads Goldwater's state campaign committee.

Happier Warrior

MORE NEARLY certain of his position as a candidate on the Democratic ticket next November was President Lyndon President. While Mrs. Johnson toured some of the areas in the eastern mountain regions, the President addressed 4,900 graduating students at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor and where he also received an honorary degree.

MR. JOHNSON has stressed economy to the point of turning off light bulbs in the White House, but it was a different story in Kentucky where the First Lady dedicated a new school gymnasium.

VISITING the front lines of eastern Kentucky's battle against poverty and illiteracy, the First Lady helped dedicate a new gymnasium at the Breathitt County High School in Jackson and threw a switch bringing electricity to the one-room Lick Branch School in the mountains.

Citing construction of the new gymnasium and other public works programs in the Jackson area, she told the crowd at the dedication ceremonies:

"THIS IS the kind of concrete evidence of Kentucky pioneer self-help and self-reliance that makes the President and all America so confident of victory in our war against poverty."

Reverse English

SENATOR J. WILLIAM Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, commended a newsman's suggestion that the United States and Red China break the journalisitc stalement that exists between the two countries. This position by the Arkansas Senator applies the reverse English to the State Department's stand, which is more favorable to Moscow than to Peking.

BUT THERE'S suspicion on the U.S.-Russian front also. The State Department said Tuesday it has discovered a network of more than 40 microphones buried deep in the walls of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. Officials said the listening devices had apparently been there since 1952 and 1953.

Technicians selected one room in a "sensitive" section of the embassy and completely demolished all four walls and the ceiling and floor. There they found the first microphone and the wiring then led them to the others.

THE MICROPHONES were embedded 8 to 10 inches inside the walls. Each was equipped with a hollow wooden tube which reached just to the plaster on the inside of the wall to carry the sound.

New Warfare

IN THE THORNIER areas of the "cold war," in those regions of southeast Asia and the Caribbean where brush fire wars are the order of the day, tensions have erupted past the stage of debate and diplomacy.

Communist Pathet Lao forces have captured Ban Taviang, in Laos, the last national army outpost defending the approaches to the important town of Paksane.

The Western sources said scattered defenders of Ban Taviang, 100 miles northeast of Vientiane, were moving south through mountainous country to join a large unit of neutralist troops 20 miles north of Paksane.

The government outpost fell to the Communists Wednesday, the sources said.

PRINCE SOUVANNA PHOUMA

IN MOSCOW, the Communist party paper Pravda blamed Prince Souvanna Phouma, leader of the neutralist forces in Laos, for the new fighting.

It said Souvanna's recent actions "have heated up the situation."

Pravda criticized Souvanna's announcement that his neutralist forces have been merged with the right-wing faction. The Red Chinese have blamed the United States for the new flareup in Laos.

THOUSANDS OF miles away in Miami, Florida, a Cuban exile leader vowed to return to his homeland last week and overthrow the Castro regime. Several raids were carried out, but there was no fighting on a large scale.

But Manuel Ray Rivero still stood by his plans as told to newsmen on May 20, the anniversary of Cuba's independence from Spain:

"EITHER I shall kiss the sweet soil of Cuba, or the earth of Cuba will embrace me," he said once in an interview.

To Cubans within Cuba, where he reportedly counts on important numbers of followers in Castro's militia and armed forces as well as among the general populace. Ray's message has been:

"WE HAVE all been betrayed by Fidel, and we are therefore in the same boat in fighting for the liberty of our homeland."

Ray considers the overthrow of Castro a job for Cubans. "We cannot expect others to do the job for us," he said.

Rights And Religion

DURING THE week, at least two congressmen criticized the Supreme Court for getting involved in religious issues. Representatives Robert L. Leggett of California and Paul C. Jones of Missouri, both Democrats, criticized the high court but opposed a constitutional change to override the prayer decision.

But clergymen in great numbers did not share this "hands off" attitude on the other side of the picture; that is, the church's standing aside in political matters, particularly in regards of the civil rights bill.

Protestant clergymen from every state marched in a "silent, prayerful procession" to Capitol Hill to recognize the Senate's 11th week of debate on the civil rights bill.

The demonstration, sponsored by the National Council of Churches' Commission on Religion and Race, was designed to press for passage of the measure, stalled by southern oratory through 57 sessions.

Lowest Since 1960 Session

Congressional Secrecy Decreasing This Year, According To Report

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — Secrecy in Congressional committee hearings decreased substantially in the first quarter of 1964.

A Congressional Quarterly study of open and closed committee hearings between Jan. 3 and March 31 showed that 31 per cent of these meetings were closed. This figure was the lowest first - three - months secrecy rate for a Congress since the 1960 session, when 30 per cent of the first quarter meetings were closed.

During the same periods in 1961 and 1962, about 40 per cent of the hearings were held in secret sessions.

The CQ study was based on a day-to-day tally during the three month period as reported in the Congressional Record. These reports are required by the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946. In practice, they are sometimes neglected so that an accurate count of all the open and closed meetings for each committee is nearly impossible.

Open committee sessions, to which the public is admitted, generally are hearings on proposed legislation.

Executive sessions, from which the public is barred, include hearings at which witnesses testify (often on security information) and work periods in which the committee "marks up" legislation or carries on administrative business.

HOUSE-SENATE SCORES

The Senate had a higher score for closed hearings than the House — 33 per cent as opposed to 29 per cent.

During the three-month period, Senate committees held 334 meetings — 223 of which were open to the public, 111 closed.

The House during the same period held 486 meetings, with 345 open to the public, 141 closed.

Joint committees held 33 meetings, 23 open and 10 in executive session.

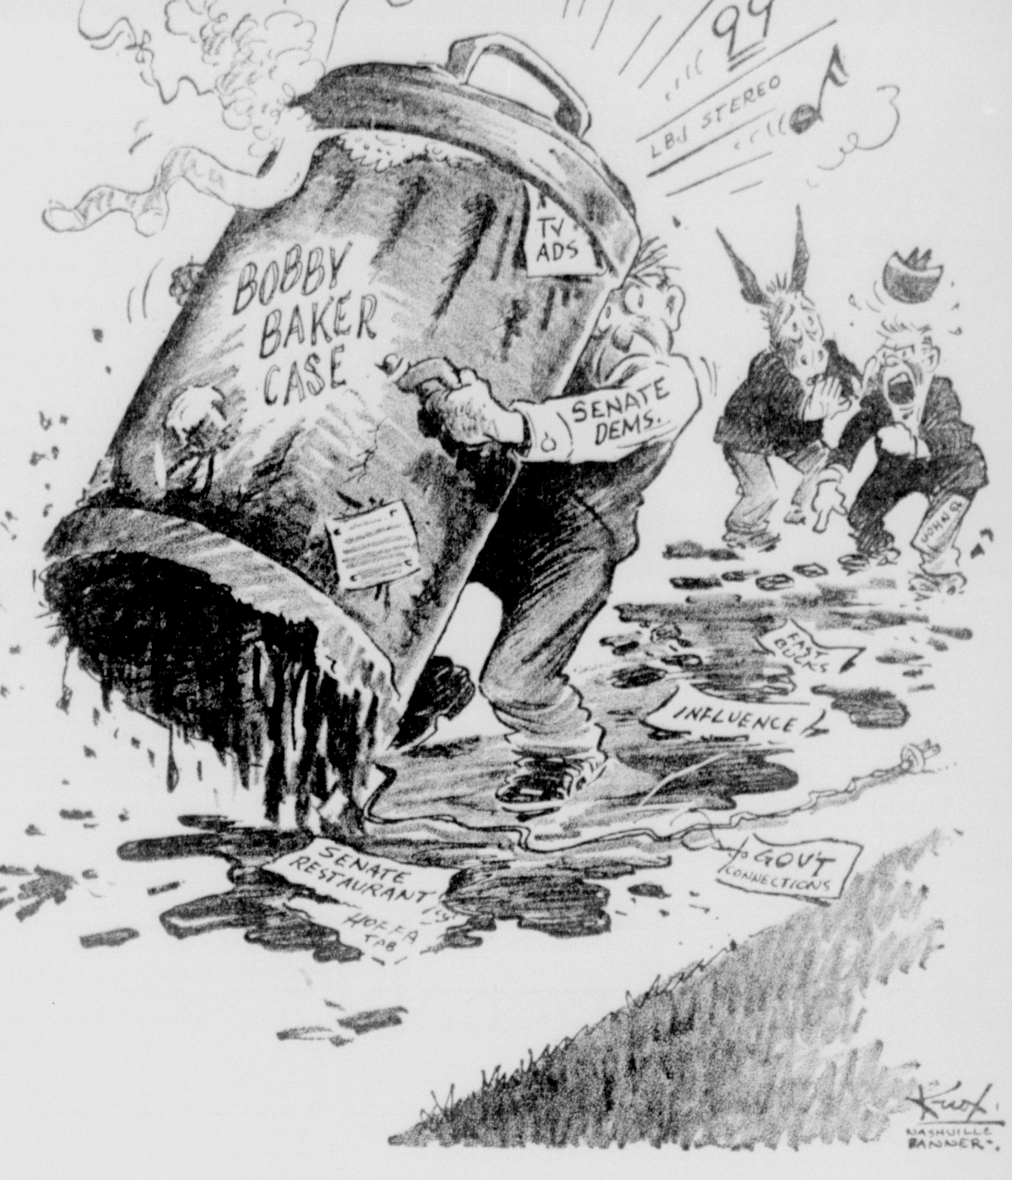
The committees with the highest secrecy rate were the Senate and House Armed Services Committees — 94 per cent and 75 per cent respectively — and the House Foreign Affairs Committee — 51 per cent closed. These committees frequently consider information affecting national security.

The Senate Rules and Administration Committee, investigating the activities of former secretary of the Senate Majority, Robert C. (Bobby) Baker, held 34 meetings in the first three months — half of which were closed.

The House Appropriations Committee traditionally holds all its meetings in executive session because its chairman believes they get more work done and make better use of limited office space.

The counterpart in the Senate, Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.), apparently does not share this view. The Senate Appropriations Committee, under Hayden's chairmanship, held 56 meetings in the first quarter (more than any other committee in House or Senate), of which only 12 were closed.

He's Got The Lid On Tight, But He Can't Stop The Leaks!



Conservatives In Congress Winning 50 Percent Of Time

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — The "conservative coalition" of Republicans and Southern Democrats won exactly half of the votes on which it appeared in the 1963 session of Congress, a survey showed the past week.

On all of the coalition votes on which President Kennedy stated his position, it was in opposition to the coalition. In these contests, Mr. Kennedy won 18 times, 15 in the Senate and 3 in the House. The coalition defeated the President 14 times, 7 in the Senate and 7 in the House.

COALITION APPEARANCE

In a study of voting behavior in both chambers, Congressional Quarterly found that a majority of Republicans and Southern Democrats opposed a majority of the Northern Democrats on 58 (17 per cent) of the session's 348 roll calls. The figure was slightly higher than in 1962, when the coalition appeared on 14 per cent of the votes, but remained well below the 88 roll calls (28 per cent) in 1961.

The lower number in the last two years was due in part to the President's success in winning Republicans or Southerners to his program. Mr. Kennedy was far more successful in stopping the coalition in his second and third years in office than in his first.

Votes on which the coalition might have been expected to appear, and did not, included: House action on a college construction aid bill, House and Senate action on a medical school and student aid bill, Senate action on Area Redevelopment Administration funds, and House action on the tax bill.

On all of these but college aid, Southern Democrats joined Northern Democrats against Republicans. On college aid, Republicans joined Northern Democrats against the Southerners.

On the other hand, some measures on which the coalition might have formed were held up by the Administration to avoid embarrassing defeats. For instance, urban mass transit and area redevelopment bills were stalled in the House Rules Committee because of the risk that they would be defeated on the floor by Republicans and Southern Democrats. A proposal to create an Urban Affairs Department, resoundingly defeated by the conservative coalition in 1962, was not even submitted by the Administration last year.

COALITION VICTORIES

In the Senate in 1963 the coalition successfully opposed an amendment to broaden the dairy bill to include programs similar to those proposed by the President, curtailed the develpment loan program in the foreign aid authorization, trimmed funds for manpower training added funds for the Mexican farm labor program, and limited the scope of the National Service Corps.

In the House, major coalition successes included rejection of additional spending authority for the Area Redevelopment Administration and recommittal of the foreign aid appropriation bill for the purpose of cutting funds.

The coalition in the House at first succeeded in amending the foreign aid appropriation bill to prohibit Export - Import Bank credits for sales to Communist countries, but the majority of Southern Democrats subsequently agreed with Northern Democrats to permit such credits if declared by the President to be in the national interest.

AVERAGE SCORES

The 1963 study also showed that:

On the 1963 test votes, the average Southern Democratic Senator supported the coalition 61 per cent of the time, the average Southern Democratic Representative 58 per cent. By contrast, the average Northern Democratic Senator voted against the coalition 69 per cent of the time, the average House Northern Democrat 73 per cent.

The average Republican Senator supported the coalition 65 per cent of the time, the average Republican Representative 67 per cent.

HIGH-LOW SCORERS

High scorers in support of the conservative coalition in the Senate were Sens. Herman Talmadge (D Ga.), John L. McClellan (D Ark.), Len B. Jordan (R Idaho), Karl E. Mundt (R S. D.), Carl T. Curtis (R Neb.) and John J. Williams (R Del.), all of whom scored 90 per cent or over.

The Southern Democratic Senator with the highest score in opposition to the coalition was Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D Okla.). The Republican Senator with the highest opposition score was Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R. N. Y.).

In the House, eight Members scored 100 per cent coalition support — five Southern Democrats and three Republicans. Seven Northern Democrats and no Southern Democrats or Republicans scored 100 per cent opposition.

Southern Rhodesia Plans No Change In Its Racial Plan

By LYNN HEINZERLING

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—The wind of change is whistling across the Zambazi River from the black north of Africa, but the white government of Southern Rhodesia doesn't hear it.

The month-old government headed by Ian Smith, 45, Rhodesian-born farmer and former Royal Air Force pilot, has taken its stand: The wind, which has lifted white rule from most of Africa, will have to blow itself out in the black republics to the north.

Smith became prime minister of this self-governing British colony last month with the pledge: "No African nationalist government in my time."

"It is vital," he said, "that the government of the country remain in the hands of responsible people."

BANISHED

Since then he has banished the principal African nationalist leader, Joshua Nkomo, to a dusty patch of bush country near the Mozambique border.

Smith and his followers in the Rhodesian Front party have let it be known they are ready to break the tie with Britain and go it alone as an indepedent nation if Britain insists on dictating racial policy.

This is a tall order for a nation of 220,000 whites, many of whom oppose this policy, and nearly four million Africans.

Southern Rhodesia is one of three entities set adrift last December when the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland was dissolved.

The British had hoped to merge the copper of Northern Rhodesia, the agriculture of Southern Rhodesia and the labor force of Nyasaland into a viable federation with a benign policy of racial partnership. But the federation foundered, largely because nobody ever did very much about perfecting racial partnership.

Nyasaland will become the independent nation of Malawi on July 6. Northern Rhodesia, under Prime Minister Kenneth Kaunda, will become the free and independent state of Zambia in October.

THE FUTURE

The future of Southern Rhodesia is not so clear. Nkomo wanted and still expects to set up a black government in a "one man, one vote" election and name the new nation Zimbabwe.

But neither Nkomo nor his rival for leadership of the Africans, the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, has a very firm hold on this uneducated, backward mass. Neither has shown the qualities of leadership displayed by Dr. Hastings Banda of Malawi or by Kaunda.

Indeed, the real antagonists of the government are not these two undistinguished politicians, but rather the black nations to the north, the Afro-Asian group in the United Nations, the Communists and, in the thinking of the Rhodesian Front, Britain.

Rhodesian police for months have been arresting Africans who had slipped across the northern frontier as "freedom fighters." Some of them carried Communist Chinese blueprints for sowing subversion and sabotage in Africa. There is an underground organization of unknown strength known as the "Zimbabwe Liberation Army."

There have been cases of sabotage and incidents of violence, some directed against rival African groups, some against white Europeans. White motorists have been stoned.

Southern Rhodesian police have been able to contain all these disturbances without great difficulty.

EMIGRATION

White emigration from Southern Rhodesia has increased substantially, to an average of about 1,000 a month. Some of this was due to the breakup of the federation and to the fact jobs were not available.

But it is now clear to most Rhodesians that racial decisions delayed for years are upon them. Some have chosen to delay the decisions by moving into the white fortress of Dr. Hendrik Verwoerd in South Africa. Others simply evade them by moving back to Europe or anywhere outside Africa.

Southern Rhodesia has what one economist here described as a fantastic future. It is a prospector's fairyland, loaded with minerals — gold, asbestos, copper, coal, chromite, iron ore, tin and more than a dozen others.

Confidence Shaken

A Small-Town Tragedy Profile

THE FACE OF an assistant bank cashier and bookkeeper, a 28-year-old man with a promising future, an ordained Baptist minister: Lee Roy Brown of Fairfield, Ill. He was all that until last April 6, when he was accused of embezzling almost a million dollars from the bank. Brown is accused of creating two bookkeeping systems. A bank director says Brown told the FBI he learned by studying FBI and fidelity company bulletins on how to detect bank embezzlement. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Lee Brown was rated a comer, a home town boy with the magic touch, and things were going just fine at the bank. Then a persistent depositor couldn't reconcile his bank statement and the FBI uncovered a million dollar shortage. A profile of a small-town tragedy.

By BERNARD GAVZER

FAIRFIELD, Ill. (AP)—At 28, Lee Roy Brown had a thriving pig parlor at one side of town, a kennel of registered foxhounds at the other, a stable of 34 trotters, the presidency of an oil company, a modern ranch-style home.

When he graduated from Fairfield High in 1953, he was president of the Future Farmers of America chapter, a letterman in baseball, holder of an award for being outstanding in the FFA. He was noticed by the bank president who picked him for a job.

In time, Brown married Margaret Mauck, whose father is Wayne County Treasurer Loren Mauck. Everybody said it was a good match; a fine boy, fine girl.

Lee Brown was ordained a Baptist minister.

In this town of 6,362, it had been a long time since anyone had seen the likes of young Lee, a boy of great promise. Other natives made it big—but mostly by leaving Fairfield.

Lee Brown was Fairfield born, Fairfield bred, Fairfield blessed.

UP THE LADDER

At the Fairfield National Bank—"the bank with the big clock"—Lee Brown steadily went up the ladder. In 10 years, he became assistant cashier and bookkeeper. His annual salary was $6,000, and last December he got a $1,500 bonus. His sturdy build, his confident manner, his conservative dress, his black horn-rimmed glasses, all contributed to the portrait of a young man of substance.

Those symbols of prosperity—the pig parlor, the trotters, the kennels, the new house—were considered the fruit of diligent work and smart investment.

He was a comer.

"Every time we'd go huntin' we'd pass by Lee's place out there and see that house," says a young man who grew up with Brown, "And Henry would say, 'Damn, that Lee's got a iron in every fire.' And' I'd shake my head an' say, 'Henry, Lee's got the magic touch.' That's what I'd say. Little did we know."

What they didn't know—and apparently what no one knew, according to the U.S. district attorney—was that for nearly seven years Lee Roy Brown was a student of FBI and bonding company bulletins on how to detect bank manipulations and used them as a guide in violating U.S. Title 18, Section 656: Embezzlement.

"It was a little sin that snowballed into a big sin," Brown said weeks later in his only public utterance regarding the matter. He made the comment from the altar of the Fairfield First Baptist Church, where he asked forgiveness and rededicated himself to Christ.

"We read in the newspapers about this sort of thing happening in other cities, but we would never suspect it in Fairfield," says D. L. Garrison, president of Fairfield National who revealed the alleged shortage April 6.

The shock was instant and numbing. And people said, "Well, if Lee has been short, it can't be much. He doesn't live like a billionaire."

Some people said maybe he was short $15,000. Others guessed $50,000.

Bank examiners and bank personnel checked the books and came up with the tally: $972,371.41.

It isn't visible in the assets that have been listed so far. A local oil man, Glen T. Brock, is the court-appointed receiver and he's been searching for assets. The known ones include:

—The Midwest Stock Farms, known locally as the big parlor because it is a modern operation using up-to-date techniques in breeding and feeding. There are 250 hogs, about 60 head of cattle.

—Lee Brown Kennels, and the Midwest Kennels, comprising some 150 registered foxhounds, a few beagles, and an enormous trailer used as a headquarters.

—The Wayne County Stables, with 15 standardbred trotters in training at the fairgrounds in Fairfield, five in Mayfield, Ky., and 14 on a farm; and five stablehands and trainers.

—One share in Crown Petroleum Associates, Inc., an oil company, of which Brown is president.

—A new home, 90x34 feet, on a 20-acre plot, variously valued at from $30,000 to $35,000; minor interests in oil properties, primarily in Illinois, a 1964 automobile.

NO GUESS

"I wouldn't want to guess what any of it is worth, but a man came along and offered $1,000 for the kennels," says Brock. "I'd suspect he was hoping to get a bargain."

Brock dispenses $450 a week from income from assets; $45 a week to Mrs. Brown and two children, the minimum set by law, and the remainder in salaries for employes and feed for dogs, trotters, hogs and cattle.

The undoing of Lee Roy Brown was the innocent persistence of Arthur Matthews, a Fairfield builder who says he doesn't know the first thing about ledgers and accounts.

This is the way he recalls what happened:

"On the 21st of November, I went to the bank and come up to Lee and he gave me a check to pay for building his house and I endorsed it and he put it in my pass book. As it got on to the end of the year, I was getting my books for the accountant for doing the taxes, and I noticed it wasn't on the bank statement.

"I went to Lee and I said, 'Lee, that money don't show on my statements and I want to get them up to date for the tax man.' Lee said, 'Why, Arthur, I'm sure there's been some error.' And I said, 'No, it ain't.' And Lee said, 'Arthur, you bring me your books and let me look them over. I'll take them home with me tonight.'

"That seemed right reasonable with me. Lee was a fine boy. When I come back to the bank, he give them to me and I shoved them right into my pocket. I thought maybe he'd come up a little short on covering a check to me, so I didn't even give the papers a look.

SAW DEPOSIT

"On toward April I was getting the papers ready for my accountant, and I saw the deposit still wasn't on the statement. I went to Lee again and I told him and he said, 'Arthur, there's some mistake.' He wrote me out another check and fixed my pass book and said it was all right now. Then when I carried my papers over to my CPA he checked all the numbers and he said now there was $2,000 too much. Then he called Dave Garrison over to the bank and said, 'Dave, there's something wrong going on at the bank.'"

Garrison, still a bit ill at ease in discussing the incident, says, "I asked Mr. Brown about the matter and he said he had deposited two checks to cover the one issued to his contractor. I saw the deposit ticket but I asked to see the checks. He said he couldn't put his hands on them at the moment, so I asked him to show me the photostats of the checks. He said he would."

The following morning, Friday, April 3, Brown could be seen crossing under the big clock anchored to the corner of the bank building on Main St., going up the steps and opening the bank. It was early, but Lee had been coming to work before all the others for years.

Alone in the bank, he set to work on the books. He used an adding machine and finally finished his figuring. He wrote a note to Garrison, attached the adding machine tape, put it in an envelope, placed it in the night depository, let himself out of the bank and went to Memorial Hospital. He was depressed.

Garrison declines to say exactly what was in the note, explaining it is in the hands of the FBI. But a bank director says the note describes the nature of manipulations and the adding machine tape contains figures almost matching those tallied by the bank examiners.

"Lee said he was sorry about the whole thing," the director says.

INGENUITY

"Mr. Brown showed great ingenuity," Garrison says. "I can hardly understand it myself after the examiners explained it."

In substance, Brown is accused of creating two bookkeeping systems, one that was a true accounting of the state of the bank's affairs, and the other which showed everything in legitimate balance. It was the second set which bank examiners had checked a month before the jig was up.

Had he ever before shown any talent with figures?

His school record shows that he was an average or just above average student," says the Fairfield High principal, Weldon Kendrick. "As for mathematics, he had the required freshman math."

How could he get the skill to do such a complicated thing as juggling control ledgers?

"The best we can make out from what he's said and what he told the FBI," says a bank director, "is that he learned by reading the bulletins and information sent out by the FBI and fidelity companies on how to detect bank embezzlements."

Their feeling was capsuled in the comment of a high school history expert who says: "In the 145 years Fairfield has been a city all people will remember is that it was the headquarters for the Shelton gang, and now, that Lee Brown took a million dollars from the bank. No one ever says anything about Fairfield being the first city in Illinois to endorse Abraham Lincoln."

A young sister about to graduate this June from Fairfield High avoided classmates for days. Brown's mother has stayed away from her job in a clothing store.

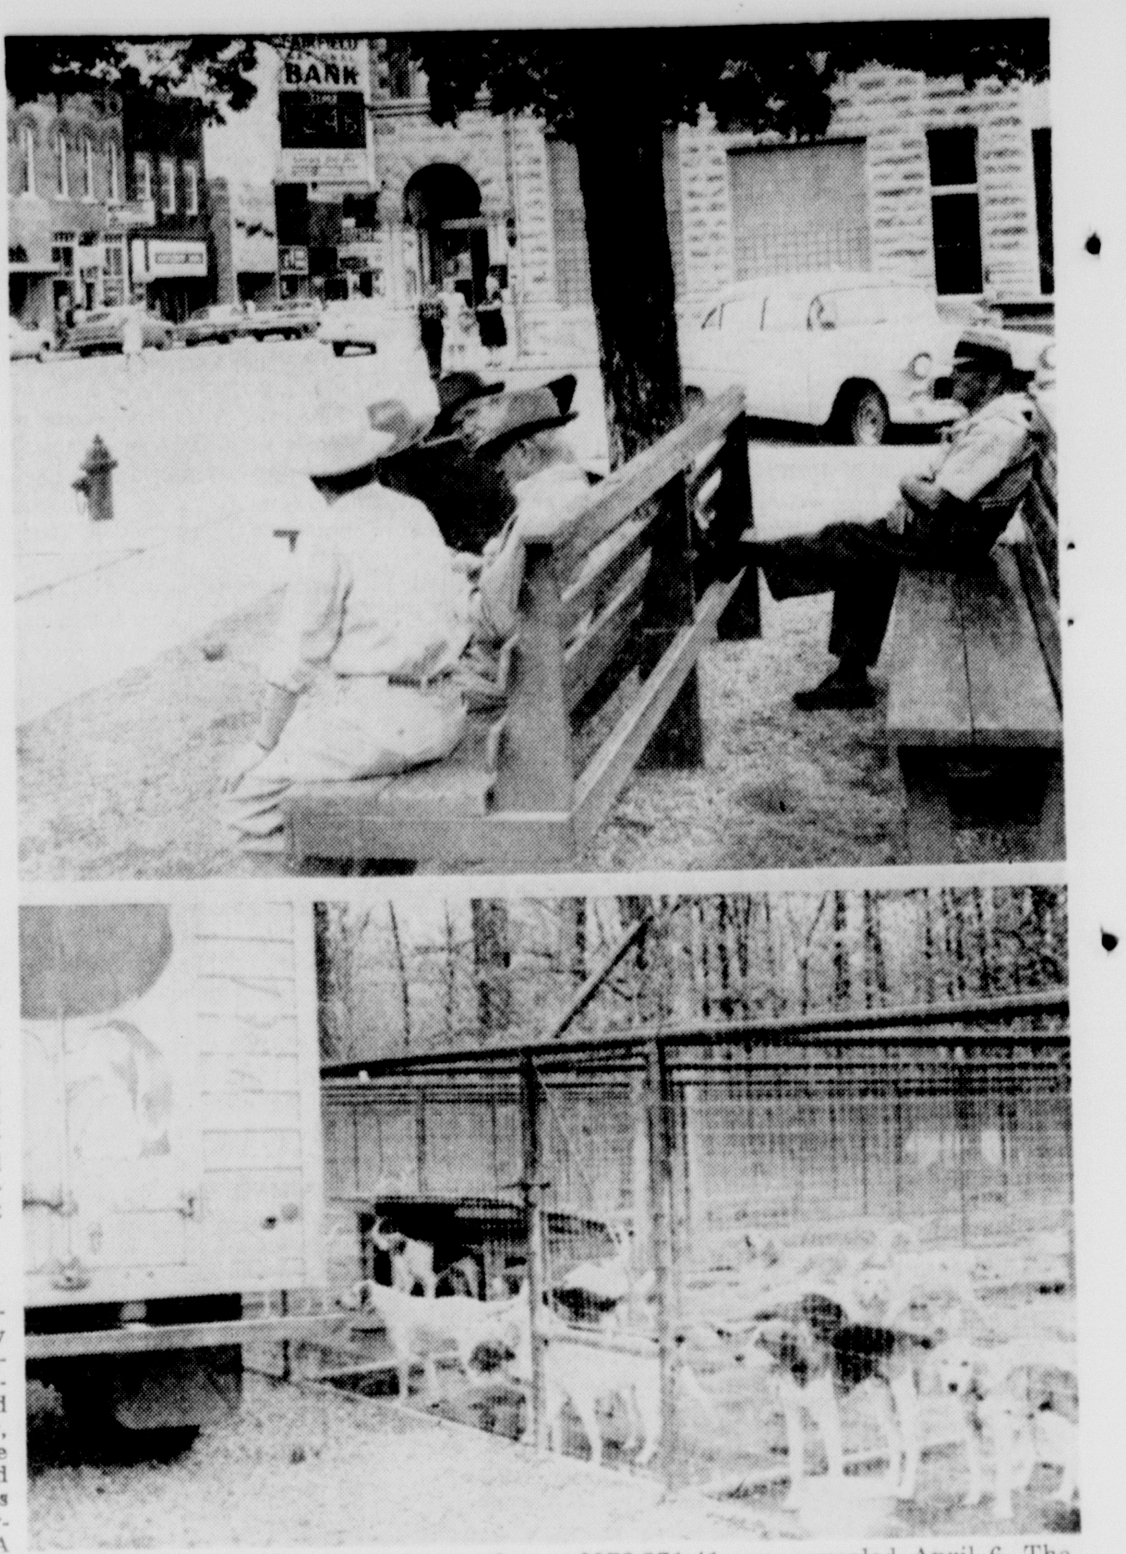
"EASY-GOING"

A brother, William, tends to his business at his gasoline service station and talks awkwardly about his brother as being "a swell, easy-going guy, no different now than when we grew up."

Was there anything about Lee that ever surprised him?

"We were surprised when he became a minister," William says.

Brown was ordained a Baptist minister although he did not attend a seminary. The minister of the church Brown formerly attended explained it wasn't necessary.



THE EASY-GOING atmosphere of a street scene in Fairfield, Ill., top, (population 6,362,) gives no hint of the shock of the recent discovery that Lee Roy Brown has been accused of embezzeling almost a million dollars from the Fairfield National Bank (background.) The alleged shortage of $972,371.41 was revealed April 6. The Lee Brown Kennels (lower) outside his new, modern ranch-style home. The kennels are among a number of business interests held by Brown, who at 28 had been considered one of Fairfield's most promising young men. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

ANTIQUE FIREARMS

It's Not Arsenal; Just Collection

By JOHN FARROW

LONDON (AP)—Step up for a drink at The Cricketers and you're right in the firing line.

Antique guns drip from the ceiling. They pack the walls. Turn around and pistols, long guns, blunderbusses, lances, spears daggers and bayonets face you.

Albert Warren, 63, landlord of the 250-year-old pub in the London suburb of Croydon, reckons his little hostelry is unique.

"I doubt if there's one to match our display anywhere in the world," he said.

And so do the people who flock to the little inn—it holds 100 at the most—from miles around. Try to get in the door on a Saturday night or Sunday—and you'll be lucky.

Warren and his son, Albert Jr., 39, have got together about 600 pieces from countries all over the world.

The guns and other items come from Britain, France, Belgium, Germany, the United States, India, Turkey, Spain, Yugoslavia, the Soviet Union and Italy.

Long guns used in the battles of the American West are there for the customers to see. They're six feet long and, commented Warren: "You needed to be men in those days to handle a rifle like that."

Matchlock. . .flintlock. . . Warren talks about his guns as a mother talks about her children.

His oldest gun dates back to the 16th century. Albert, a skilled craftsman, is capable of overhauling every gun father and son buy at sales.

He's a member of the Muzzle loading Society of Great Britain. "And he's fired nearly every gun we've got here," said his father.

But the pub's not just got guns. It has bayonets tracing the weapon's evolution over the last 300 years.

Mao Tze-tung--Revolution Is Not A Dinner Party

VICTORY OVER landlords, capitalists and the Koumintang has put Mao Tze-tung in the top leadership in Communist China. Now he advocates world revolution. But his main fire is aimed not at the capitalists but at another Communist, the Soviet Union's Nikita Khrushchev. He sees the road to Communism through peaceful coexistence, not violent revolution, in the nuclear age. This is a 1957 photo of Mao Tze-tung. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Thirty-eight years ago, Mao Tze-tung wrote: "A revolution is not the same as inviting people to dinner, or writing an essay, or painting a picture, or doing fancy needlework.

"It cannot," he continued, "be anything so refined, so calm and gentle, so mild, kind, courteous, restrained and magnanimous. A revolution is an uprising, an act of violence whereby one class overthrows another."

When Mao wrote this in 1926, at the age of 33, his antagonists were the rich landlords of his native Hunan Province, his friends the poor peasants whose cause he made his own.

NOW, REVOLUTION

Today, at 71, having defeated landlords, capitalists and the Kuomintang of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in his own land, Mao preaches revolution for the world, advocates bloodletting on an international scale to wipe out capitalism and replace it with communism.

His chief adversary in this great and frightening project is not the United States, the bankers and governments of the West, but one of the giants of communism itself—Nikita Khrushchev.

The Soviet premier disputes Mao's long-held belief that the only sure road to communism is over the bodies of the men and women who oppose it. In the nuclear age, Khrushchev argues that communism must win through peaceful means, using violence sparingly, not as the main weapon.

By now, all the world knows that Mao stands for violence and revolution. Years ago he laid down the celebrated dictum that, "Political power grows out of the barrel of a gun."

In 1937 he said, "Revolutions and revolutionary wars are inevitable in a class society" and "in their absence the people cannot win political power."

A year later he added: "Politics are bloodless war while war is the politics of bloodshed."

All this is published doctrine for all to see. More obscure, however, are the personal reasons which impel Mao—an intellectual of considerable personal charm, a poet, classical scholar and historian—to rest such a deep and terrible faith in the most destructive of man's qualities.

The answers can only be guessed at. Psychologists may find some clues in his early childhood. When he was 10, his teacher often beat him severely for failing to learn the Confucian classics.

Psychologists may find more signposts in his unhappy home life. A severe father frequently lost his temper and thrashed him.

SOUL CORRODED

While still a boy, the young Mao had his first taste of violence when, during a famine in Changsha, the government dealt with an uprising by executing the ringleaders and placing their heads on pikes. This incident, he said later, made a profound and lasting impression on him.

Later, as a Communist, the rust which had begun to corrode Mao's soul deepened as massacres became common on both the Red and the "White" Kuomintang side. What compassion he may have retained must surely have been wiped away by the execution of his brother and sister and of his second wife.

A follower of Lenin, whose own life had been embittered by the Czarist execution of his young brother, Mao learned from the Bolshevik revolutionary that any means, from terror to torture to murder, were justified to achieve victory.

Mao's long and successful struggle against the Kuomintang further served to convince him that there was no substitute for violence; he came to believe that it solved all questions.

Slightly round-shouldered, dressed in loose-fitting tunic and worsted trousers, Mao is a far cry from the average man's image of the hot-eyed revolutionary. The lines of his face are soft and undramatic, his cheeks puffy. Widley spaced eyes look out noncommitally from under sparse eyebrows. A high domed forehead is flanked by straight, oil-black hair whose abundance gives him a leonine look. The nose is long, the mouth wide and sensuous. A mole is set prominently above the fleshy chin.

EASY AIR

When the writer first interviewed Mao in the cave city of Yenann 19 years ago, he was struck by his easy air of authority, the respect which even older men accorded him. Dressed carelessly in worn, patched cottons, his tennis shoes tied loosely on his feet, Mao was a mixture of Chinese courteousness an informality, of peasant humor and seriousiness. He spoke softly but with surgical precision, looking straight into the eyes.

During a community dance, he was all bounce and sparkle, whirling around the floor like some enormous kewpie-doll. In crowds, he had the eerie capacity to be alone, lost in his thoughts, staring fixedly into the distance. When this happened, no one approached him.

In those days, Mao was a man of many facets: devoted father in love with his pretty, young wife; political leader engrossed in party discussions; military strategist mapping campaigns against the Kuomintang, and witty host who could reply, when asked by his American guest why the fare was so lavish: "We are Communist, but we also are Chinese and like good food. Besides, nothing is too good for a guest."

Outwardly, Mao gave no hint of the storms and hatreds which boiled inside of him. He rarely lost his temper in public.

Mao rules over China today like some nebulous Red Buddha, floating above the political cares of day-to-day life which he entrusts to President Liu Shao-chi and Premier Chou En-lai. As chairman of the Communist party, he is the undisputed No. 1 man of China.

In apparent robust health, forced as many men of his age are to be careful of his diet, he lives in an ancient yellow-tiled building in Peking's forbidden city. His chief preoccupation is blocking out the tactics and strategy of what he regards as his greatest battle — the struggle to overthrow Khrushchev and his doctrine of peaceful coexistence.

Endowed with the enduring patience of the Chinese peasant, Mao is convinced that in time he will win this fight as he did that against another obudrate foe — Chiang Kai-shek.

IN 1937 MAO Tze-tung wore patched cottons and still was some years from victory over Generalissimo Chaing Kai-Shek and the Kuomintang. As a boy, he had seen violence in the execution by the Chinese government of leaders of an uprising during a famine. As a young man, a poet and an intellectual, he had formulated the revolutionary theories which were to help lead the Chinese Communists to triumph. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

AN EMERGENCY tests a photographer's ability to shoot automatically under stress. Indianapolis architect J. Parke Randall met this test at the classic Memorial Day 500-mile auto race in 1960 and his pictures made the nation's front pages. As this spectator stand started to collapse, Randall was able to get a series of pictures because he had a Leicavit rapid advance trigger on his camera and he used it with precision.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Memorial Day weekend seems to mark a turning point to outdoor life in many sections of our country. Coming up right after it are some of photography's most glorious days and events which rejuvenate enthusiasm in camera fans — vacation, picnics, children's activities, graduations, June weddings and sports events.

These are activities you can plan for in advance by testing camera operation and adjustments, replacing batteries where necessary, checking filter needs, getting extra film, studying basic settings.

REQUISITE

Unless you are prepared for expected events, you cannot be prepared for unexpected, spontaneous situations. Handling a camera must become an automatic, reflex action in order to capture the fleeting picture of an instant rushing by before it is gone forever. Some picture opportunities may be repeated, like a person's characteristic expression, a revealing gesture or the peak moment of some action. Other photographic opportunities happen only once in a lifetime and a photographer who happens to be present either gets the picture or he doesn't. In the case of an accident or calamity, a photographer is tested in his ability to function under stress, emotional tension or perhaps in physical danger.

CRUCIAL TEST

This recalls the Memorial Day of 1960 which put Indianapolis amateur photographer J. Parke Randall to the test and from which he emerged with a front-page national sensation. The occasion was the classic Indianapolis Speedway auto race. An architect by profession, Randall's proficiency as a photographer had led him to become a "one-day staff member" of the Indianapolis News, covering this event for the fifth year.

Randall took his position at the northeast corner of the Speedway and checked his Leica 111F camera. He selected a 90mm telephoto lens, put it on, then tested the Leicavit rapid - advance trigger. All was in readiness. He started shooting as the 33 cars parade by, jockeying for position for the start of the race.

Behind him the crowd roared with excitement as the pace lap began. Suddenly terrified screams punctuated the frenzy. Randall glanced back. He saw a temporary scaffold, packed with spectators, toppling forward. He swung around and shot a series of pictures as it crashed down, spilling its screaming human cargo.

CALM RECORDING

Behind him the racing cars approached the third turn again. Randall turned back to record them as they passed, since that was his official assignment. Then he swung back again to photograph the tangled mass of wreckage and casualties. Two died and 50 were injured in the fall.

His film went by courier to the Indianapolis News and soon an eight-picture sequence was distributed nationwide by Associated Press Wirephotos. The dramatic pictures went on to win various photo awards.

This year, photo planning for the expected — and the unexpected — goes on again. J. Parke Randall heads an eight-man team of camera fans covering the Memorial Day Speedway race from strategic positions. They'll go back to their jobs in architecture, insurance, engineering, selling and barbering with the satisfaction and thrill of having tested their photographic reflexes and equipment on the chance that a dramatic front-page picture might turn up.

It might even happen to you — at your picnic, graduation, wedding or vacation. Are you and you camera prepared?

The Republic of Togo has honored its fourth anniversary of independence by releasing a set of four stamps which were issued on its Independence Day (April 27). One stamp shows phosphate mines, Togo's main mining industry. Another stamp depicts the phosphate plant at Kpeme. A third illustrates a railroad. The fourth bears a ship at a phosphate wharf. Also issued by Togo was a set of new stamps commemorating the first anniversary of the signing of the African Charter. These stamps have a common design showing an African breaking the chains of slavery with a map of the African continent in the background. These stamps were printed for the Togolese government in Israel.

AMUSEMENTS

CURTAIN CALL

This evening's performance of "Take Her, She's Mine," will be followed by a break in the run until Thursday, when the comedy resumes for four more nights. The box office is open today from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. to take reservations for tonight's and subsequent performances. After closing tomorrow and Tuesday, it re-opens Wednesday for the duration of the run.

The flood of 500 advance mail reservations before the box office opened last week suggests that "Take Her, She's Mine" will be one of our most popular attractions. As it is the last production of the regular season and Strauss Playhouse will be dark until July 24, we urge our members not to miss this delightful show. Just call FAirfax 3-1235 after 2 p.m. today and make sure of your seat.

AUDITIONS

"My Fair Lady" auditions will take place Monday and Tuesday nights at Strauss Playhouse at 7:30 p.m. For years to come, it will be a matter of distinction and pride to have appeared in this memorable show and we hope that the best talent in Monroe and environs will come forward to seek parts.

As everyone knows, the leads are Professor Henry Higgins, a speech expert, who transforms a cockney waif, Eliza Doolittle, into a society lady and wins her love in the process. Played on Broadway by Julie Andrews, Sally Ann Howes and a succession of others, Eliza must simulate both cockney and British accents, and sing divinely as well. Among her many outstanding songs are "I Could Have Danced All Night" and "Wouldn't It Be Lovely?" As Henry Higgins, Rex Harrison half-spoke and half-sang songs like "I've Grown Accustomed To Her Face."

GREAT PART

Doolittle, Eliza's boisterous father, is a great character part with two rousing songs, "With A Little Bit Of Luck" and "Get Me To The Church On Time." Then there is Eliza's devoted suitor Freddy who sings the beautiful "On The Street Where You Live." Another featured role is Pickering who stays with Higgins to participate in Eliza's metamorphosis from moth to butterfly.

FOR ALL AGES

There are parts for all ages in "My Fair Lady," from matrons like Mrs. Higgins, Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Pearce to assorted costermongers, flower vendors, maids and footmen. The superb music demands good voices in most roles and there are several dance numbers for the chorus parts. Let's have a tremendous turn out Monday and Tuesday nights to give executive director Richard M. Clark an embarrassment of riches from which to choose.

The opening night performance of "Take Her, She's Mine," was attended by a delegation from the Minden Little Theatre, headed by Susan Brooks, director of their forthcoming production of "Send Me No Flowers." Although operating on the proverbial shoestring, Minden has a bandbox playhouse that compares favorably with our old one at Selman Field. It takes only 90 minutes to drive to Minden these days, so some of our members might want to encourage them by attending "Send Me No Flowers" on June 4, 5 or 6, at 8 p.m. Cash admission is $1.50. For directions, call Bob Evans at FA 5-3200.

Rails Rally, Mine Stocks Set Off Week

NEW YORK (AP)—A rally by rails and some further excitement over companies with new discoveries of mineral wealth highlighted an irregular stock market week.

Rail shares advanced vigorously on Wednesday in response to news that Pennsylvania Railroad and New York Central had signed an agreement with 17 rail unions on job protection measures, eliminating a major hurdle to the proposed merger of the two big carriers.

Many other railroads are involved in merger possibilities so the Central-Pennsy agreement seemed like a milestone in the rocky road to rail mergers in general.

The rail rally spread somewhat to the rest of the stock list and gave the market its only advance of the week. Stocks were down sharply on Monday and Tuesday. Thursday and Friday witnessed an irregular performance.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week declined 5.36 to 820.87.

The Dow Jones rails, however, kept a husky advance of 5.71 at 207.29.

In the list of 1,523 issues traded this week, 728 declined and 611 advanced.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks took a small loss of .4 at 306.8.

Volume for the week totaled 23,810,207 shares compared with 25,505,050 the previous week.

U.S. government bond prices settled back small fractions last week to end a four-week rise to 1964 peaks. Corporate posted equally small gains in a continuation of last week's move that produced the first advance in three months.

Of 574 issues traded, 279 advanced, 169 declined, 126 were unchanged, 62 set new highs and 27 were at 1964 lows.

Volume totaled $47,037,000 par value compared with $51,748,000 the previous week.

Hopes Mounting For Lift Of Gas Price Controls

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Oilmen are becoming more optimistic over prospects of Congress removing federal controls from the wellhead prices of natural gas.

Among those apparently more optimistic is the industry's chief spokesman, Frank N. Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute.

Ikard is a former Texas Congressman who supported gas decontrol bills that were vetoed by former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Less than two years ago Ikard was rather pessimistic about prospects for congressional approval of a third bill.

"I'm afraid it may be a long time before the needed legislation to modify federal controls over gas producers will have any real chance," he said in a Dallas, Tex., speech on Oct. 12, 1962.

Last week, however, Ikard told two trade groups 10 years of regulatory frustration have changed the situation.

In speeches at Abilene, Tex., and Evansville, Ind., he said:

"Natural gas producers are prepared to present their case to the legislative bodies of this nation. They are more than prepared—they are loaded. With a decade of regulatory experience behind them, they can now talk about not what will happen but what has happened."

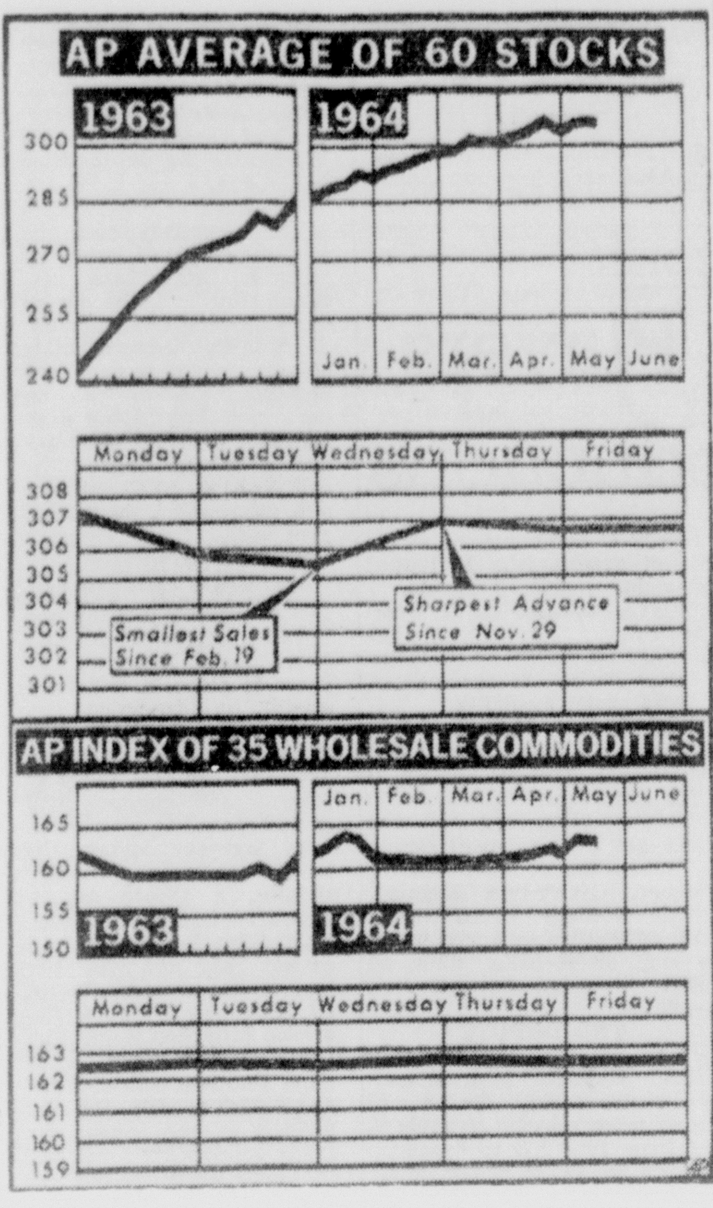
At Abilene, Ikard then expressed his optimism this way:

"I do not see how the story they have to tell can fail to make an impression in Washington."

Three days later at Evansville, Ikard changed his optimistic view to read this way:

"The chances of their story making a favorable impact in Washington, I would say, are quite good."

Ikard told the West Central Texas Oil & Gas Association at Abilene the Federal Power Commission abandoned in 1960 six years of effort to regulate wellhead prices on an individual producer basis. The FPC switched to an area formula calling for prices for each of the nation's 23 major gas producing areas.



THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks declined for first time in three weeks when it closed Friday at 306.8 from 307.2 a week ago. Led by textiles the commodity index moved lower for the second straight week in a row, closing Friday at 162.5 from 162.7 in preceding period. (AP Wirephoto)

Drillers Quicken Pace In District

The tempo of activity picked up last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District, though the number of completions remained small — only two, both in Catahoula Parish.

District Manager Duncan S. Cook reported a total of 21 rigs actively drilling or testing at week's end. He located them in eight of the district's 15 parishes: seven in LaSalle Parish, three each in Richland and Tensas, two each in Catahoula, Concorida and Rapides, and one each in Avoyelles and Ouachita Parishes.

Earnings And Spending Hit New Record Levels

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are earning more than ever.

This became evident during the week with a report by the Commerce Department that personal income in April rose to a record level.

They're spending it at a record pace, too.

This was shown by zooming sales by automobile manufacturers and department store and variety store chains.

Personal income, continuing its steady gain of recent months, climbed $2.2 billion last month to an annual rate of $483.1 billion.

Of the total increase, $1.6 billion was in wages and salaries, and of that amount half was in wage and salary payments in manufacturing industries.

The big department store chain, Sears, Roebuck & Co. reported record first-quarter profits and forecast record sales and earnings for the year. The variety chain, F. W. Woolworth Co. said sales were running 18 per cent ahead of a year ago.

John A. Barr, chairman of another department store chain, Montgomery Ward & Co., predicted that consumer spending should rise more than 6 per cent this year to $398 billion and retail sales should increase about 5 per cent to $262 billion.

Both gains would exceed those of 1963 when consumer spending climbed 5 per cent to $373 billion and retail sales 4 per cent to $246 billion.

The Commerce Department reported that U.S. production of goods and services ran at an annual rate of $608 billion in the first quarter of this year. This was a bit below its original estimate of $608.5 billion. The lag was attributed by officials to the reduced rate at which businesses built inventories during the quarter.

Orders received by durable goods manufacturers in April increased 7 per cent. New orders totaled $20.6 billion against $19.3 billion in March. Shipments climbed by $500 million to $19.4 billion.

On the darker side, housing starts in April slacked off to the slowest pace since last summer. Starts dropped 6 per cent from March to an annual rate of 1,558,000, the census bureau reported.

This rate was the lowest since the 1,455,000 rate of last August and was 4 per cent below the April 1963 rate of 1,618,000.

However, an economist for the National Association of Home Builders said the April decline wasn't a surprise because the rate "just couldn't keep going up," as it had in recent months. He said there still is a healthy demand and mortgage money is ample.

The construction industry as a whole is operating at a record level and on the strength of commitments already made is assured of sustaining the present pace through this year, the National industrial conference board was told by M.J. Warnock, president of Armstrong Cork Co.

Steel production boomed during the week to the highest level in almost a year. Output rose to 2,513,000 tons from 2,492,000 the previous week.

In the first 20 weeks of 1964, production came to 46,506,000 tons, up 4.6 per cent from the 44,451,000 turned out in the like period of 1963.

Automobile production dipped during the week to an estimated 170,098 passenger cars from 174,662 last week, but was far ahead of the 149,049 built a year ago.

Monarch Tile, Sales, Earnings Rise Reported

Both sales and earnings of Monarch Tile for the first six months of the fiscal year ended March 31 showed a strong increase over the same period last year, according to an interim report released yesterday by the San Angelo, Texas, company. The company is represented in Monroe by Victor N. Davis.

Bill C. Baker, president, said the increase followed a pattern that has reflected the steady growth and progress of the company since 1961, with each year showing an increase over the previous year.

Sales during the six months period of this fiscal year increased by 15 per cent to $1,830,221.96. Net income per share more than tripled to .481.

Baker attributed the unusually large increase in profits in part to the company's entry into the Midwest with several excellent new distributor outlets.

MAY SNOW HITS PASS

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—Snow tires and chains were the order of the day Saturday for travelers heading through British Columbia's Allison Pass.

The pass, on the Hope-Princeton Highway, was hit by more than five inches of snow Friday night and Saturday. The weather bureau said it was "rather late in the year for this kind of weather . . ."

Mississippi Drillers Make Explorations

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Smackover lime exploratory drilling in Mississippi saw one wildcat in Clarke County Saturday being deepened to 13,600 feet and a second abandoned with no information released by the operator.

T. J. Glennon is deepening his Hall No. 1, sec. 21-1n-17e, near the shallow west Langdale Field of Clarke County after reports that the top of the Smackover lime was not reached to contract depth of 12,500 feet.

The Brandon Co. has abandoned its Clarke County wildcat, the Longbell No. 1, sec. 6-2n-17e, six miles east of Quitman with no information being released. The venture was drilled to 11,500 feet.

Wildcat drilling in search of Smackover lime production has been on the increase since the discovery last year of the Bienville Forest Field of northeastern Smith County opening the first Smackover lime oil production for the state.

Northeast of the Bienville Forest Field in Newton County, State Exploration Co. is drilling below 11,900 feet in its closely watched wildcat, the Johnson No. 1, sec. 21-6n-10e, with contract depth 12,500 feet.

In Scott County, Northwest of the Bienville Forest Field, Pan American Petroleum Corp. is drilling below 8,100 feet in its wildcat, the U.S.A.-Bell No. 1, sec. 18-5n-8e, a 15,500 foot smackover lime test.

The second well in the recently discovered Mt. Olive Field of Smith County is below 12,000 feet. The test is Triad Oil and and Gas Co.'s No. 1, Richardson sec. 32-10n-16w, and is set to be drilled to 13,000 feet.

In Covington County, Pan American is drilling near 16,000 feet in its wildcat, the Miller No. 1, sec. 27-7n-16w, south of Collins. The well has contract depth of 16,700 feet and is located near an abandoned wildcat that logged uncommercial oil shows below 13,500 feet.

Pacid Oil Co. is drilling below 6,500 feet in its Weems No. 5, sec. 23-9n-10w, in the Pool Creek Field of Jones County with contract depth 13,300 feet. Placid recently completed its Weems No. 1, sec. 22-9n-10w, for the first Cotton Valley sand well in the field. Operators also tested uncommercial oil shows in the Smackover lime formation below 13,000 feet before plugging back and completing from perforations at 12,776-86, 12,814-26 and 12,862-74 feet.

Central Oil Co. completed its Ben Stevens No. 9, sec. 19-4n-9w, in the Glazier Field of Perry County, pumping 93 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 7,030-56 feet.

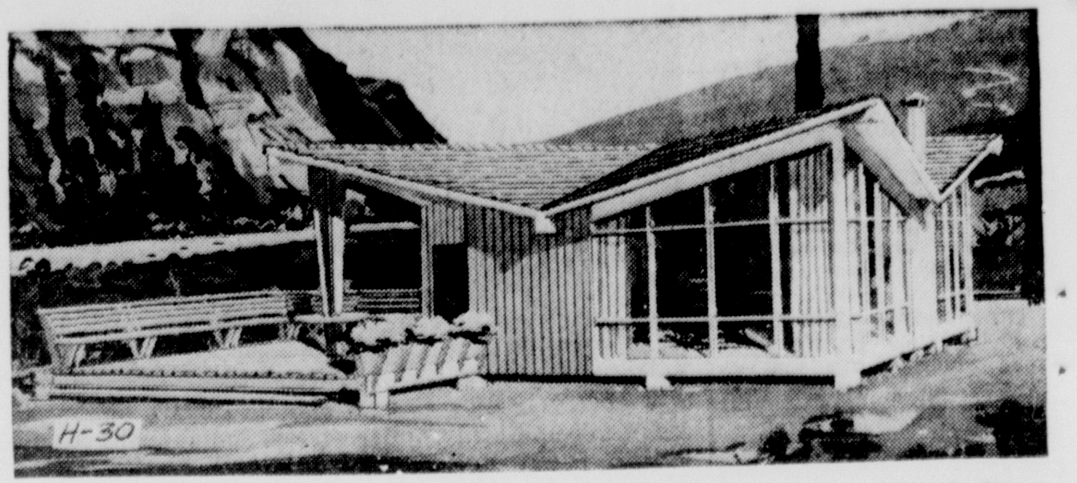
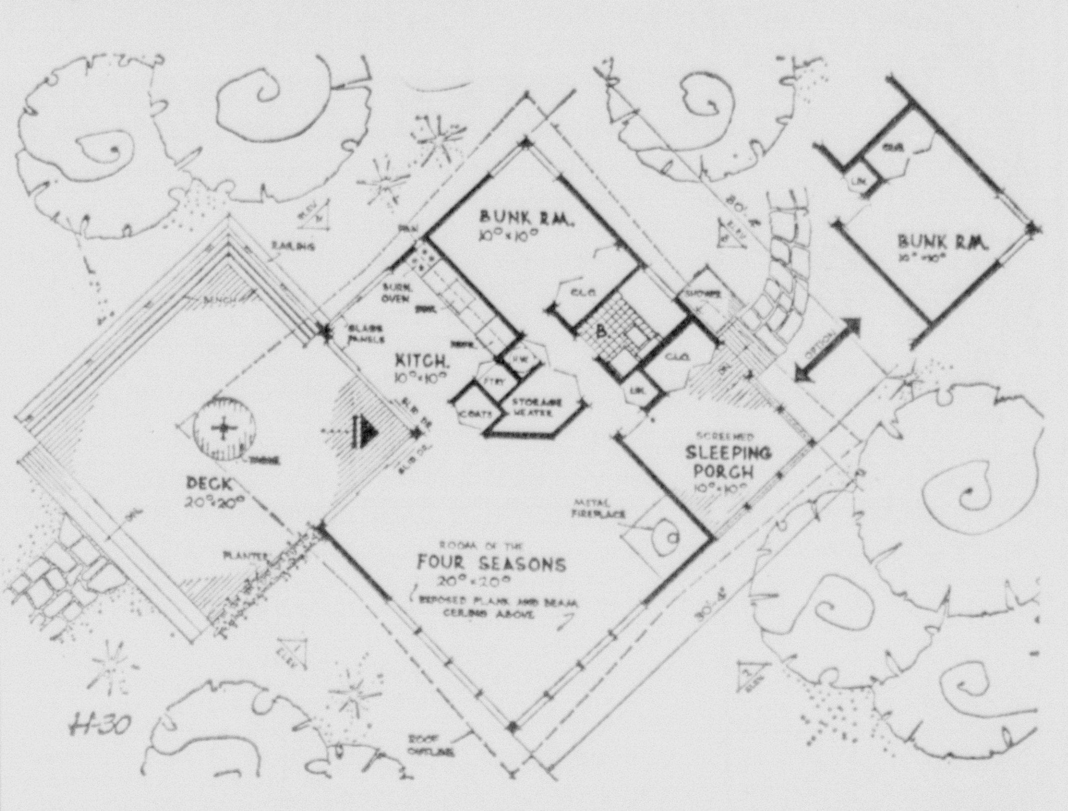
HOUSE OF THE WEEK

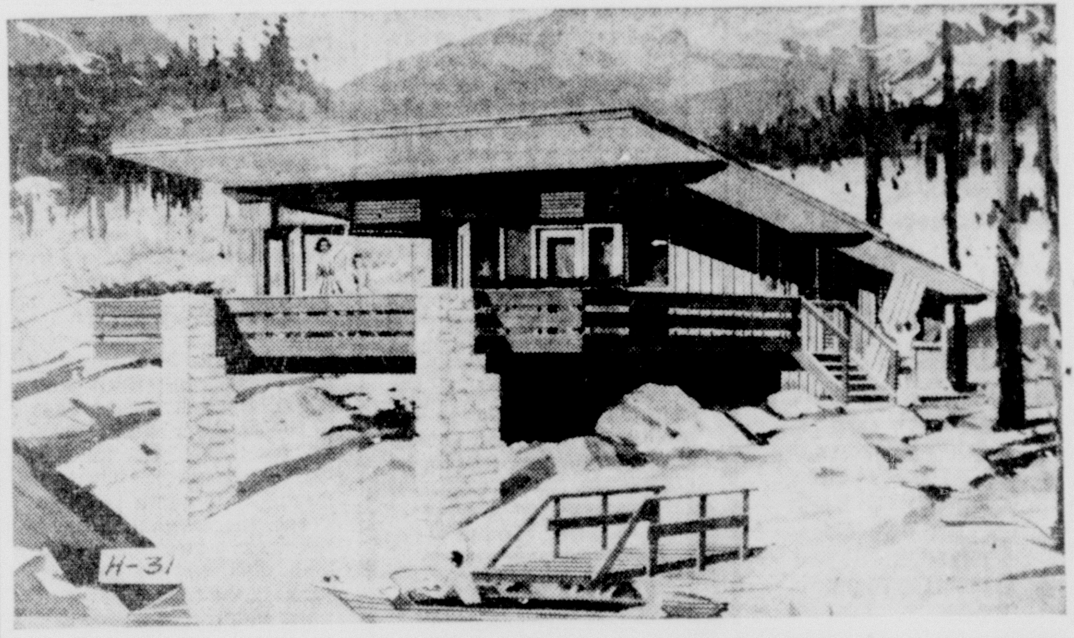
These 2 Vacation Homes Are Simple, Attractive



LEISURELY STRIKING: Architect York's house features a dramatic roof line and a broad deck at one corner. On the opposite corner is a covered sleeping porch or, as an alternate, a second bunk room.



H-30 FLOOR PLAN: The house proper contains 718 square feet; the deck is 400 square feet and the sleeping porch 100 square feet. Dimensions excluding the deck are 30'4" by 30'4".



ADAPTABLE SPLIT! Architect Matern's design can be adapted to the slope of the terrain merely by adding or eliminating risers and varying the roof pitch. The basic house is 768 square feet, not counting the deck.

By one estimate there are more than a million vacation houses scattered throughout America's countryside and seashores and more are going up at the rate of 85,000 a year.

There are plenty of reasons for the growing trend: more leisure time, better transportation and longer vacation periods, of course, but also because many families are beginning to realize a second home is a sound investment.

If designed with care it can become valuable rental property during the off seasons, and an even more valuable retirement home for later years.

Today house-of-the-Week readers have a choice of two such homes. One, designed by architect Herman H. York, is a contemporary model with a basic area of 718 square feet. The other, by architect Rudolph A. Matern, is a 768 square foot split-level cottage.

York's home features a dramatic roof line formed by a simple pair of cross gables set with the ridges running from corner to corner, opening each corner of the house to ridge height.

Set around one structural corner, adjoining the kitchen, is a 400 square foot deck with a built-in table. On the opposite corner is a covered sleeping porch, screened, and accessible to the bath and linen facilities. As an alternate to the porch, York offers a second fully enclosed bunk room.

The main room is 20' by 20', has a metal fireplace and an exposed plank and beam ceiling. The adjoining kitchen has adequate room for dining.

The exterior is done in vertical boards to simplify cutting of the wall surface because of the sloping roof line. The roof should be of medium size cedar shakes, says York, to avoid overpowering the scale of the comparatively small building.

Architect Matern chose the split-level approach to take advantage of varied terrain conditions at most vacation spots.

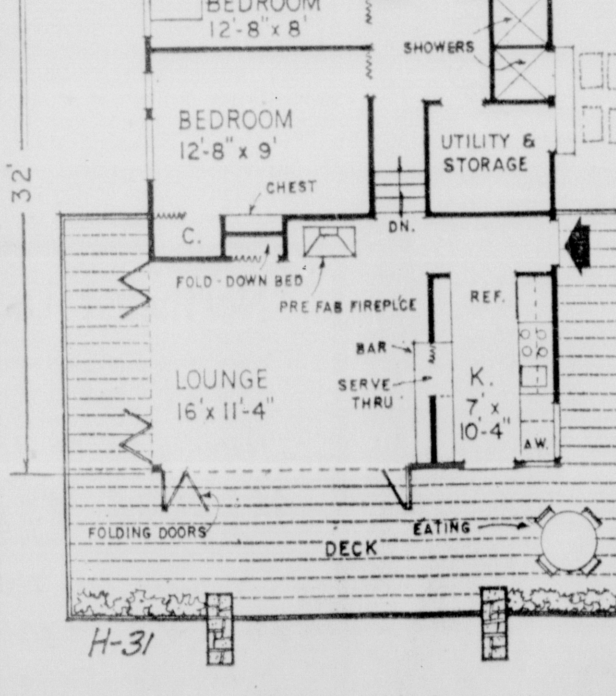
The cottage features extremely simple post and beam construction — three beams and posts in the roof and four beams and concrete block piers in the floor. A handyman could build the wall panels (one a 4' module so that 4' wall panels could be used easily) in his basement and truck them to the building site himself.

If the slope of the ground is extreme, the split may be increased as much as eight risers. If the grade is level the house could either remain a split or become a one-story by eliminating the stair and reducing the roof pitch.

The main lounge room is completely open to the broad deck, and the opening units are simplified: individual glazed doors, hinged together and hung on folding door hardware.

Inside is a movable pre-fab fireplace, an extra fold-down bed in the lounge, an inside-outside shower arrangement, and a well designed kitchen with a pass-through serving bar to the lounge.

A full study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan H-30, H-31.



H-31 FLOOR PLAN: The main lounge is completely open to the broad deck through individual glazed doors hinged together. Note the outdoor shower arrangement on the side of the house.

QUITA DUDE SECOND

Cyrano Race Winner; Kelso's Next To Last

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Kelso, making his first start in six months and packing 130 pounds, ran next to last Saturday as Cyrano captured the $55,500 Los Angeles Handicap at Hollywood Park.

Practically never in the race at any stage, Kelso, the heavily backed favorite, ran eighth in the field of nine as the second choice with the crowd of some 55,000, Cyrano, took charge at the top of the stretch and won pulling away.

Quita Dude was second and Admiral's Voyage third.

The time for the seven furlongs was 1:21.2.

Jockey Johnny Rotz was flown from New York to ride Cyrano for the Greentree Stable, and an artful job he did in rating the sprint-loving 5-year-old.

Cyrano returned $8.20, $4.60 and $3.20. Quita Dude, with Johnny Longden aboard, paid paid $16.60 and $7.20 and Admiral's Voyage, ridden by Bill Shoemaker, returned $4.80.

While the magnetic name of Kelso, winner four times in a row of horse of the year laurels and second all-time money winner in horse racing, merited his popularity, the physical facts were against him.

Seven furlongs is hardly his distance. He hadn't raced at this short distance since his young years.

His 130 pounds, which included jockey Ismael Valenzuela, was six more than Cyrano's package.

And he hadn't raced since last Nov. 11 when he lost by one-half length to Mongo in the Washington, D.C., International at Laurel.

The field broke out of the gate without incident, with a featherweight, Nevada Battler, on top.

Nevada Battler hung on to the front down the backstretch with Viking Spirit and Cyrano close behind. Kelso at this point was running sixth.

At the far turn Viking Spirit moved to the lead, Cyrano not far behind and Kelso losing a position.

It was apparent even then that this was not a day for the magnificent Kelso. Turning into the stretch the big, dark bay son of a California favorite, Your Host, was dead last. He managed to get up in the final strides to finish ahead of the erstwhile pace-setting Nevada Battler.

This was Kelso's first appearance in competition in California, and the crowd gave him a generous ripple of applause as he paraded past the grandstand to the post.

The race figured to be a tune-up, if nothing else, for Kelso's next date at Hollywood Park—the $100,000-added Californian two weeks away.

The distance and the weights will be more to his liking in the Californian.

Rawls Grabs 1st Place In Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—Veteran Betsy Rawls came from a tie for fifth into first place in the $13,500 Dallas Civitan Open golf tournament Saturday as Ruth Jessen, the leader at 36-holes, and Mickey Wright, who jockeyed for the lead, faltered in the stretch.

Miss Rawls had 211 for 54 holes and led Sherry Wheeler by one stroke going into Sunday's final round.

Miss Rawls shot a par 71 while Miss Jessen soared to a 76 as she fought the high winds that swept the 6,238-yard Glen Lakes Country Club course.

Miss Wheeler shot a 72 to forge into second place at 212 while Miss Jessen fell to third with 213.

Miss Wright, the greatest winner in women's golf, started fast and led Miss Rawls and Miss Jessen by two strokes through the first nine holes of the third round. But she ran into two double bogeys coming in and finished with a 76 for 214.

Louise Suggs, anothe. favorite, took a 75, and fell into a tie with Miss Wright and Shirley Englehorn, who had a 75, for fourth place at 214.

The wind frustrated virtually every player and there was only one sub-par round. That was a 69 shot by Marilynn Smith, who made her 54-hole total 216.

Rawls rounded the first nine one-under-par as the result of a four-foot birdie putt on 8.

She missed four putts of four feet on the back nine, two of them leading to bogeys. She also bogeyed 10 when in a trap but squared it with a two-foot birdie putt on 11. She three-putted 14 but birdied 16 with a 12-footer. She took three from the edge on 17 for another bogey.

Starting out Saturday Miss Wright, behind Miss Jessen by a stroke, birdied the third hole to take the lead after Miss Jessen had bogeyed the second. Then the jockeying for the lead began in earnest with no one noticing Miss Rawls until after the first nine holes.

Miss Jessen said "I just didn't hit it very good but she wasn't giving up. It looks like a great race tomorrow."

Miss Wright said it was "the most frustrating day I can remember." She overclubbed once underclubbed once, hit the pin for a two stroke penalty on 17 and was in the water once.

Bosox Squeeze Past Athletics 5-4, On Homer

BOSTON (AP)—Pinch hitter Felix Mantilla leaned into a 2-0 pitch and crashed a two-run homer with one out in the ninth inning as Boston pulled out a 5-4 victory over Kansas City Saturday.

The winning blow came after Bob Tillman walked and was forced by Roman Mejias. The latter pair had hit consecutive homers in the fifth. The Red Sox pulled into a 3-3 tie when Carl Yastrzemski drew a bases-loaded walk off loser John Wyatt in the eighth.

In the top of the ninth, Ed Charles' line smash to left which rookie Tony Conigliaro couldn't hold appeared to have salvaged a 4-3 Kansas City triumph. The fielder got his glove on the ball inches off the ground but it bounded away and scored Dick Green.

Earlier, Jim Gentile of the A's batted away his frustration with a pair of solo homers and a sacrifice fly.

Some 15 hours earlier Gentile had been so upset at his batting slump which sent his average down to .252 he sat sulking in the dressing room staring at the wall.

Friend Hurls Five-Hit Job To Top Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Bob Friend pitched a five-hitter as the Pittsburgh Pirates trounced the San Francisco Giants 9-2 behind the hitting of Jerry Lynch and Roberto Clemente.

Lynch homered off starter Gaylord Perry in the first inning following Bill Virdon's single. He sent another run home in the Pirates' two-run third.

Clemente slammed a two-run homer off Perry in the seventh. He also scored in the third after he singled.

Friend, now 4-3, limited Willie Mays to a double in four at bats. That sliced Mays' national League-leading average five points to .400. The Giant captain scored on Orlando Cepeda's second single of the game in the sixth.

San Francisco scored its first run in the second on a walk and singles by Cepeda and Jim Davenport.

The Pirates added two runs in the eighth as Jim Pagliaroni singled across one run and Friend sent another home on a squeeze bunt.

Line-Up Set For Memorial Day 500 Run

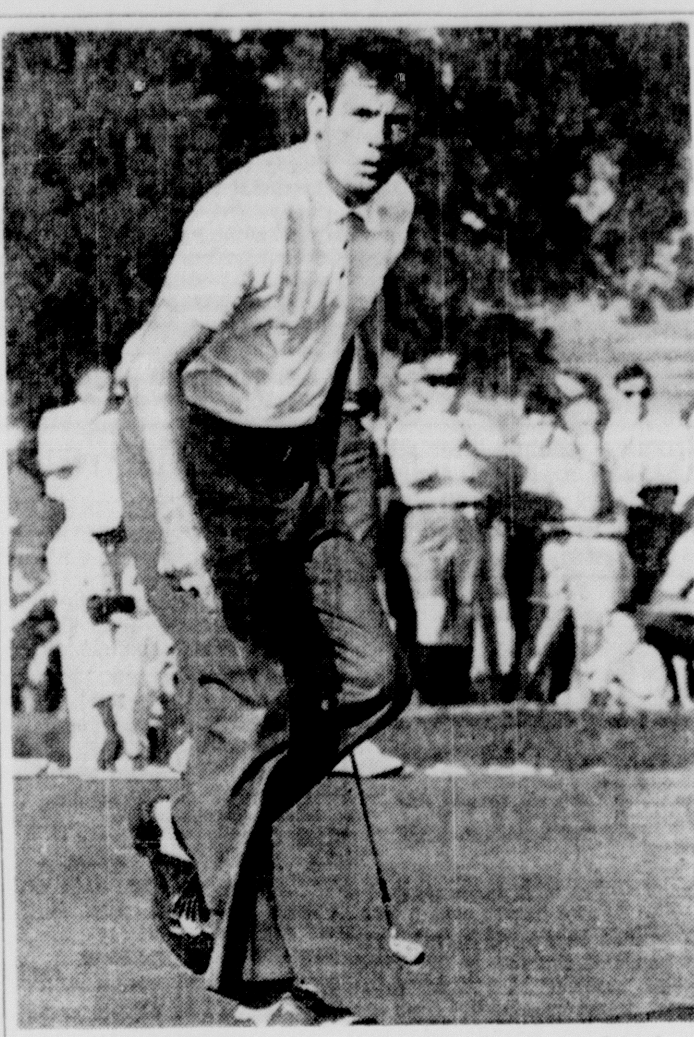
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A veteran Australian and an American put two British-American hybrid cars into the 500-mile Memorial Day race line-up Saturday in the next-to-last session of 10-mile qualifications at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Jack Brabham, 38, twice world road racing champion, flew back overnight from practicing for today's Dutch Grand Prix and qualified his Brabham-Offenhauser at 152.504 miles an hour.

Brabham ran without his chief mechanic, Denny Moore of Tulsa, Okla., who was struck in the side by a wing nut thrown from the separated wheel of a car driven by Paul Russo of Indianapolis. Moore was listed in good condition at Methodist Hospital.

Russo maneuvered his car around two turns on three wheels and was not hurt.

Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., turned in the fifth best speed of the first 26 qualifiers. His average Saturday with an American Novi engine in a four-wheel drive English Ferguson chassis was 154.865. He had top laps over 155.



DOUG SANDERS, had an anguished look on his face as his ten foot putt heads toward the hole on No. 4 in Saturday's round of the Memphis Open. Sanders shot a 66 to tie with Mike Souchak, Gene Littler, Billy Casper for first place. (AP Wirephoto)

AT MEMPHIS

Four Deadlock For Open Lead

MEMPHIS (AP) — Doug Sanders, Mike Souchak, Gene Littler and Billy Casper jammed into a tie for the third round lead in the $50,000 Memphis Open golf tournament Saturday with nine-under-par 201s.

For Casper, leader after two rounds at eight-under-par, it was a matter of hanging on under the pressure of 66s by Sanders and Littler, and a 67 by Souchak. Casper had a one-under-par 69.

Sanders and Souchak closed with five birdies each on the back nine and caught Casper and Littler on the 18th green. Casper and Littler got their decisive birdies on the long 16th holel.

The 201 score after 54 holes is the lowest on the tour this year.

Mason Rudolph fired a 66 to take second place with 202.

Bruce Devlin, Tommy Jacobs and defending champion Tony Lema were bunched at 203, while Johnny Pott and Art Wall Jr. were three strokes back at 204.

Sanders, a wise-cracking 30-year-old whose game picked up when his six-year-old son Brad joined the gallery Saturday, turned at par and started the backside with two straight birdies, three pars and two more birdies.

His chances dimmed with a bogey at 17 that dropped him a stroke behind the pace. A strong 3-iron on the par five No. 18 put Sanders on the green and two putts gave him a tie for the lead.

Souchak turned one-over for the round despite an eagle on the 324-yard No. 2. but recovered with a strong finish, closing birdie, par, birdie. The tying stroke was a 6-iron on No. 18 that put the 37-year-old slammer on the distant green in two.

Littler, 33, had one bogey for the day while chasing Casper, who was in the same threesome. Littler sank a 15-foot birdie putt to go nine-under on the par five No. 16.

Littler got a break on 14 when a member of the gallery grabbed his ball as it rolled down the steep backside and tossed it back on the green. After a ruling, Littler placed the ball a foot down the hill, chipped up and dropped his putt for a par.

Casper, the portly 32-year-old putting ace played better than his 69 indicated. He was nine-under after 11 holes, slipped down a notch on 12 and made it nine for good on 16 with a chip shot out of tall rough that stopped one foot from the pin.

Arnold Palmer came back under par with a 68 to bring his total to 207, while Jack Nicklaus came under par for the first tmie with an impressive 66 for 208.

After 54 holes, 46 golfers were at par or better over the 6,466-yard 34-36 — 70 Colonial Country Club course.

Vols Schedule Memphis State For Grid Game

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The University of Tennessee and Memphis State announced officially Saturday what had been rumored for months—they will play each other in football.

Bob Woodruff, Tennessee athletic director, said the first game in what will be at least a two-game series would be played Sept. 28, 1968, at Memphis.

"We'll play again in 1969, but the site and date is yet to be agreed on," Woodruff said.

Pitching Coach Howie Pollet of the St. Louis Cardinals led National League pitchers in the earned run records in 1943 and 1946.

Minnesota Beats Baltimore, 5-1 On Small Hits

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Minnesota Twins without their usual display of power, combined one-base hits and the good pitching of Lee Stange for a 5-1 victory over Baltimore Saturday.

Stange, with his first complete game in six starts, held the Orioles to seven hits—four of them of the cheap variety.

The loss ended a four-game winning streak for the Orioles, who have won 12 of their last 16 games.

The Twins took advantage of Dave McNally's wildness for three runs in the second inning on just two singles.

A walk to Harmon Killebrew, a single by Jimmie Hall and a sacrifice fly by Earl Battey scored one run. Then, after two walks loaded the bases, Zorro Versalles singled home two more.

Minnesota scored twice in the eighth, with one run unearned as the Orioles contributed two errors.

Stange allowed two infield hits in the first, but first baseman Vic Power grabbed a line drive off the bat of Norm Siebern for an unassisted double play.

Boog Powell's home run with two out in the ninth deprived Stange of a shutout.

Grambling Team Ties World Mark

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Ralph Boston shattered the American record in the broad jump with a leap of 27 feet 2½ inches in the California Relays Saturday night, just three-quarters of an inch off Russian Igor Ter-Ovanesyan's world mark.

The wind measured 1.6 miles per hour, well under the allowable of 4.47 as Boston, the veteran Olympian, completed the longest jump of his career, bettering his own American record of 27-1¾.

Boston's longest jump came in the same Modesto Junior College stadium where in 1961 he became the first man ever to jump 27 feet.

Al Oerter of the New York Athletic Club hurled the discus 203 feet 6½ inches to set a California Relays record.

The muscular ex-Kansas star, who holds the official record at 205-5½ and has thrown 206-6 this year, outthrew a field including former world champion Rink Babka.

Dave Weill, former Stanford NCAA champion, moved into the 200-foot class with a throw of 200-2, for second place. He became the seventh individual to throw past 200. Babka was third at 195-7½.

Hal Connolly, the world record holding hammer thrower, won his fourth California Relays title in this 23rd annual event with a throw of 212 feet, 4 inches, far off his best of 231-10.

Les Tipton of the University of Oregon pulled a surprise with a javelin victory over Frank Covielli of the Pasadena Athletic Club. Tipton hurled the spear 250-10½ while Covielli, the most consistent at the event in the United States, had 259-11½.

Doreen Porter of New Zealand won the women's 100-yard dash in 10.8 seconds, two - tenths off the meet record.

Oregon State's Jan Underwood upset Bill Crothers of Canada, top 880 man in the world last year, with a 1:48.7.

Underwood led through the 440 in 54 seconds, slipped back to third at the 660, then came off the final turn right behind Crothers as the Canadian took the lead. Underwood then won out by four-tenths of a second.

Edwin Roberts of North Carolina College took the 100 in 9.4 seconds with Gerald Ashworth of the Southern California Striders a step behind in 9.5.

Grambling College of Louisiana ran the 440 - yard relay around two turns equalling the established world record of 40 seconds flat.

Earlier this year, however, an Australian national team ran 39.9 with that mark pending official approval. The Grambling team of Don Meadows, Richard Stebbings, Verus Ragsdale and Don Owens also ran a 40 flat a month ago.

Houston Downs New York With Aid Of Errors

HOUSTON (AP) — Throwing errors by New York pitchers Jerry Hinsley and Ron Locke led to four runs in the eighth inning that gave the Houston Colts an 8-4 victory over the Mets in the rain-splattered first game of a twi-night doubleheader Saturday night.

Hinsley walked Bob Aspromonte and Bob Lillis before uncorking a wild throw on Nellie Fox's bunt. Aspromonte scored, and the other runners wound up on second and third.

Locke relieved Hinsley, took Al Spangler's ground ball and tossed wild to first. Lillis scored, and again the runners went to second and third. Fox then scored on Walt Bond's single, and when Jesse Gonder let the throw to the plate get through him, Spangler scored.

Davis Defeats Ouachita Nine With Jordan

Davis Food Center plated two runs in the first inning for a lead it never relinquished and went on to defeat Ouachita Bank, 8-2, in an American Legion Amateur contest played Saturday night at Bernstein Park.

Melvin Jordan pitched a steady five - hitter as Davis evened its record at 1-1. He struck out six men and walked only three as he went the distance.

Ouachita hurler Ralph Malone got into trouble early when Davis centerfielder Bob Betz led off the bottom of the first with a double to left. He promptly scored on Bob Leake's single. Leake later scored from second on Zeke Zarro's bingle to right.

The winners picked up a single run in the third on a walk, Leake's second straight hit and a wild pitch, before sewing up the affair with a five run fifth.

Davis collected three hits in the inning, with the big blow being a two - run single by right fielder Walter Snellings. Betz and Joe Thurman also singled in the frame.

Ouachita picked up a run in the sixth and seventh. Wayne Sutton doubled in the sixth and scored on Buddy Ferron's single. In the seventh, L. C. Crawford boomed a triple to deep right center and, after Malone walked, scored on a wild pitch.

Malone, the losing hurler, also went the distance and struck out eight men and walked three.

Betz and Leake were the only batsmen to collect two hits during the tilt.

A doubleheader is on tap this afternoon at Legion Stadium. KTVE will be playing the All-Stars. Both teams are winless going into the twinbill with 0-2 records.

TAKE PHILS FOR EXAMPLE

Quinn Must Be A Miracle Maker For Poorly Teams

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — In baseball, they say you can't make chicken salad out of chicken feathers. But John Quinn's specialty comes pretty close to that recipe.

Quinn is general manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, who are making threatening gestures toward the National League pennant this season. Only three years ago they lost 23 straight games, a modern baseball record, and finished in the cellar for the fourth straight year.

In fact, the Phils were in about the same shape as the ol Boston Braves were in 1945, when Quinn took them over.

The Braves hadn't won a pennant in 31 years and hadn't been in the first division in 10, when Quinn reported as general manager. Three years later they wo the National League pennant, and have been successful since.

Quinn left Milwaukee in 1959 to take over the Phils, who were beginning to think that seventh place was only a wild rumor.

Things got worse before they got better, including that awful losing streak, but now the Phils are in the thick of the race.

What's Quinn's secret?

Quinn, a florid-faced 57, says no one man can take credit for the success of a major league team. He said he had made some lucky trades, and has had the cooperation of owner Bob Carpenter, particularly in the player signing department.

Quinn also points to the Phillies productive farm system — of the 40 players the team is allowed to own, 24 are from the farms, and of the 28 on the active roster, 12 are farm products.

That includes shortstop Bobby Wine, are rookie Richie Allen, and pitchers Dennis Bennet, Ray Culp, Art Mahaffey and Chris Short.

Carpenter, however, gives Quinn credit for some sharp trades. He points out that regular outfielders John Callison, Tony Gonzalez and Wes Covington, came in trades, as did second baseman Tony Taylor and first baseman Roy Sievers, pitchers Jim Bunning and Cal McLish and catcher Gus Triandos.

Carpenter feels that Quinn's trade for Callison was the beginning of the new Phillies.

"John came to me and said he wanted to send Gene Freese to the Chicago White Sox for Callison. Freese was a fine player, hit 21 home runs, drove in 80. Callison was a youngster with nothing but promise. It was a terrific gamble.

"But John told me, 'If we have the right boy he'll be here 10 years and be an outstanding player. Freese is at his peak and probably in a year or two will start going the other way.' "

Quinn's subsequent deals followed the same pattern, including: Don Cardwell and Ed Bouchee for Taylor. Wally Post and Harry Anderson for Tony Gonzalez. Dick Farrell and Joe Koppe for Don Demeter, who later went to Detroit for Bunning and Triandos. John Buzhardt and Charlie Smith for Sievers. Bobby del Greco for Covington.

In addition, catcher Clay Dalrymple and relief pitcher Jack Baldschun were drafted on advice of scouts.

The rebuilding had not been without some headaches and recriminations.

Quinn saddened Carpenter when he scattered the remnants of the Whiz Kids, the 1950 National League champions.

Traded, sold or released were Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons, Granny Hamner, Willie Jones, Richie Ashburn and Stan Lopata.

"Releasing Simmons was the one move that came back to haunt us," Quinn said. "But who would have dreamed his arm would become sound?"

"But you never look back after making a deal," Quinn said. "You don't hope the man you give away flops. You simply hope who you get does the job for you."

BUT TRADES NEEDED

Coach Admits Gros' Potential

NEW YORK (AP)—Earl Gros could be a great star. Jim Ringo is the best center in the National Football League.

That is what Vince Lombardi thinks. Still, the Green Bay coach-general manager traded them both to Philadelphia for a linebacker. How come?

Lombardi, here for the spring meetings of the National Football League, explained his trading philosophy like this:

"There are two ways to look at a team.

"One, you wait until the team is down in the bottom of the standings. Then you run around like mad trying to plug the holes.

"Or you make your moves when you're near the top.

"I have a great deal of respect for veterans. Trading a veteran is one of the toughest jobs for me. But you have to do things to help your club. If you can stay near the top and the ball bounces right, you win. The trick is to stay near the top.

"The place we fell down last year was defense. Teams that we used to control the ball against were controlling it against us. We needed some linebacking help. After looking over the films we decided Lee Roy Caffey could be the No. 1 linebacker in the league. So we gave up what we though we could replace."

Lombardi said he expected to make more deals before settling down at training camp. However, he insisted again that he would not trade Paul Hornung, his star halfback who is making a comeback after serving a one-year suspension for betting on games.

"Paul will play with us, period," said Lombardi. "This boy has something to prove to everybody, not just himself."

Lombardi said Tom Brown, the ex-Maryland player who is playing pro baseball in the Washington chain, might play pro football this year. He also is looking forward to welcoming such rookies as quarterback Dennis Claridge and tackle Lloyd Voss of Nebraska, linebacker Turnley Todd of Virginia, center Ken Bowman of Wisconsin, flanker Bob Long of Wichita and 6-6, 280-pound lineman Steve Wright of Alabama.

Lombardi announced Tuesday that John Roach, the reserve quarterback who took over when Bert Star was injured last fall, has decided to retire. He also said the Packers' stadium would be enlarged to seat 49,000 in 1965. It presently seats about 44,000.

The NFL voted to increase the players' fees for the Pro Bowl game in Los Angeles. Each winner will get $1,000 and each loser $700. In the past it was $800 and $600.

A proposal to add a sixth official to be called the timekeeper was withdrawn.

A delegation of club owners and league officials left to attend the funeral of Steve Owen today in Oneida, N.Y.

AT BLACK BAYOU

Fishing Rodeo Plans Released

Plans have been finalized for the Fishing Rodeo, scheduled to be held Saturday and Sunday in Black Bayou under the auspices of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit. The contest will be from daylight to 7 p. m. each day.

Leaders in the unit this weekend announced the rules for the contest as well as the categories and age brackets for those participating.

Prizes for the rodeo are expected to amount to more than $2,000 and will range from small fishing aids to outboard motors and a fishing car.

Contestants must obtain registration cards, which will be available at both Bill Minor's and Shorty Paynes' boat docks on Black Bayou, or may be secured from a member of the Wildlife Unit.

Jim Davis, fish biologist with the Louisiana Department of Wild Life and Fisheries, in the Monroe office, will weigh the catches as they are brought to shore. There will also be members of the Ouachita Wildlife unit on hand to aid the processing entering the fish in the contests.

The prizes will be given at the two docks about 7:45 p. m. Saturday and Sunday with the grand prizes scheduled for Sunday night.

The age brackets for the contests are: Junior, from one to 12 years; and adult, 13 years old and up.

Separate divisions will be included for the bass, speck and bream.

Signs listing all of the prizes will be on display at both Minor's and Payne's landings. These were installed this week end.

In the event of inclement weather, or for some other reason, the contest must be postponed, the date will be reset by the Ouachita Wildlife Unit and announced through all news media.

The rules for the contest, as specified by the Wildlife Unit, are:

1. Hours: from daylight until 7 p. m. each day.
2. Each contestant to be officially entered at the docks on an official entry blank.
3. All fish to be weighed by Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries personnel.
4. In case of a tie, the first fish weighed in will be declared winner. The other will be in second place.
5. In case of a tie for grand prize, a flip of a coin decides the winner.
6. No officer or member of the board of directors of the Ouachita Parish Wildlife Unit may enter the contest.
7. Any fish found to be altered in anyway concerning weight will be disqualified.
8. Official weighing scales will be at Oliver's and Payne's boat docks.
9. No fisherman can have more than one fish in each category.
10. Only fish caught from Black Bayou on the day of the contest is eligible.
11. Decisions of the judges are final.
12. No exchange of prizes.
13. No frozen, clean or gutted fish will be allowed.
14. All fish will be caught legally.

In 1964, New York state received $24,159,296 from harness racing at Yonkers Raceway. The city of Yonkers received $1,960,934.

Races On Tap Today At Arena In West Monroe

The West Monroe Speedway starts it's second week of racing today with time trials at 1:30 and racing at 2:00.

About six or seven new contenders will compete with favorites Red Futch, Billy Bayles, Royce Earl Whitlock, and Freddy Cook for the trophies.

"The watering system to cut down on dust has been improved over last week and the problem is almost eliminated," said Roy Smith, promoter.

Cars from Jackson will also be back with additional stock cars. Last week they brought modified production entrants.

The speedway is on Browder Road in West Monroe.

'HAPPIEST COACH IN WORLD'

Otto Graham Turns Down Big Time Jobs

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP)—He could have his pick of a half-dozen top coaching jobs in professional football. Big time colleges are constantly tempting him with fat offers. He could almost name his own terms—$25,000, perhaps $35,000 a year for 10 years.

Fame and fortune are at his fingertips, just for the grabbing, but Otto Graham isn't interested. He's perfectly content as the obscure, $9,000-a-year coach of the little U. S. Coast Guard Academy team in this quaint port on Long Island Sound.

"I am probably the happiest football coach in the world," says the darkly handsome one-time Northwestern All-America and All-Pro quarterback for a decade with the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League.

"Sometimes it shakes me a bit to think of all the fancy jobs and big money I've turned down. But I've never been sorry. I deplore the 'win at all costs' philosophy, the unethical practices and the under-the-table dealing that seems to have become necessary for big time success.

CHICAGO (AP) — Otto Graham, head coach of the College All-Stars for the seventh straight year, named a staff of four assistants Saturday.

The collegians will open camp later this summer to begin preparations for their game against the Chicago Bears, National Football League champions, in Soldier Field the night of Aug. 7.

Last year, Graham's collegians defeated the Green Bay Packers 20-17.

The assistants will be Dante Lavelli, Mike McCormack, John Sauer and Mike Scarry. Lavelli, Sauer and Scarry were staff members last year. McCormack was a former star tackle with Kansas and the Cleveland Browns.

"My own philosophy is very simple. I think football should be fun for the players, fun for the coach and fun for the fans."

Those caught up in the mad rat race of modern day football must wonder what fun Graham gets out of coaching the sport at the smallest and least known of the service academies.

The Coast Guard Academy has a maximum of 600 students, who get in strictly on a competitive basis. There are no political appointments. There is no recruiting. Although some 100 of them come out for football, they are generally small and with limited athletic ability.

"The Joe Bellinos wind up at Navy, the Doc Blanchards at Army," Graham said. "We get some good boys, most of them willing, but a 200-pounder is like a gift from heaven. Our teams sometimes average 10 pounds less than the local high school team.

"I don't care. It's the spirit that counts. Winning is not the most important thing. It's the desire to win. I find it a far greater challenge to work with boys like these.

"There is another factor, too. There is no pressure here. If I win every game or lose every game, it's just the same. That's the way I like it.

"As long as policies remain as they are, I may stay here for life. When they start telling me I have to go out and recruit, we have to play Army and Navy and we have to win, then I quit."

The academy plays in a circuit which is more de-emphasized even than the Ivy League. Opponents include such small college teams as Drexel, Amherst and Wesleyan. "It's probably the purest football in the world," Graham says.

Graham's only losing season was his first, 1959, when the team had a 3-5 record. The next year it was 5-3, then 4-4, then 5-2-1 and last year 8-0—the first unbeaten-untied mark in the academy's history.

Once a year the former Browns passing ace gets a chance to try his skill in the big time as coach of the College All-Stars in the game against the National Football League champions at Chicago. Until Graham came along, the game was threatened with slow death because of the overwhelming superiority of the pros.

In his first year as coach of the collegians, the All-Stars beat the Detroit Lions 35-19. In 1962, Green Bay led only 21-20 after the third period. Last year the collegians stunned the champion Packers 20-17.

"The difference between the pros and the college stars is not so great," Graham said. "The college boys are just as big and fast. They only lack experience."

The upset victory over the Packers and the perfect season at the academy which followed turned Graham into the hottest coaching commodity in the country.

The New York Titans of the American Football League, before they became the Jets, tried to land him. The NFL Philadelphia Eagles did the same. A score of colleges made him attractive offers.

Graham spurned them all.

"Some of the offers were pretty good," Graham said. "The salary was about three times what I'm making and they offered the security of a 10-year contract. But I couldn't bring myself around to making the move.

"Understand, I have nothing against money. I want security as much as the next fellow. But I have no desire to be rich, worrying about the stock market every morning. I'm satisfied with a good living for myself and family."

Graham has that in a cozy home on a four-acre plot some 12 miles from the academy where he lives with his wife, two sons, 17 and 13 and daughter, 16.

The trim, 42-year-old ex-quarterback, an All-America at Northwestern in 1943 and an All-Pro seven times between 1947 and 1955, said he gets miffed at those who twist his philosophy and say he doesn't care about winning.

"I want to win as much as the next guy," he insisted. "If I could, playing a game of croquet with my wife, I'd leave her at the first wicket. I'm that competitive.

"But when the whole emphasis is put on winning, to the detriment of ethics and character, then I want no part of it.

"A big time coach must win or else. No matter how fine a man or a coach he is, if his team starts losing games and if gate receipts fall off and alumni start yelling, then he gets the axe.

"So it becomes necessary to fight fire with fire. I don't blame the coaches but neither do I condone some of their actions—such as secret slush funds, exchanging game movies without the knowledge of an opponent, fighting for top players with under-the-table payments and violations of the recruiting codes.

"Coaches are so suspicious of each other that at times they don't even talk civilly with each other, for fear of letting out a secret. You can have it. I don't want it. I like it where I am."

Chisox Clobber Senators, 14-2 With Pete Ward

CHICAGO (AP)—Pete Ward drove in five runs, four on a grand slam homer in a nine-run second inning, as the Chicago White Sox clobbered the Washington Senators 14-2 Saturday for their fourth straight victory.

The White Sox sent 13 men to the plate in the second. Errors by shortstop John Kennedy and catcher Mike Brumley helped the White Sox score seven unearned runs in the inning.

Ward homered off reliever Tom Cheney. It was his first of the season. He knocked in another run in the sixth on a ground ball and also singled and doubled.

Angels Purchase Hurler Bob Perry

NEW YORK (AP)—The Los Angeles Angels announced Saturday night they had bought outfielder Bob Perry from their Hawaii farm club in the Pacific Coast League to bring their roster up to the 25-player limit.

Perry, a 26-year-old right-hander, has a batting average of .316 in 31 games with four homers and 27 RBI. A native of New Bern, N.C. he will join the Angels Monday night in Los Angeles for the game against Minnesota.

MICKEY MANTLE of the New York Yankees strikes a ballet - like stance as he gets out of the way of a close pitch by Los Angeles pitcher Bo Belinsky. Mantle promptly got back in the box and slapped a ground rule double into the right field stands. Los Angeles won, 9-5. (AP Wirephoto)

'WEAK-HITTING' ROOKIE

Grand Slam Lifts Angels By Yanks

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Knoop, a "good-field, no-hit" rookie second baseman, belted a grand slam home run in the sixth inning as the Los Angeles Angels came from behind and beat the New York Yankees 9-5 Saturday for their first victory in their last five games.

Knoop, a .240 hitter, was the first batter to face Bill Stafford, pitching in relief of starter Al Downing, after the Angels had loaded the bases on a single and two walks. Knoop drove in another run with a bases loaded walk in the second. Downing, the loser, issued six passes in 5 1-3 innings.

The Yankees had wiped out an early Angel lead, going ahead 5-4 on a five-hit, three-run splurge against Bo Belinsky in the fourth. Mickey Mantle, who had accounted for the first two Yankee runs with a home run in the first inning, igniting the rally with a double, which was followed by successive hits by Tom Tresh, Elston Howard and Joe Pepitone.

The homer for Mantle was his seventh of the season and 426th of his career, tying him for the No. 1 spot among active players with Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves.

Bob Duliba, who replaced Belinsky in the fourth and pitched two scoreless innings, was credited with the victory. Bob Lee, a rookie, handcuffed the Yankees with two harmless singles over the last four innings.

Some Chance For Fish Bill

With Sam Hanna

Bills On Wildlife

It has not been introduced yet, but a modified fishing license bill is scheduled to be introduced in the current session of the legislature.

Charles Bosch director of the Louisiana wildlife federation was in the capitol this week talking up support for the universal fishing license.

Because the bill has been rejected so many times Charley has changed it in an effort to make it more acceptable to the lawmakers.

For one thing, many solons has objected to the states requiring teen agers to buy a fishing license for the canepole. So Bosch has re-written the bill so that the license would be required for fishermen 21-years old to age 60.

This eliminates the argument that children should not be required to have a license to fish.

Bosch also has added a second change and it applies to the fine. In cases where persons would be arrested for not having a license, their fine would be only $1 plus the purchase of the $1 license.

This is a mild as you could make it.

Now the third change applies to revenue from the sale of the license. Charley has re-written the bill so that it dedicates the revenue to fisheries development in Louisiana.

This assures the public that the money spent on fishing licenses would go to projects like stocking D'Arbonne Lake at Farmerville and Bussey Brake at Bastrop.

It would give the state more money to work in the field of fisheries development.

The legislature in the past has refused to pass a $1 universal fishing licenses because the public does not understand the advantage of having the license.

It's not a penalty and should not be looked at as another means to take our freedoms away. Rather it should be looked at as a contribution to conservation mainly because our states loses money under a federal act because we do not license our canepole fishermen.

Each state receives under the Dingell-Johnson act a rebate of funds off taxes collected by the federal government on fishing equipment like rods and reels. But Louisiana loses a major portion of this money just because we don't have the cane pole license. The amount of the rebate from the federal government is based on the number of licenses sold.

While it is estimated that Louisiana has over a million fishermen last year we didn't sell 300,000 licenses in the state. There is the difference, and it's costing us money and preventing the state from doing as much fisheries development as is possible.

Incidentally, Rep. John Schwebmann of Jefferson Parish has introduced a bill to repeal the fishing license in its present status.

But Schwegmann says he now realizes the license provides a good revenue for the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission.

The bill won't pass.

Now will the universal fishing license unless enough informed people talk to their representatives.

Night Hunters Beware

Sen. Howard Jones of St. Joseph has introduced a bill to make the penalties for night hunting or so-called fire hunting pretty rough.

At present the law provides penalties for the taking of deer or furbearing animals at night with the use of head lights or bulls eyes as follows:

A fine of $25 to $75 or up to 30 days in jail or both for the first offense; a fine of $100 to $200 or up to six months in jail or both for the second offense; and a fine of $200 to $500 and 60 days to 90 days in jail plus revocation of license for the third offense.

The Jones Bill would not change this.

But it also would add these special penalties that cuold be enforced by the courts if they so desired:

A fine of $250 to $750 or up to 10 months in jail or both for the first offense; a fine of $1,000 to $2,000 or up to two years in jail or both for the second offense; and a fine of $2,000 to $3,000 and up to three years in jail plus revocation of license for the third and each subsequent offense.

Budget For Wildlife

The Wildlife & Fisheries Commission received one of the biggest cut backs presented to the legislature on Thursday.

The budget, for fiscal year 1964-65 includes a reduction of almost $300,000 for wildlife.

It cuts the wildlife commission to $5.5 million.

Most of this reduction is a loss of state appropriate funds in the amount of $268,537 plus $25,000 in federal grants.

Add this loss and the total reduction comes to $295,680, which is a big cut.

Little Man's Corner

The water was going down, the fish were biting, and the little men made news on the lakes, streams and bayous.

T. D. Dickey used a repello bait at Lake St. John and got 15 bass, 10 of which weighed over three pounds. Fishermen from Monroe making catches at Black Bayou at Monroe included L. E. Clark, 55 bream, Coy Boyd, 39 white perch, 15 bream and one 2-pound chinquapin bream; Johnny Dana, 100 bream; M. C. Bartlett, 20 specs in two hours; Bobby and Joey Bryant, 35 bream. From West Monroe, Homer Moffitt, 100 bream; Bethard Pepper, 90 bream; Felix Hernandez, 75 bream; Joe Jackson, 100 bream in three hours; L. G. Daily, 88 bream.

John Atkins of Vidalia caught the limit of bream and other fish at Cocodrie Bayou; limits of white perch and bream included Lamar Boyd, Lee Wilson, Nick Charles and Willie Goss and his brother, Ben Goss, all of Vidalia.

John "Red" Parker of Ferriday reported catching the limit of bass in Lake Concordia, all good size and one weighing six and one-half pounds. Catching the limit of bass on Concordia Lake were Bill Booker, Don Edwards, Rubin Smith, Tommy Alexander, all of Ferriday.

On Lake Providence, Vacel Razer of Lake Providence and Warren Keel of Lake Providence, doing night fishing, got five or six bass each night. Van Hicks of Lake Providence, got 11 bass. W. P. Rushing of Lake Providence got eight bass, one of which weighed five pounds. Bill Scott and Doc Kennedy of Lake Providence got six bass. Bill Shirey of Lake Providence got 20 white perch on Gassoway.

Mrs. Ed Short and Mrs. Ray Phillips of Winnsboro got the limit of bream in Lake St. John at Ferriday. Two couples from West Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fleming and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Neyland, had the limit of white perch and bream in Lake St. John. They caught them in the tree edges with large red worms. John Grady, fishing in Lake St. John, got the limit of bream and catfish, using crickets and large red worms.

Wagner Leads Cleveland Over Detroit By 11-9

CLEVELAND (AP) — Leon Wagner knocked in five runs with a homer and a single Saturday powering the Cleveland Indians to an 11-9 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Wagner's big day zoomed his RBI total to 32. He brought the Indians from behind with his three-run homer in the first after the Tigers had jumped on rookie southpaw Tommy John for two runs.

His seventh-inning single capped a four-run uprising against Dick Egan, the third Detroit pitcher. Dick Howser's single knocked in the other two runs.

Rain delayed the game for one hour and two minutes during a Tiger rally in the eighth. The Tigers had scored three runs and had runners at first and third with two out when rain fell. When the game resumed, reliever Sonny Siebert got Bill Feehan on a foul pop.

Bob Chance contributed a two-run double to the Indians' attack.

Chance and Woodie Held hit back-to-back doubles in the three-run fifth, one coming off starter Phil Regan and the next off Mickey Lolich.

Dick McAuliffe hit a homer for the Tigers.

FIVE INDIANS CHOSEN

Northeast's Champs Dominate All-GSC Baseball Selections

Champion Northeast State has the most players — five — on the all-Gulf States Conference baseball team selected recently by league coaches.

Northeast players on the team are catcher Eddie Kincaid, second baseman Joey McGinn, third baseman Charley Dykes, outfielder John Pace and pitcher Floyd Murry. Indian Coach George Luffey was voted "Coach of the Year" by his fellow mentors.

Kincaid made the team for the second straight year while Pace was an all-star choice as a freshman in 1961.

CHARLES DYKES

Other all-GSC players are catcher Don Calvert of Northwestern; first baseman Lamar Labauve, outfielder Ernie Knobloch and pitcher Elton Remondet of Southeastern; shortstop Paul Labenne and pitcher George Woodson of Louisiana Tech; outfielder Lionel Kleinpeter and pitcher Harry Stelly of the University of Southwestern Louisiana; and utility infielder Jim Blake and utility outfielder Ken Rabalais of McNeese.

Northeast finished four games ahead of the second-place team in the GSC pennant rate with a 13-3 record and also had the best record in full-season play, 17-10.

Kincaid bludeoned conference pitching for a .341 average, hitting .238 for the full season. The sophomore, a former Neville of Monroe backstop, had one of the league's best arms.

McGinn, another ex-Neville standout, was one of the loop's better glove men and hitters, batting .321 in the conference and .298 overall. He's a junior.

Dykes was the No. 2 hitter in the conference with averages of .396 (GSC) and a .376 (all games). The West Monroe junior hit a 400-foot homer to beat Northwestern in probably the season's most decisive game.

Pace, one of the GSC's steadiest players, hit .302 over the full season and .267 in league play. The only senior on the Northeast squad, he is from Haile.

Murry had a perfect GSC mark of 5-0 with a 1.33 earned run average. A sophomore from Bastrop, he was 5-2, 2.16 overall.

Northeast's other mound ace, Dean Bounds, narrowly missed making the all-conference team. He was 5-0 in the league, 5-2 overall, with earned run averages of 0.70 (conference) and 1.98 (all games).

Don Caum, offensive end and defensive halfback, led Penn State football players in action last fall. He was in games for 995 plays.

Eagles Owners Purchase Connie Mack Stadium

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jerry Wolman and Earl Foreman, owners of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, announced Saturday they have bought Connie Mack Stadium, home of baseball's Philadelphia Phillies.

"Earl and I," said Wolman, "bought Connie Mack Stadium personally and strictkly as a real estate investment, and it in no way is conncteed with our ownership of the Eagles. Also, we desire to assure the Phillies they have a home in Philadelphia as long as they wish."

Wolman said the stadium was purchased from the J.A. Schliefer Properties of New York, who recently bought the site from Milton Schwartz, New York realtor.

The price was not disclosed.

The announcement came 24 hours after Mayor James Tate said a new $25-million, 60,000-seat stadium would be built here on stilts over the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad's 30th Street Station in West Philadelphia.

The Phillies and the Eagles are expected to be the principal tenants of the new stadium. The Phillies already have committed themselves to play in the new park for 35 to 40 years, but the Eagles have been cool to the proposition.

Carty Carries Braves Past Cardinals, 8-4

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Rookie Rico Carty powered two homers, driving in five runs, and led the Milwaukee Braves over the St. Louis Cardinals 8-4 Saturday.

Felipe Alou hit an inside-the-park homer, and Hank Aaron also connected for the Braves.

Carty, a 24-year-old muscleman given a starting shot in left field two weeks ago, unloaded both his homers off Roger Craig after the Cardinal right-hander struck him out the first time at bat.

Singles by Aaron and Jose Torre preceded Carty's homer in the fifth. After failing in an attempt to sacrifice, the young slugger belted a pitch high into the left field seats.

Alou got his homer with a line drive which left fielder Charlie James was unable to grab as he crashed into the wall on a leaping effort in the sixth.

James, virtually kayoed, managed to stagger after the ball and toss to Dick Groat, whose relay throw to the plate just missed the sliding Alou. James remained in the game after treatment by the St. Louis trainer.

NAIA PLAYOFF

Grambling To Play Rattlers In Ruston

RUSTON (Special) — Grambling and Florida A&M University are expected to be at peak strength Monday night when they open a best-of-three games series here at Frazier Field to decide the NAIA district baseball crown.

The visiting Rattlers (14-4) will represent the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, while host Grambling (19-3) is the South Western Athletic Conference champion.

The series is a repeat of the 1963 NAIA playoff. Grambling edged Florida, 2-1, in successive games last spring and everybody but President - Coach R.W.E. Jones feels that the Tigers are ready to substantiate all optimisim again Monday.

The newest NAIA coaching hall of fame member has been consoling himself with a tonic of sour-grape mumbling.

He will be inducted during the NAIA hall of fame banquet on June 7 at St. Joseph, Missouri. "Coach" Jones feels that there comes a time in every man's life when he must, in a matter of speaking, comb his hair with his fingers. "We face a tight fight with Florida, and winning will require all out effort," he said, his forehead laced with lines.

The hungry Florida troup is scheduled to arrive here Sunday.

It is difficult to predict how the teams stack up strength-wise but both appear to have sufficient resources at field and at bat.

Grambling has commanded attention largely through the many skills of pitchers Robert Williams, Candy Robinson and Elex Pero, and the hitting of outfielders Johnny Jeter and Thomas Simon.

Florida also has strong mound strength, but lusty hitting has been responsible for the general improvement in Rattler prowess.

The feeling persists on the Tallahassee campus that Kosta Kittle, resident genius of the coaching staff, has more to show than met the eye during regular SIAC play.

It looks like a tight struggle. Each game is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Cassius Clay Attempts To Move Old Sword

KUMASI, Ghana (AP)—Cassius Clay, world heavyweight champion, visited Ghana's 300-year-old second city Saturday and tried to move a sword planted about 250 years ago.

The sword, according to legend, was planted at the spot now within the compound of a government hospital by a priest.

When Clay, dressed in a richly woven Ghanaian-style toga, visited the hospital and learned about the sword, he did not believe the account.

He tried to pull out the sword for about five minutes, but then gave up.

Clay gave a boxing exhibition at Kumasi Stadium Saturday night for about 40,000 fans.

Best single game completion record in Big Ten football last fall was turned in by Dick Bader of Indiana. He completed 20 of 28 passes against Iowa.

Santo Drives In Three As Cubs Beat Reds, 5-3

CINCINNATI (AP)—Ron Santo belted three singles and drove in three runs Saturday, leading the Chicago Cubs to a 5-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Santo knocked in two runs in the first inning when the Cubs scored three times before Jim Maloney could get anybody out.

Billy Williams singled across the first run after Jim Stewart walked and Lou Brock got the first of his three singles. Santo's hit scored Brock and Williams.

Santo sent home the Cubs' fourth run in the second. Brock scored after singling and taking second when Stewart was out at third on the play.

ROBERT GARVISON

Northeast Signs Undefeated Miler To Track Scholarship

An undefeated miler from Acadia Baptist Academy in Eunice has become the second Louisiana high school track star to sign an athletic grant - in - aid agreement with Northeast State.

He is Robert Harvison, who won the mile in New Orleans' NORD Meet of Champions with a 4:29.6 clocking — fastest time in the state by a prep senior.

Northeast earlier signed Willis Delhomme, the Northside of Lafayette quarter - miler who tied the Louisiana High School Athletic Association 440 record of 48.5 this season.

Harvison, before taking the Meet of Champions mile, won the state class B meet mile and also finished third in the 880 run with a clocking of 2:07.3. His best in the half - mile is 2:01.1.

The young distance ace did all this despite the fact that his school does not have a track and 1964 was his first year of competitive track.

Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Harvison of 110 Carstens St., New Iberia. He earned a letter in basketball as well as track at Acadia Academy and was captain of the track team.

Northeast Coach Bob Groseclose calls Harvison "an excellent prospect."

"I think Robert has tremendous potential," Groseclose said. "Considering the fact that this is his first year of track and he didn't have any cinders to work on, his times are amazing. He should help us in both cross country and track."

Northeast won Gulf States Conference championships in both sports in 1963-64, losing a total of only one meet.

CHEVY II by Chevrolet
Go on an economy drive this vacation

Sure you can just about run a Chevy II on peanuts. But don't let its economy fool you. Because this frisky family car can take the whole gang along on any trip you want to make. In plenty of comfort and a whole lot of style.

Its range of power makes fun out of turnpikes and mountain roads alike. (Makes each gallon of gas work overtime, too!) Inside, a Chevy II Nova is tailored for travel. Child-proof upholstery, trip-size trunk and glove box, dual sun visors and deep-twist carpeting are just a few standard features.

That roomy, rugged Body by Fisher is as easy to look after as it is to look at. In fact, Chevy II virtually cares for itself, with a battery-saving Delcotron generator, self-adjusting brakes, long-life muffler and self-cleaning rocker panels that help prevent rust by flushing out salt and other corrosives.

There's a Chevy II for everyone—sedans, wagons and sport models. A price for everyone, too. Because now is Trade 'N' Travel Time at your Chevrolet dealer's. Time to get the most fun from your new car and make a great deal on your old one!

Of course you're not supposed to be so practical when you plan a vacation. But being this practical won't spoil a bit of the fun. Should add to it, in fact, for the rest of the year. And that's about fifty weeks' worth. Every year.

FOCAL POINT

Any artistic composition should have a point of interest to which the eye is led. In a good flower arrangement, this focal point should be placed low, with all flower stems seeming to point to it. Ways to achieve a focal point include contrast in flower color or form, and by placing flowers closer together at the focal point.

Style Setters Debate Pants On Way Out

Style pace setters are debating among themselves (and in print in fashion trade publications) whether women should not give up wearing the long pants for daytime wear.

Norman Norell did more for the cause of ladies trousers than Marlene Dietrich and Greta Garbo when he introduced trouser suits for airplane travel. Nevertheless, the dean of American designers is dead set against them for casual wear.

Emilio Pucci, Italian sportswear creator who started a rage for slacks and capri pants so tight that bending over was not advisable, has himself veered towards voluminous hostess skirts in recent years. Last season his interesting compromise was baggy - legged harem pants for the ladies.

American designers are also compromising their last years urge for billowy hostess skirts with the American womans obvious unwillingness to give up long pants. The results are flouncy pants skirts. . . with the yards of fabric housing each leg gathered around the waistline.

These are not exactly what you would run a relay race in or climb a tree in — dungarees are unequivocally best for this vigor — but they do permit you to bounce around without quite sacrificing grace or risking split seams.

DAR Chapter Hears Talk On Tracing Ancestors

A talk "Searching for Your Ancestors," was given by Mrs. Joseph B. Landreaux at the final meeting of the year of Chief Tusquahoma Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution last Saturday at the West Monroe Branch of Ouachita Parish Public Library.

Mrs. Landreaux who serves as chapter first vice regent and chairman for lineage research, cited the various means available for tracing ancestors, such as genealogical books at the libraries, court house and other public records, as well as old Bibles and tombstone records. Preceding the program Mrs. Earl Cox sang "Louisiana."

Mrs. Herman M. McGuire, regent, presided over the meeting. After the ritual Mrs. Lester Corley, Americanism chairman, presented a memorial tribute to General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, taken from the May issue of the DAR national magazine.

A talk on National Defense was given by Mrs. F. J. Ortis, topics, "The Cold War is War," which includes issues of the day, as being the Communists most important immediate cold-war objectives, and "Faith of Our Fathers," an article on disagreement on policies of the National Council of Churches.

Mrs. J. Metris Bell gave a brief report on the recent Continental Congress displaying the national Honor-Roll Citation presented the chapter for outstanding accomplishments in obtaining the honor roll of the N. S. DAR, which was attached the gold honor roll ribbon with star and the blue honor roll ribbon 1964 for bonus points relating to public relations. Chief Tusquahoma Chapter rated number one chapter in the nation on public relations. The state of Louisiana took national awards on Americanism, first place; Junior American Citizens clubs, first place; membership, largest increase and second for largest percentage of membership; Constitution Week, first place in South Central Division. She also gave excerpts from a talk given by Senator Harry Byrd, recipient of a Certificate of Merit from the DAR President General.

Mrs. Bell also mentioned 12 resolutions passed by National and the two-day post-congress visit to the New York World's Fair where the National Society, DAR presented the Ceremonial flag of the United States to the main entrance.

A report on the recent Louisiana Board of Management meeting was given by the regent, who announced that a seven state spot poll vote on policies of the DAR, which included five questions, showed that news people outrank all others in knowing DAR policies, which included newspapers, teachers, students, clergy, business, clubwomen, friends and salaries. It revealed 50 per cent approved of the policies; 10 per cent disapproved and 40 per cent were undecided.

Mrs. E. W. Stinson Jr. was appointed to serve on the year book committee with Mrs. Lester Corley, chairman, who will also serve as program chairman for the ensuing year. Fall Knits Will Look Hand-Made

Having attained a fashion reputation, knits are scrambling hard to keep it. The news for fall, borrowed from small couture knitters, who have featured it for some time, is the hand-made look. It will often use crochet as identification.

Long - torso, long-sleeve pullovers are coming out with crocheted neckline, hemline and sleeve edge trims. Knit Chanel suits, taking a hint from the lady herself, have contrast crochet edges.

All-over crochet will also be popular, particularly in knit suits, where crochet will create new versions of the textured look, especially when flat-knit shells are worn as blouses.

Particularly pretty in crochet are white theater suits.

The marriage of Miss Sandra Kay Johnson and Lt. Thomas Cochran Shellnut was solemnized Saturday, May 16 at 4 p.m. in the Church of the Transfiguration in New York City. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis James Johnson of Crossett, Ark., and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Andrew Shellnut of Baldwyn, Miss.

Rev. Orin A. Greismyer performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a white silk suit and carried a bouquet of white carnations and stock. Her maid of honor was Miss Donna Blaydow of New York City and serving as best man for Mr. Shellnut was James Braithwaite of New York City.

Mrs. Shellnut attended Baylor University and received her BA degree from the University of Arkansas where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. She did graduate work at the New York School of Interior Design and before her marriage was employed at the Kittinger Co. Inc., in the Decorative Arts Center in New York.

Lt. Shellnut received a BBA degree from the University of Mississippi, where he was a member of Pi Kappa fraternity and an MBA degree from New York University.

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda the couple will be at home in Prince George County, Virginia where he attends Officers' School at Fort Lee.

Double Ring Vows Unite Lake Providence Couple

In a double ring ceremony solemnized Friday, May 15, in the First Methodist Church of Lake Providence, Miss Collette Moss, daughter of Mrs. Jaunita Moss, became the bride of George S. Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee S. Myers, Sr.

Rev. Alvin P. Smith read the vows at 7 p.m. in a setting of white lighted tapers and gold vases of white gladioli. Family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Organist was Mrs. Jack Holt, who played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Lee S. Myers Jr. as he sang.

The bride, given in marriage by Don Ingram, wore a wedding gown of white slipper satin which featured a fitted bodice and long sleeves forming points over the hands. The scalloped neckline was overlaid with imported lace and encrusted with irridescent sequins and seed pearls. The bouffant skirt was gathered in folds at the back, with bows of white taffeta cascading down the center panel, which ended in a chapel train. Her veil of French illusion cascaded from a petite crown of seed pearls and lace. She carried a bridal bouquet of frenched carnations and a purple throated orchid.

Mrs. Lanny James served as matron of honor and Miss Norene Moss, sister of the bride was maid of honor. They wore identical models of tangerine iridescent taffeta styled with scoop neckline and three - quarter sleeves. The fitted bodice was encircled at the waist with a pleated cummerbund of satapeau in crystal shade which was also used in a wide back panel which began at the beltline with a large single rose and widened in a controlled drape beneath the hemline. Their headdresses were circular veils of nylon tulle attached to crowns of lace outlined with teardrop pearls. They carried old fashioned nosegays of tangerine carnations.

Tommy Ellis served as best man. Groomsmen - ushers were Bill Richardson of Electra, Texas, Philip Stafford, Johnny Mack Murray and Steve Moss, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Moss chose a pink nylon cord with short matching jacket and white accessories. The mother of the groom wore an aqua ribbon knit sheath in blouson style with white accessories. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

Following the church ceremony a reception was held in Fellowship Hall. The bride's table, covered with an imported lace cloth held a central arrangement of white carnations in a silver bowl. The tiered wedding cake and punch were served from opposite ends of the table. Mrs. Baxter Deal cut the cake and Mrs. A. B. Patrick presided at the punch bowl. Assisting in the courtesies were Miss Lynn Beene of Savannah, Ga., Miss Della Gordon, Miss Viki Hair, Miss Joan Clement, and Miss Patsy Murphy. Miss Evelyn Claire Holt presented rice bags to the guests.

For travel when the couple left for a short wedding trip the bride changed into a white cotton pique shift with which she wore black accessories. Upon their return the couple will make their home in Monroe.

DESIGN BREAKTHROUGH

Some of the new electric refrigerator-freezers have a brand new "furniture look." Called "console" or "breakfront" models, they have a countertop for food preparation between the upper refrigerator section and the freezer section below.

Home Decor Uses Design Principles

CHICAGO (UPI) — Principles of design used by artists also apply to room furnishings. They include proportion, balance, emphasis, rhythm and harmony.

A "money management" booklet (published by Household Finance Corporation) offers many useful decorating hints based on these principles of art.

To create pleasing proportions in small and medium rooms, select furnishings with slim, simple lines. Use solid colors in light or medium grey tones or small, subtle designs. But avoid large furniture, bold patterns and bright colors or furniture arrangements that divide the room. Reverse the rules for large room.

High ceiling rooms can be scaled down by using darker colors on the ceiling than on walls. Choose furnishings and decorative effects with horizontal lines.

In long and narrow rooms, room dividers, mirrors on side walls, contrasting colors or emphasis on end walls proportion space.

The two types of balance include formal, when items on either side of a center are equal; or informal, when items on either side are placed at different distances from the center.

It is harder to arrange informal balance, but the effect is more interesting.

To achieve emphasis, furnishings should be arranged to draw the eye first to the center of interest and then to every other detail in order of importance.

Rhythm in a design leads the eye in an orderly manner from one object to another. It can be achieved by repeating lines, forms, colors, patterns and textures.

A rectangular shaped picture over a horizontal chest creates rhythm through repetition of forms and lines. The same color used in draperies, on a chair, and in throw pillows, creates rhythm through repetition of colors.

The end result of the first four principles; harmony, the achievement of a pleasing whole which expresses variety and unity.

The experts say so.

Down, Down They Plunge

Down, down, down go necklines after dark — way down!

They plunge. Make a deep V. They're slashed. They curve. They meet the waistline high up in the Empire cut, or dip lower to a slightly raised waist. But they are never the old scooped-out cut with sleeves.

These no - holds - barred dresses are in cocktail and full-lengths. They're in chiffon, crepe, silk faille, and very very often in lace.

The nice thing about these low - down necklines is that they are still basically modest while being marvelously feminine. Husbands will approve them, even on their wives!

YOUR PROBLEMS

Marriage Out Of Pity Is Doomed From Start

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Seven months ago a young girl came to work in this office. She is about 21, sweet, refined and has a lovely, warm personality. Several of the fellows asked her out but she said she was engaged and couldn't accept dates. (The girl wore no ring.)

Last week she came to work looking pale and ill. She fainted at her desk and I carried her to the infirmary. An hour later the nurse called to ask if I would drive her home.

On the way home the girl sobbed out her story. She is pregnant, she can't work much longer and doesn't know what to do. The fellow she was "engaged" to is a married man who lied to her about his marital status. He offered her money to "get lost" but she refused and wants to go it alone.

I am seriously thinking of asking her to marry me. I know this sounds wacky but I think we could have a good life together even though we've never had a date.

I am 30, have never been married and am willing if she is. Should I ask her? — Long Shot

Dear Long Shot: If you marry the girl out of pity — or if she marries you because she's in a spot — the marriage is doomed from the start. Remember, this girl is virtually a stranger to you — and you to her.

I suggest that you steer her to an agency that will see her through the difficult days ahead. If you continue to see her and if the friendship blossoms into love, that's another story.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's son by a former marriage is 17. Bill lives in town with his mother. He is welcome to spend weekends with us but he has never shown much interest in doing so. He drops in occasionally on a Sunday and that's all.

Bill has a key to our home and this is what I'm writing about. Yesterday my neighbor told me that last month when we were away Bill brought a young girl and another couple into our home. This neighbor is not a gossip or a trouble-maker.

Should I tell my husband? If so, how? After all, Ann, I'm not the boy's mother. Please advise at once. — Troubled

Dear Troubled: You aren't the boy's mother, but the home is half yours and you should not knowingly provide a 17-year-old boy with such a setup.

Tell your husband to ask Bill for his house key and to make it clear he can visit only when you are at home.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

New Handbag Can Pep Up Tired Wardrobe

Making do this spring with the new clothes of last spring? Cheer up and pep up the tired wardrobe with the current fashion status symbol, a fine handbag.

Leather is the thing and the only thing, of course. For the no-expense-spared set the top leather is alligator, but don't let that make you settle for an imitation one. Any leather has more status than an imitation of leather.

For far less money there are grained, smooth, waxy, luster and patent leathers. Among the most favored are the caramel and creamy shades in waxed or lustrous leathers, while patent gleams in red, white and all the pastels as well as traditional black and navy.

The fashion trend this spring is to choose the bag to contrast with the costume, to pick up one of the colors in a print, or to blend with the costume in a lighter shade. What a handbag never does is to match the costume. That is no way to make visible a status symbol!

The size of the handbag continues ample, but the look is slimmer. The space is cleverly concealed behind a tall, slender shaping that widens at the bottom, or an envelope that opens up to a deep pouch. Handles are important, and should be as good as the bag itself. The chain handle is popular, but all-leather handles, especially double ones, are also well-liked.

FREEZE STEAK NOW

Stock up on steak before summer's in full swing, the U. S. Department of Agriculture advises — steak prices are traditionally higher in the summer. If you have an electric refrigerator - freezer with a generous-sized freezer section, buy steaks now and freeze some for summer cookouts.

Long, long spring sweaters, in colorful tweedy knits of kitten-soft mohair, make a costume with pleated skirts.

Faith Howard Is Wed

First Baptist Church of Morton, Miss., was scene of the ceremony Friday, May 15 which united in marriage Miss Faith Evanda Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Marshall Howard, formerly of Monroe, and Frederick Franklin Roberts Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Roberts Sr., all of Morton. The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Howard of West Monroe.

Rev. Charles Holifield performed the double ring ceremony in a candlelight setting following nuptial music by Mrs. William G. Walter, organist and Tom Cleveland of Jackson, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of satin peau de soie, styled with bell-shaped skirt and camisole bodice with fitted reembroidered Alencon Lace overblouse. The detachable train was edged with appliqued lace scallops, embroidered with seed pearls and bugle beads. Her shoulder length veil of silk illusion fell from a silk organza and lace rose, encrusted with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with a purple throated white orchid.

Miss Hope Howard, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of orchid silk organza over taffeta and carried a bouquet of asters in shades of pink and orchid.

Fred Roberts Sr. served his son as best man and ushers were Eugene R. Brown, Reed Davis, both of Morton and Bobby Robinson of McComb.

Mrs. Howard, mother of the bride, wore a pink silk shantung sheath overlaid with re - embroidered Alencon lace, with matching accessories and a pink orchid corsage. The bridegrooms mother wore a blue lace sheath with matching hat and white accessories and a white orchid.

Following the ceremony the brides parents entertained with a reception in Fellowship hall of the church where Mrs. Eugene R. Brown greeted guests. Mrs. B. C. Rogers of Morton, served the wedding cake and alternating at the punch bowl were Miss Freda Hardy and Miss Agnes Arnold, both of Jackson. Miss Gloria Watson of Jackson, was at the guest book.

Mrs. E. C. Bright, aunt of the bride, had charge of the reception. Others assisting were Mrs. Jack Rogers of Monroe; Mrs. Charles Patrick, of Durant, Mrs. Erma Braddy, Mrs. Boswell Gilbert and Mrs. W. D. Franklin, all of Morton. Tea girls were Miss Marsha Howard, sister of the bride; Miss Kay Roberts, sister of the groom; Miss Martha Faye Miles and Mrs. Jerry Magers.

MRS. FREDERICK ROBERTS JR.

After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Oxford, where Mr. Roberts will continue his studies at the University of Mississippi and the bride is employed in the office of the assistant director of development for the university.

VIRGINIA WYONNA COOPER

Brides-Elect Plan Vows

BANKS-COOPER

RAY-VICK

Mr. and Mrs. Huey P. Gray of Farmerville, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Miss Charlotte Ann Vick to Nelson Ray. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ray of Bernice.

The wedding will be an event of June 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the chapel of the First Baptist Church in Farmerville. Rev. Gary Nolan will perform the double ring ceremony.

Bridal Veil Will Share Honors With Millinery

Weddings are for brides but in recent seasons however, she has been sharing some of the fashion attention with her guests.

The bridal veil is romance itself and as steeped in tradition as the ceremony. It is the most important headdress in a girl's life, and must reflect the care and attention in its selection that its importance warrants.

For this summer's bride, tiny pearl-encrusted circlets with voluminous cascading veils to just below the shoulders are favorites.

Millinery choices for wedding guests reflect the filmy, big brimmed hat and smartly tailored toques and turbans. Every shape and silhouette finds favor at either the outdoor country wedding or the smart "in town" ceremony.

The ladylike and the dashing looks both make fashion headlines for spring and milliners have designed hats to complement both moods.

For the bride's trousseau an ultra-feminine air prevails in a wide variety of hat shapes, straws and fabrics. The mysterious, softly draped turban in sheer, silky fabrics and the flowered hat with wide, curving graceful brim offer but two of the many fashion possibilities.

Pillboxes, sailors, profile hats and little hats with a pixysih air are part of spring's great variety of styles ready to assure a total look of sash and drama, whether worn by a member of the bridal party or by an attending guest.

Sailors and other dashing shapes go feminine with the touch of flowers and dainty details of all kinds, while the more ladylike styles sometimes take a tailored trim.

High - rising hats head for spring with a new aura of softness. Towering toques are gently rounded.

Color range is as wide as the world of fashion. There are light and bright shades to match or contrast with spring apparel and to set off neutrals such as perennial navies and blacks. On the other hand, hats in soft neutral tones can provide just the right note for colorful costumes.

THAW MEAT SLOWLY

To thaw frozen meat, place it in the refrigerator section of your refrigerator-freezer. Leave it in its original wrapping during thawing to prevent it from drying. Most frozen meats may be cooked without previous thawing, but extra cooking time is required. A large frozen roast may take as much as 1½ times as long to cook as the same roast unfrozen.

To turn a phrase: 'The time of winning diplomas is here, and the voice of the graduate is heard in our land." We can't say how it is in other parts of the world, but hereabouts graduation week is like a debut season. A round of gay gatherings of all type engulfs seniors at school's end.

Serving as an unofficial "kickoff" for senior parties at Neville each year is Tigerette week end, when senior members of the pep squad and cheerleaders betake themselves to the beach for a few days. This year's group which numbered about fifty, was chaperoned last weekend by JANE WHITTINGTON, BENNIE HIXON, and LINDA CHASE. They left last Thursday night and returned late Sunday, after spending the weekend in Panama City, Florida.

All Neville senior girls were invited to a patio party Monday afternoon from three-thirty until five - thirty. Hostesses were JANE BARHAM, CHARLOTTE ETHRIDGE, and MILDRED VANDERPOOL, in whose home the affair was held. There were seven guests of honor: FAY CANNON, AMANDA COBB, GAYLE KELLY, PAULA PERRY, SUSAN SHERROUSE, JAN TOUCHSTONE, and CONNIE YANCEY. These received corsages of white carnations tied with yellow and black ribbon and ornamented with a tiny owl holding a diploma.

A large arrangement of yellow daylilies decorated the patio where the honorees greeted the other guests. Daisies and ivy were used in other bouquets.

Yellow linen fringed in white covered the refreshment table, where yellow punch was served from a bowl bedded in daisies and ivy. The hostesses were assisted by JANET VANDERPOOL, SALLY DIENES, CHARLOTTE ETHRIDGE, LYNN HADDAD and LELA ROWAN.

SUSAN SHERROUSE was named guest of honor when FRANCES BROWN entertained at luncheon on the porch at Bayou DeSiard country club. A pink cloth covered the table, which held three spring bouquets in baskets. Menu for the fifteen guests included tomato stuffed with chicken salad, finger sandwiches, and a choice of desserts.

Another luncheon on Tuesday's schedule was that honoring CAROL GENUNG at Bayou DeSiard country club. KATHERINE SCOGIN, ELIZABETH POWELL, and PAULA STEELE were hostesses. Pink roses and blue stokesias centered the table in the bay window, where eleven guests were seated. Tiny honey-comb heads topped with mortarboards were favor-place-cards.

A Coke party at her home was the compliment planned by ELIZABETH WOMACK for SALLY PIERCE, CAROL GENUNG, and BILLIE PORTER. Eighteen girls were invited to attend this affair on Wednesday morning.

Spring flowers were noted throughout the Womack home. Gardenias decorated the entrance; and a spring bouquet of roses, hydrangeas, stokesia, and cornflowers filled a silver bowl on the dining room table. Refreshments were served in the family room and on the patio, where all white flowers, gladioli and gardenias, were used. Refreshments included smoked ham salad sandwiches, ribbon cheese sandwiches, and several kinds of cookies.

At noon on Wednesday, DOT HADDAD was hostess at luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club honoring FAY CANNON. The table in the private dining room was covered with a pink cloth and centered with a bouquet of pink asters. Places for twelve guests were marked with cards ornamented with mortarboards and tied with pink daisies.

Honoring DOVIE ANN ROBERTS, THERESA SAMPOGNARO entertained with luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club on Wednesday. This party was held on the porch, where the table appointments carried out a theme of green and white. Three large goblets, looped with green satin ribbon, stood the length of the green-covered table. Gardenias, white roses, and white chrysanthemums were used in each goblet. White flowers tied with green ribbon ornamented cards which marked places for eighteen guests.

A mortarboard filled with yellow daisies and honeysuckle centered the table when BETTY FARR honored her niece, SALLY FARR at luncheon. The party was held at the Farr home, 412 Rochelle, at noon Wednesday. Chicken a la king, broccoli, spiced peaches, chocolate parfait and lemon cake comprised the menu served to ten guests.

Co-hostesses PEGGY FOLDS and PANSYE SANDERS of Sterlington named CAROL ANN PETERS guest of honor when they entertained at luncheon at the Folds home on Pargoud boulevard Wednesday. Identical centerpieces were used on each of two tables where twelve guests were seated. Barbie dolls dressed in scholars' caps and gowns stood atop pyramids of books and gardenias. At individual places were nut cups ornamented with girl graduates wearing mortarboards. A summer plate of chicken salad, fruit salad, potato chips and relishes was served with cherry pie for dessert.

Thirty senior girls were invited to a conversational hour honoring CHARLENE VOGEL Wednesday afternoon. The party was held at the home of MILDRED MARCHMAN on Pargoud boulevard, with her daughter-in-law, SALLY MARCHMAN as co-hostess. Large arrangements of magnolias stood on the patio where guests gathered. The refreshment table in the playroom was centered with daisies. Bottled soft drinks were served from a large copper bowl in a wrought iron stand.

Buffet luncheon on Thursday honored RITA BRANDON, with NELL FAUCETT and IRENE KEELING hostesses in the Keeling home. A spring bouquet centered the dining room table, where guests served themselves before being seated at round tables on the porch. These were covered with green and white checked cloths and decorated with straw containers filled with daisies. There were twenty-three guests.

SUE STUBBS was hostess on Thursday last honoring senior FRAN SHATTUCK at an open house at her home on Island drive. Neville colors were carried out in the refreshment table on the patio, where the gold-covered table was centered with yellow chrysanthemums arranged with black figurines of graduates. Glasses of lemonade were served with finger food to forty guests.

Honoring her goddaughter, DANA MOUK, ADRIENNE GASTON was hostess at a morning party Thursday at her home on the Old Sterlington Road. Adrienne used her magnificent roses in all colors throughout the house for the party. Magnolias centered the dining room table, where bottled soft drinks were served with chicken salad sandwiches and homemade cookies. Fifty - seven senior girls were invited to share this occasion with Dana.

On Friday afternoon, ZANONA FLINN entertained honoring NANCY TALBOT, AMANDA COBB, FAY CANNON, and CONNIE YANCEY. The party was held on the porch at the Flinn residence on Myrtle street. Centerpiece on the refreshment table was a wicker figure of a girl holding a basket of fresh yellow flowers. Bottled drinks and lemonade were served wtih dips and snacks to fifty girls.

All white flowers decorated the house when IRMA ENSMINGER and BAB THOMAN entertained yesterday honoring Irma's granddaughter, SALLY ENSMINGER. The party was held at Irma's home at 2509 Hawthorne, which was filled with magnolias and gardenias. Bottled drinks, party sandwiches and cookies were served from a table centered with magnolias. The guest list numbered thirty-six.

A swimming party was planned yesterday afternoon by CHARLOTTE and BOB BRIGHT, MILDRED and HOWARD LANCE, honoring KAREN CROW. This affair was held on the patio at the Lance home on Stubbs avenue between the hours of two and four. Two refreshment tables were set up. One held the punch bowl, bedded in ice and filled with fresh fruit freeze; the other was loaded with dips, assorted sandwiches and sliced stuffed pickles. Twenty girls attended.

Meanwhile, things have not been dull for grown-ups about town. On Thursday evening, JIM RIVERS was surprised with an unusual birthday party. He was at Bayou DeSiard country club attending a directors' meeting. Wife BARBARA was out in a chartered city bus, collecting friends at their homes. The busload arrived at the Club to surprise Jim as the meeting ended. Comic gifts were brought by the forty guests who attended. The group had dinner at the club, and a conducted bus tour around town before they returned home.

Word has been received from Olla that MARION TOUSLEY won first place for her lyric poem in a contest sponsored in connection with the Tahlequah Writers' conference, Tahlequah, Oklahoma. In making the award, the judges commented, "We thought the poem poetically conceived and executed with technical skill and finesse. "Here is the poem, entitled "Meerschaum Cross of the Christus":

Dear little cross of the Christus,
Born of the surge of the sea;
Pressed eons of moon dust;
Time and eternity.

White little cross of the Christus;
Froth of an angry sea;
Ermine robe of Olympus,
Swirled by the gods in their glee!

Meerschaum cross of the Christus;
Misty white foam of the sea;
Neptune's earth-born fetus;
Shrine of mystery.
Vibrant cross of the Christus;
Voice of Calvary;
Story of God's long vistas,
Writ in the song of the sea.

GEORGIA LEE WALLACE

Osborn-Wallace Wedding Set For Early June

June 6 is the date chosen for their wedding by Miss Georgia Lee Wallace and Charles A. Osborn, both of this city. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. C. B. Littleton in Central Baptist church at 3 p.m.

The bride-elect is the daughter of George Wallace of Monroe and Mrs. Ruby Kennedy, Farmerville. Mr. Osborn is the son of Mrs. L. A. Osborn, 112 Richmond, Monroe and the late Mr. Osborn.

Miss Wallace will have as her attendants Mrs. Effie M. Stevens, her aunt, as matron of honor and Mrs. Jennie M. Willey, her cousin and Miss Eva M. Boyd, niece of the future bridegroom, as bridesmaids. George Bowles will attend Mr. Osborn as best man and ushers will be L. R. Morgan and Lester Bennett. Chosen as candlelighters are Judy Wallace, cousin of the bride-elect and Sharon Price.

The bride-elect, a student at Ouachita Parish high school, is the granddaughter of Mrs. Eva Shavers and Preston Neece and Mrs. B. W. Wallace. A graduate of Ouachita Parish high school, Mr. Osborn is the grandson of Mrs. Lorance Osborn.

ELEGANT LUNCH

For an elegant ladies' lunch, serve French pancakes with a filing of creamed crabmeat lightly flavored with curry powder. The stuffed crepes may be made ahead and placed in a single layer in a shallow baking dish, then all there is to do before serving is to heat, covered with foil, in a moderate oven.

Summer Dresses Echo Charm

Irwin Shaw once wrote a short story with the charming title, "The Girls in Their Summer Dresses." With the soft trend now coming in, this summer may be the first one for quite a while which can live up to that phrase.

Lounge dresses may still be shift-shaped, but they've got flounced hemlines now. Day dresses have opened necklines with ruffles round them, floating skirts made by bias and even circular cuts.

Evening dresses are just simply pretty, with softly fitted bodices, sashed waistlines and big, rippling skirts made by small unpressed pleats or gathers.

The colors are pretty again, too. Lots of pink, mingled now with cool green and white, or mauve, which is the new pink. The summer dresses this year are really dresses, charmers all the way.

POETIC BLOUSES

Poetic are the spring blouses with big sleeves and soft collars, in dotted Swiss, embroidered batiste, white and feminine.

Newlyweds love to take pictures, a survey by one bridal magazine shows. It seems that 81.5 per cent of all newlyweds queried said they had taken dozens of photographs while on the honeymoon.

Umbrella For Golfers

Everybody knows by now that a golf enthusiast never gives up the game despite rain, sleet, hail and snow. At a London, England, fashion show rainwear makers came up with the first practical aid — an umbrella with a transparent panel with which to view the fairway.

Device Holds Button Forever

It has not come to shirts yet, but a "button that stays on forever is now being affixed to mens rainwear.

The attachment method, a secret with the manufacturer, appears not to be any different than the usual system. The outside button is sewn to the cloth with a smaller button on the reverse side.

But apparently there is a difference because the manufacturer guarantees the buttons to stay on forever.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I have been reading a most interesting and informative new book. Its title is "For Women Only" and it deals with problems which are exclusively feminine. Its author is Dr. Bernard L. Cinberg, Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology, Fellow of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology, a diplomate of the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology and a Fellow of The New York Academy of Medicine. It is published by the Delacorte Press, New York City.

Following are some of the "Old Wives Tales" which Dr. Cinberg lists and his answers:

1. A bath taken during menstruation will stop the period.

A. Bathe as often as you please. Menstural periods are not water-controlled.

2. Hair will not take a permanent during a woman's period.

A. Tain't so. This yarn was probably originated by a dollar-conscious husband.

3. A woman's sex life ends at change of life.

A. Nonsense. It can go on and on.

4. Women whose abdomen's protrude forward to a point in their last months of pregnancy are carrying a boy. A more rounded swelling indicates a girl.

A. Geometry and its figures are fine in mathematics, but they're not realiable obstetrical signposts.

5. Nursing mothers do not become pregannt.

A. An excellent aid to the production of large families, though there is a modicum of truth in the idea. Modicums aren't enough.

6. A baby born in the seventh month has a better chance to live than one born in the eighth month.

A. Not so. The closer a fetus gets to a nine month intrauterine say the better its chances are of surviving labor. IF the preganancy is normal. This adage springs from abnormal pregancies where the baby is better off out of its stricken mother, despite the dangers of prematurity.

7. Expectant mothers must eat for two.

A. They generally do, but they shouldn't. The metabolic changes of pregnancy make increased food intake necessary and even undesirable.

If any of my readers would like to have my leaflet "Care During Pregnancy and Reconditioning After Pregnancy" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 21 to Joesphine Lowman in care of News-Star.

Flower Choice For Wedding Is Varied

Organ music, stained glass, bubbling champagne, and white satin are all symbols of a joyous wedding. Outshone only by the radiant bride herself are the fresh flowers that give a stellar performance on this happiest of days.

Spring gives a wide variety of flowers from which the bride can make her selection, says the Society of American Florists. Roses, of course, are always a popular choice, as are gladioli with their butterfly-like blooms.

Perhaps the most popular of all flowers for wedding bouquets, however, are orchids. Their natural beauty is one reason of course. Another is that a clever florist can have one or two blossoms arranged so they may be removed from the bouquet and be worn by the bride, as a separate corsage, when she leaves the reception.

Orchids — whether they are the bit cattleya type or the smaller cymbidium variety — always seem to have an air of formality. Combining them with other flowers can make them more or less traditional, to fit the occasion and to blend with the bride's gown.

One happy combination of flowers especially suited to the season is a skillful blending of white hybrid cattleya orchids with sprays of white Shasta pom pons. The chrysanthemums give a feathery, informal effect that makes this bouquet particularly suited to a young bride.

She might choose, too, to wear a wreath made of variegated ivy twined around her veil and dotted with occasional pompon blossoms. Her attendants might carry bouquets of the same flowers in shades to match or blend with their dresses, and in a vast rainbow of colors ranging from pure white to deep, deep red, the bride will know that, regardless of the shade she selects for her bridesmaids' gowns, her florist can concoct bouquets that will add additional enchantment to an enchanted day.

Wild Stockings To Draw Stares

If men don't stare at women's legs in America it isn't because the Italians (who believe in that sort of thing) aren't trying.

Their latest efforts include some stockings with wide horizontal stripes like baseball socks; others like patchwork quilts, and some of a three dimensional effect with hearts and diamonds from knee to toe.

SALAD SPRAYS

Don't let that lettuce, or any other green, fall over that salad plate. Tuck in all parsley stems so only the pretty spray at the top shows. These garnishing tricks help make a salad look attractive and professional.

Loud Jackets, Quiet Trousers Seen For Males

The stylish male this summer will combine quiet trousers with loud jackets. That's the word from slack manufacturers.

Ninety-five per cent will be solid conservative hues. But over these men will wear blue, brown and gold blazers, and many striped jackets, too.

Men will wear their walking shorts the longer Bermuda length instead of the Jamaica length, claim the makers.

When you par-boil potatoes and carrots before adding the vegetables to the pan in which meat is roasting, save the liquid and use in making the meat gravy.

You don't need to place the meat on a rack in roasting ribs of beef or loin of pork because the bones hold the meat away from the bottom of the roasting pan.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

6 Designs Of Beauty

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

Beauty always prevails when Dr. John Wright's program is presented for the T. V. Fifth District Garden Center program. This was certainly the case last Wednesday when Dr. Wright prepared six designs which contained unusual plant materials used in vertical containers.

There is no getting away from the fact that lovely plant materials make the most appealing designs — as for beauty. So often we stray away from plant materials as leading elements in our designs and place figurines, containers, or other than fresh cut plant materials first in importance.

This is leaning toward the modern or ultra modern design too far — so some say. The true gardener still feels that the fresh cut flowers should take the lead. Anyway, this leads to controversy. The point I am trying to make is that Dr. Wright works with fresh plant material as one who truly loves horticulture and his designs prove this by their loveliness — their beauty — their quality (containing materials of horticultural perfection).

TORCH LILY

In the Wednesday program Dr. Wright used the tritoma (torch - lily) in several of his designs. This particular one is greenish-yellow in color on tall graceful spikes. Others in this family are red, sometimes called "red hot poker." The family name for this showy plant is the Kniphofia, native of Africa. It holds up well in designs and appears very dramatic. One of the designs made with this contained three medium sized magnolia blossoms with the leaves for the focal interest in a tall black ceramic container.

Another contained the lovely golden mums (harvest giant) clustered in the focal area placed in a tall black cylinder vase. The third design using the tritomas for line contained small yellow mums for focal interest with Bells of Ireland as a filler and Burford holly as a background in a tall narrow cylinder vase. The name of this particular tritoma is the "Sky Rocket."

Banana stalk with the deep pink blossom and bud formed the line for one of the designs in a tall black columnar-type container. Burford holly and white mums filled the focal area.

One of the most attractive designs Dr. Wright made contained a multi - color scheme — a massed oval design made of three shades of larkspur for line — pink, white, and purple in a white urn-type container which was placed on a pedestal resembling true marble. Cleverly this was made by placing marblized paper on a block of wood. The focal interest in this design was a cluster of "harvest giant" mums, the "touchdown" which is a blend of gold, pink and cream color — just luscious looking. Bells of Ireland placed at the basic part of the design added a finishing touch of coolness.

One last design was made in a tall pink ceramic container. A swirling line of deep pink larkspur with a filler of Bells of Ireland blended beautifully with the shade of the container which was placed on a white footed base. This base was accented by the row of white mums that filled the focal area. Looked like something good to eat — my own impression.

All of these tall containers were filled with oasis, and some water, also. This is the best solution as a holder for tall containers. It is always best to add water even though the oasis is well soaked. The flowers will sometimes drain the oasis and will not hold up as long as they should — but, the extra water supply keeps them fresh longer.

Just a few hints about keeping your cut flowers fresh — I'd like to pass on to you now that the weather is getting real summery. Sometimes our plant materials will wilt almost immediately when cut. Placing in hot water, alum, alcoholic menthol solution, mustard tincture, pepper extract, peppermint oil, and acetic acid solution has proved effective to some of these plants. The freshly cut ends of the plants are dipped in them for a few seconds just before arranging. Sugar added to the water in the vase is helpful for retaining the freshness of asters and mums. One teaspoon of sugar per quart of water is recommended for asters and four teaspoonfuls of sugar for mums. Most soft land plants and lilies are stimulated by adding a little sugar or alum to the water in the container — not more than a half teaspoonful for a pint of water.

Stand amaryllis, columbine, marigold and daisies for a half hour in a solution of one-half teaspoon of peppermint oil in a quart of water, remove and stand for a couple of hours in cold water.

There are many commercial plant stimulants designed to retard the wilting of cut plants. Most of these contain several ingredients, some of which retard bacteria, others that either dissolve or retard the hardening of secretions from the plant stems to keep them from "bleeding," still others that facilitate the rise of water in the severed stems. A good recipe for a wide variety of branches and woody flower stalks is:

10 per cent hydrochloric acid — 50 cc. (cubic centimeters), 5 per cent sulphurous acid — 10cc., 30 per cent acetic acid—10cc., water — 10cc, alcohol — 20cc, mustard oil — 3 drops.

Then for soft - stemmed plants: 10 per cent hydrochloric acid — 50cc., tencture capsicum — 1.5cc, alcohol—20cc. Dilute with water to make a volume of 100 cc. In using either of these mixtures, the end of each branch or stem of plant is dipped for a couple of seconds in the appropriate mixture contained in a wide-mouthed bottle provided with a tightly fitting stopper.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Iris Notes In Season

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Right after the blooming period seems to be the best time to dig and divide tall bearded irises and the Louisiana irises. If you cannot get it done by late June, then wait till late July or August to divide these two groups of iris.

In the middle of the summer, flower buds are being formed in the rhizomes. Interference with growth at this time will result in few if any flowers next year, even though the plants grow off well.

For the best landscape effects with irises, plant masses of not less than 25 of the solid colored varieties. Some of the older bearded irises have smaller flowers than the giants of today. The bountiful crop of small flowers (they were not considered small 20 years ago) keeps opening for something like 10 days in well established beds. Old varieties like Gold Imperial, Princess Beatrice, and the many, many old blue varieties make a telling effect in the landscape. Since they are common and can be had from old plantings, almost anyone will give you all the plants you want for the digging. These old stand-bys can take the rain and the weather better than the large flowered moderns in the landscape. They make relatively lower masses, too, and bloom down low on the stems.

In order to keep the Louisianas from growing out in a circle away from the middle, one can aim them in all directions when setting them out. Then, a few years later, new plants can be established in the voids which inevitably occur in beds of these irises. With so many fascinating and rare hues and tints to choose from amongst the Louisianas, it is an awful temptation to grow a collection of these beauties at the expense of mass color effects — especially in medium sized gardens. As we noted above with the bearded irises, it is the lighter, brighter blues and yellows which are needed in masses for real landscape effect. These bright masses will show off the gorgeous deep toned varieties by contrast.

Around your sitting terrace and in the more intimate parts of the garden, the oriental roof iris (I. Tectorum) is a lovely thing to have in a garden. The foliage makes a low ground cover, evergreen until the hard winter kills it back. Then, it is one of the first things to grow in spring again. If you can pick up the white form of this plant, it contrasts beautifully with the blue form. For shade, the roof iris and our tiny native iris crystata are just the thing. Both of these, like the bearded and Louisianas can be divided right after they flower. In a few years, from a small clump, you can have a whole ground cover in woodsy places.

Artist Uses Native Clay In Doll Art

A Sterlington resident, Mrs. Joy Eason, will exhibit original porcelain and ceramic dolls of native Louisiana and Texas clays at the fourth annual Arts and Crafts Festival at Hodges Gardens June 5, 6 and 7.

Mrs. Eason, who is showing her dolls at the festival for the third consecutive year, will introduce a new and original collection created of native Louisiana clay. Named the Mudd family, the dolls include Grandma, Grandpa, Aunt May, Uncle Will, "Lil Patty" and "Lil Justin" Mudd. Other dolls will include Evangeline and Grabriel and other characters, historic, portrait and replicas of first ladies.

Claiming to be a rank amateur in the medium, Mrs. Eason has only been interested in ceramics for the past four years. Her interest in dolls developed following the creation of a ceramic tile child's tea table, printed and illustrated with nursery rhymes, which she exhibited at the Monroe Woman's Exchange.

PLEASURE TO WATCH

"It was such a pleasure to see the faces of children as they read the rhymes or just looked at the pictures until I wanted to go further into children's things," she said. "I started by casting some commercial molds in soft art ware, and eventually started modeling my own dolls and making plaster molds from them."

This has entailed extensive research and experiments with a buff colored clay near Atlanta, Texas, and red clay from Lake LaFourche near Columbia, La. Her tools have been an old wringer type washing machine, a milk strainer and various and sundry other items in her kitchen.

The results have been well worth the effort and some of her most outstanding creations are historic and period dolls, which she dresses authentically. This consumes hours, weeks and sometimes months of library research to determine the styles of clothing, colors, materials, accessories, jewelry, hair styles and makeup in specific historical periods. She then designs, cuts and fits the doll's clothing, cutting a pattern and filing it away for future use when she is pleased with the results. Finding the right material is often as time consuming as the research as she never uses synthetic materials on old-fashioned dolls.

PERIOD DOLLS

Last year she made and dressed a collection of period dolls for a museum opened by the Colonial Dames in Monroe, which was also displayed in the Ouachita Parish Library.

Realizing that her ceramic and porcelain dolls are collectors items rather than toys small children can enjoy, Mrs. Eason also creates rag dolls. She has even prepared kits of arms, legs, heads and bodies for those who would like to make their own and designs patterns for clothing to go along with the kits.

Mrs. J. B. Gorder, Route 3, Monroe, will accompany Mrs. Eason to the Arts and Crafts Festival at Hodges Gardens and exhibit original ceramics. They will join more than 50 other talented craftsmen, representational and modern painters, and sculptors from Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas, who will show and sell at the three-day festival.

OTHER WORKS

Painters will show oils, watercolors, pastels, caseins, etchings, charcoals, and gouaches, and sculptors will exhibit works in wood, clay, and metal, and stone. Crafts will include pottery, tincraft, enamels, needlecraft, ceramics and basketry.

Adding color to the festival will be the Koasati Indians in native costumes, who will exhibit unique basketry made of pine straw, grasses and cane.

Highlighting the show will be prize awards in modern and representational painting, sculpture and crafts. Jurors will be Pat Trivigno of New Orleans and Evaline Clark Sellors of Fort Worth, Texas.

Trivigno, who will juror paintings, is professor of art and head of the painting department, Newcomb College, Tulane University. A recipient of the University - Carnegie Foundation Grant for a year's work in Italy, he has held three one-man exhibits and shown in more than 25 group exhibitions.

Miss Sellors, the crafts juror, is a sculpture and ceramics instructor for the Fort Worth Art Association and the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts. She is also a recipient of numerous awards and is represented in many public and private collections throughout the country.

Sponsor is the Louisiana Artists, Inc., with David Middleton of Shreveport, president and festival chairman, and Mrs. John Gallagher, co-chairman. Other members of the committee are Lucille Reed, secretary of Louisiana Artists, and C. B. Byrd, Jr., general manager of Hodges Gardens.

SWEET WIVELSFIELD is a double-flowered relative of Sweet William, with the same fragrance and many-colored flowers. Plants grow to a height of about one foot.

The type of joint used in a woodworking project — and the manner in which it is put together — usually tell volumes about the skill of the person who performed the job.

Professional woodworkers made their selection from a wide variety of possible joints. The average home woodworker must rely on the more simple joints, not only because he lacks the necessary skill, but because special tools are often required.

There is one joint, however, that has a professional appearance and yet can be handled by anyone. This is the dowel joint. A dowel, often called a dowel pin or dowel rod, is merely a stick of wood with a round shape. It comes in many different lengths and diameters, the most usual length being 36 inches and the most usual diameters ranging from one-eighth of an inch to one inch. Commercially made dowels are available at lumber yards, building supply dealers and hardware stores, as well as by mail from companies which specialize in making up kits containing dowels of assorted diameters. Most dowels are made of hardwood, such as birch or maple.

DESCRIPTION

A dowel joint — to simplify it somewhat — is a joint in which two pieces of wood are held together with one or more dowels, adequately glued. The dowels strengthen the joint and give it a finished appearance.

The important thing in making a good dowel joint is seeing that the holes in each piece of wood are aligned perfectly. This can be done by measurement alone, but since absolute accuracy is essential — even to the tinest fraction of an inch — some other method of alignment is recommended. You can buy a dowel jig that enables you to line up the dowel holes very simply. Still another effective method is with inexpensive dowel centers. These are small, usually metal, cylinders. The holes are bored in one piece of wood and the dowel centers slipped into the holes, Ridges on the centers prevent them from dropping all the way into the holes. Also, each center has a tiny, sharp point on it. Press the two pieces of wood together and then take them apart. There will be small indentations on the second piece of wood. The holes then are bored in those indentations.

ALIGNMENT

But whether you use any of the ready made dowel jugs to enable you to make the joints, or rely on some homemade contraption, as many persons do, the important thing is that the dowel holes be aligned perfectly. And before applying glue to the dowel joints, file a few ridges in the dowels. This is to give the glue and air somewhere to escape when the dowels are placed into the holes. For the same reason, it's a good idea to make the dowel holes slightly deeper than the length of the dowels. Some special types of dowels come with these ridges already in them.

There is one type of dowel joint which requires no fitting of the dowel holes. In this so - called open joint, the two pieces of wood are clamped or otherwise held together. A hole is then drilled completely through one piece of wood into or through the one to be joined. The glued dowel is then pushed through the drilled holes, with the surplus end if any, sawed off. This makes a very strong joint and is exceptionally easy to make, even for the amateur. Its sole disadvantage is that one or both ends of the dowel will be visible.

The home handyman who has never bothered with dowel joints because of a belief that they are too difficult to make should do a little experimenting with them. He will get a great kick out of the neat job they make.

QUESTION: We are getting ready to refinish an oak floor. I know pretty much what to do about resurfacing the floor with a sanding machine and I think I will be able to handle the varnishing part of the job. But I want to use a wood filler and I need some information about its application. I have never used wood filler in any way.

ANSWER: After thoroughly removing any grit particles from the newly surfaced floor, follow the instructions on the container of pastewood filler on reducing the filler to a paint consistency. Apply the mixture with the grain, using a three or four - inch brush and not covering a strip of more than two feet wide at one time. As soon as the area takes on a whitish cast, begin rubbing across the grain with a piece of burlap.

This will leave filler in the large pores of the oak, but will loosen the surface excess. Sweep off that excess and allow the floor to dry overnight. Apply a primer coat of varnish thinned as recommended by the manufacturer.

When it has dried thoroughly — from 10 to 12 hours is a satisfactory waiting period — sand it and dust it well. At least two finish coats of unthinned floor varnish are then applied, with 24 hours between each coat.

Plant Mums For Autumn

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

If you, Mr. or Mrs. Gardener, want beautiful colors in your yard this fall begin to plant chrysanthemums. If you make a selection of early to late varieties you can have color for 10 to 12 weeks.

Many colors and flower types are available. Plants may be set out in May or early June. Neil Odelwald, our horticulturist of LSU Agriculture Extension, says that chrysanthemums grow in a variety of soil types, but those that have high humus content are best. If you do not have this type of soil you may add humus in the form of leaf mold, peat moss or other soil conditioning materials.

PLANT SPACING

Space the plants from one to two feet apart, depending on the potential spread. If possible, secure new plants each year. Outside shoots or stolons that form in the crown of old plants may be used, but the possibility of disease problems is much greater.

Select a well-drained location which receives full sun exposure most of the day.

Two weeks after planting, remove the top one-fourth to one-half inch of the plant to encourage branching. Frequent watering is necessary, along with a systematic spray schedule for foliage insects and disease pests.

TEA

Mrs. Farm Bureau be sure to remember the Tea tomorrow afternoon May 25, from 2 to 4, at the home of Mrs. Joe Dixon, 2205 Pargoud Blvd., Monroe.

HOUSE FURNISHING LEADERS

Home Demonstration Club leaders be sure to attend the training meeting in "House Furnishings" at the Agriculture Building in West Monroe, Tuesday, May 26, from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. If you, Mrs. Leader, cannot attend, be sure to get a substitute so that your club will be represented.

FRUIT TREES

If you, Mr. and Mrs. Gardener, have been concerned as to the length of time required for that fruit tree to bear, the U.S. Department of Agriculture offers this guide: fig tree, 2 to 3 years; peach tree, 2 to 4 years; apricot tree, 4 to 5 years; plum and pear, 4 to 6 years; apple tree, 4 to 7 years. Dwarf apple and pear trees usually begin to bear, one to 2 years earlier than standard size trees.

FLOOR SAFETY

Are you, Mrs. Homemaker, concerned with floor safety? If so, your best protection against skids and falls may be your shoe heels, according to research scientists at the University of North Carolina. They have found greater differences in slipperiness amongs types of heel materials than among types of floor materials.

In tests with heels of both leather and rubber, using five different sizes, five weight loads and nine resistent floor materials, they found linoleum and vinyl asbestos floors the slickest and leather heels the most slippery. A small heel didn't seem to be any more slippery than a stocky heel. It was the material of the heel and the weight load it carried that determined the amount of slippage. All tests were conducted on dry floor surfaces.

WASH'N WEAR FABRICS

In caring for garments made of wash'n wear fabrics, remember that these fabrics pick up soil readily, but the soil usually does not become embedded in the fiber. It is best to wash such items frequently. Pretreat any heavily soiled areas with a paste made of water and detergent or liquid detergent. Since chlorine bleach may react with the finish on certain wash'n wear cottons, it is wise to test the bleach solution in some inconspicuous spot on the garment before using.

A THOUGHT

If you want the most for the least — do not expect it to last for a lifetime.

Huge Magnolia Tree Linked With History

A huge magnolia tree still on the lawn of Vassar Brothers' Home for Aged Men in Poughkeepsie, N. Y. recalls an incident after the assassination of President Lincoln 99 years ago.

Matthew Vassar, then a 74-year-old retired brewer preparing the Vassar College plant for opening, wrote in his diary on April 24, 1865:

"Cut magnolia to decorate Prest. Lincoln-Coffin at the RR Depo this evening. Amanda (Miss Amanda Germond, his housekeeper) accompanied Lady Com(mittee) down." Lincoln's funeral train stopped briefly at Poughkeepsie.

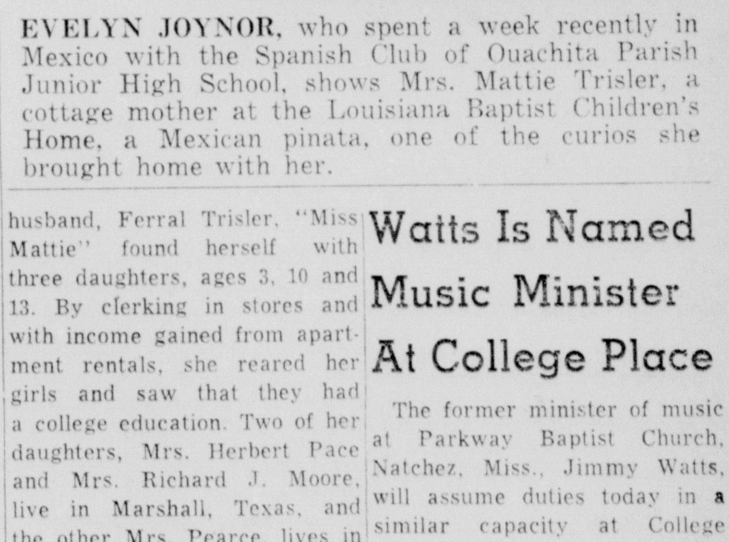
COMPERE COTTAGE at the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home has had only three cottage mothers since its opening in 1925. Mrs. Melba Ponder served until 1937, when Mrs. Mattie Trisler assumed the role she filled until succeeded by Mrs. Ollie James in 1962. (Children's Home Photo)

AT BAPTIST CHILDREN'S HOME

Cottage Mother Reflects On Long Tour Of Service



EVELYN JOYNOR, who spent a week recently in Mexico with the Spanish Club of Ouachita Parish Junior High School, shows Mrs. Mattie Trisler, a cottage mother at the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home, a Mexican pinata, one of the curios she brought home with her.

Three days have stretched into almost 27 years for Mrs. Mattie Trisler who will retire from the cottage staff at the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe July 1.

Her work at the Home began after she met Superintendent and Mrs. B. F. Wallace in the fall of 1937 when they were dinner guests in the home of her daughter, Mrs. B. C. Pearce, president of the Woman's Missionary Union in Sterlington First Baptist Church. The superintendent asked her if she would come to Compere Cottage and stay three days while the matron (as cottage mothers were called in those days) underwent surgery. She consented and, when Mrs. Melba Ponder was unable to return to her duties because of her health, "Miss Mattie" stayed on.

TOUCHED MANY LIVES

Through these years, Mrs. Trisler has touched the lives of literally hundreds of growing children. In the early years of her service, she was cottage mother to from 33 to 38 teen-age girls at one time, all living and eating in Compere Cottage. With a heart overflowing with love and understanding, Mrs. Trisler has spent herself for others.

Once a broken-hearted girl lamented, "I can't be anything, because my mother and daddy weren't." Mrs. Trisler determined, as she has so many times, that with God's help she was going to "make something" out of that girl and she, like so many others, turned out well and now lives in Texas with her own family.

The esteem in which "Miss Mattie" is held by all is seen as former residents return to the home. They look first for this one who has a special place in their hearts.

When Mrs. Trisler joined the home staff, most of the children were total orphans. Now almost three decades later, most are from broken homes. This is true in children's homes throughout America. Mrs. Trisler has seen the needs of children change as their problems have been increased and made more complex by the breakdown in family life.

BUSY SUMMERS

She recalls her extremely busy summers of the earlier years when she took 75 or more children to Olla, Dry Creek, and Mandeville Baptist encampments.

Widowed by the death of her husband, Ferral Trisler, "Miss Mattie" found herself with three daughters, ages 3, 10 and 13. By clerking in stores and with income gained from apartment rentals, she reared her girls and saw that they had a college education. Two of her daughters, Mrs. Herbert Pace and Mrs. Richard J. Moore, live in Marshall, Texas, and the other Mrs. Pearce, lives in Fort Worth.

Mrs. Trisler thought she retired in July, 1962, but Superintendent Wade B. East insisted that she return six months later as a supply cottage mother because she, with her vast experience in the work, was needed. She is looking forward now to her "second retirement" and to making her home in an apartment at 702½ East Austin Street in Marshall, Texas.

IN REFLECTION

She reflects upon the years, indicating she has enjoyed her work even though there have been "lots of ups and downs" She says that she would not take anything for the rewarding experiences which have been her's. She regrets that she did not keep a record of the names of all her "children" during the almost three decades that have passed. One thing is certain. All those whom she has loved and cared for have a record of "Miss Mattie's" name written in their hearts.

Watts Is Named Music Minister At College Place

The former minister of music at Parkway Baptist Church, Natchez, Miss., Jimmy Watts, will assume duties today in a similar capacity at College Place Church, 301 Sherrouse Ave.

He moved to Monroe last week with his wife and three children, two boys aged 4 and 2, and a girl, 9-months-old.

He is a graduate of Mississippi College, Clinton, Miss., and of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky.

He and his wife are natives of Pascagoula, Miss. He served as music director of Tallulah First Baptist Church and Crystal Springs Baptist Church while a student at Mississippi College. And while a student in Louisville, he served with the Green Acres Bapitst Church.

After seminary days were over he served with the Second Avenue Baptist Church in Laurel, Miss., and four years ago went to the Parkway Baptist Church assignment.

The morning worship service at College Place is at 11 and evening worship on Sunday at 7:10. The Rev. T. Earl Ogg is pastor.

FBI Charges Negro Sailor With Murder

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A first-degree murder warrant was served Saturday aboard a Coast Guard cutter in Tampa Bay as the aftermath of a struggle to the death between a shrimp boat captain and his mate.

The FBI charged Henry Weaver, 23, the mate aboard the 72-foot Golden Net, with the death of Capt. William Schuck, 41, a former Polk County deputy sheriff from Bartow, "on or about May 10" in the Gulf of Mexico.

Weaver, a Negro, was brought to Tampa aboard the Coast Guard cutter Point Swift early Saturday with the Golden Net in tow.

The FBI said Weaver had worked as a shrimp fisherman for three or four years and came to Tampa in late March. He was hired April 1 and left with Captain Schuck aboard the Golden Net the next day.

The trip to the Campeche shrimp beds off the Yucatan Peninsula took about 100 hours and after arrival the men occasionally went ashore together. They were described as "the best of friends."

Neal Welch, FBI agent who boarded the Point Swift to serve the warrant on Weaver, said that on or about May 10, Schuck had been ashore, came back to the Golden Net and was weighing anchor when an argument broke out, apparently over whether to leave or stay.

"A struggle took place and the captain went overboard—off the bow," Welch told reporters. "We believe it may be possible that the captain climbed back aboard. Then the struggle continued. Weaver told us the captain was armed with a hatchet. Weaver was armed with a knife."

The captain went overboard again and Welch said Weaver told him "the captain was lost."

A body recovered in the Obregon River near Frontera bore three stab wounds in the rib cage and the throat was cut. Other fishermen tentatively identified it as that of Schuck.

Weaver radioed that he had received slashes, including hatchet wounds, in a fight and that he was alone on the boat.

Crews on other shrimp boats said Weaver brandished a rifle and warned them to stay away or he would shoot.

Later he agreed to head for port and the Golden Net was met by the Point Swift about 130 miles southwest of Tampa Friday morning.

Time Squeeze Prods Solons In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The Mississippi legislature will be forced to heed Gov. Paul Johnson's advice to "rev up its motor" next week to avoid a veto of a $12.3 million teachers pay raise bill.

The lawmakers will have only two days when they return Monday in which to push through a $26.5 million revenue program Johnson says is needed to finance an expected $355 million budget, including the salary increase for most of the state's school teachers.

The governor is required to act on a bill within five days after it reaches his desk or it automatically becomes law without his signature. The deadline for the teachers bill is midnight Tuesday.

Johnson said in a joint address to the legislature he would be willing to sign the controversial measure, giving most teachers a $300 a year increase, if the money was raised to finance it. If not, he said he would have no alternative but to veto the bill.

But Johnson made it clear in a news conference later that the necessary tax bills must have won final legislative approval, in both House and Senate, by the Tuesday deadline before he would sign the teachers pay proposal.

The key measure in the search for new money is a House-passed proposal to increase the state sales tax from 3 to 3½ per cent, bringing in $22.8 million over the coming biennium. The Senate rejected the measure last week after putting in an amendment giving merchants a reimbursement for collecting the bill. The amendment would reduce the amount produced by about $4 million.

At the same time, the Senate passed two other bills expected to produce about $5 million, raising the cigaret tax from 8 to 9 cents a pack and upping the import levy on illegal liquor from 10 to 12 cents. Both still face House action.

Also winning Senate approval was a $6 million bill halting the gradual reduction of the top bracket of the state income tax, but Johnson said he would veto this measure if it gets through the House.

The teachers pay raise apparently could be saved if the House accepts the liquor and tobacco measures, and the Senate reconsiders and passes the sales tax proposal, deleting the reimbursement amendment. But it all must be accomplished in two days.

Sen. Ellis Bodron of Vicksburg, chairman of the Finance Committee, said Saturday he felt the financial stalemate could be broken within the time limit "if the legislature wants to do it."

"I'm inclined to think they do," he added.

Powell To Try Forming Union For Plumbers

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) —Congressman Adam Clayton Powell Jr. said Saturday he probably will organize a plumbers union in New York City in an attempt to correct alleged discrimination by Local 2 of the Plumbers and Pipefitters Union.

In an interview at his Cerro Gordo home, Powell said the proposed new union "will be open to all Americans, not only Negroes and Puerto Ricans." Powell, D-NY, is a Negro.

Powell said he has received a memorandum from his special assistant, Donald Louis Anderson, which stated there was no legal impediment to setting up such a union.

Local 2 figured in a recent civil rights dispute in New York City involving two Negroes and two Puerto Ricans who wanted to join the union.

The two Puerto Ricans and one Negro failed a plumbers written test administered by Local 2. The second Negro did not take the test.

The three who did said they would take it again in 90 days. All four had claimed the union gave them the run around because of their race when they tried to join.

A Local 2 spokesman said if the men had passed the written test and a subsequent physical test they would have been voted into the union.

Negro Drowns At Holly Ridge

RAYVILLE (Special) — John Henry Cooper, a 15-year-old Holly Ridge Negro youth, drowned about 10 a.m. Saturday in a bar pit just north of Holly Ridge.

The body was receovered by the Richland Parish Dept.

Cooper was reported to have been with several youths on a berry picking trip when they decided to go swimming at the pit.

South Africans To Expel Holder Of Nobel Prize

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) —Two members of South Africa's security police force have served Nobel Peace Prize winner Albert Luthuli with a banishment order which will cut him off from contact with the outside world for the next five years.

The two policemen went to Luthuli's trading store in the middle of an African reserve devoted to the growing of sugar cane and handed him a notice from Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster.

The notice, which arrived the day before the existing five-year banishment order on Luthuli was due to expire, limits his movements and his activities even more than the old order. Vorster has now decreed Luthuli can no longer go into the nearby town of Stanger.

For the next five years the 66-year-old African nationalist leader will be confined to the reserve where he has his home, his store and his sugar cane plantation. He will be unable to speak to anyone from outside the reserve because anyone who is not a resident of the reserve must have an official permit to visit the place.

Luthuli was a Zulu chief before he became active in African nationalist politics.

Vorster's new banishment order was issued under the Suppression of Communism Act. It says the minister was "satisfied" Luthuli was engaged in "activities furthering the cause of communism." Violation of the order would make Luthuli subject to a prison sentence.

Teachers' Discontent Grows In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mutter of teacher discontent is growing louder in the land.

Utah teachers struck for two days, and are threatening to boycott the classrooms again next fall.

Teachers in East St. Louis, Ill., struck for four days until the school board met their salary demands.

Teachers in Jersey City, N.J., walked out for one day earlier this year, just as teachers in Gary, Ind., did last year. New York teachers called a one-day strike in 1961, and again in 1962.

Teachers in South Bend, Ind., voted against a strike, 555-379, but the issues there are far from settled.

There is unrest in Louisville, Ky., where teachers say the community is not supporting the schools as it should.

Idaho teachers are keeping a close eye on developments in Utah, and they, too, may decide on a boycott.

All across the nation there is a growing demand by teachers for greater recognition and a more effective voice in school affairs.

Salaries are the big issue, but not the only one.

Some teachers air their demands through the state and local affiliates of their professional organization, the 902,000-member National Education Association.

Others have turned to the smaller, but more militant, 100,000-member American Federation of Teacher, affiliated with the AFL-CIO.

The AFT calls the NEA a "company union" dominated by administrators, and says it has proven to be an ineffective voice on the teachers' behalf.

The NEA denies both charges, notes that 90 per cent of its members are classroom teachers, and says teachers should not align themselves with any single segment of society—meaning organized labor.

Both sides are campaigning furiously, in big city and small community alike, to have their affiliates recognized as the sole organization representing teachers in discussions with the school board.

In 12 contested elections to determine teacher representation, dating back to January, 1963, the NEA affiliates won nine, the union three.

Furthermore, NEA affiliates have reached negotiating agreements in nearly 250 school districts where there was no contest with the AFT.

The teacher union, on the other hand, has picked off the two biggest plums — New York City and Detroit — and it gave the NEA a run for its money in Milwaukee, Wis., where the teachers picked the NEA unit by a vote of 2,240-1,645.

PAR Seeks To Halt Pay Abuse

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Public Affairs Research Council proposed Saturday a safeguard — a central payroll system— against payroll abuses and fraud.

PAR said four proposed bills, two each from the Senate and House, do not provide the most effective way of handling personnel and payroll control.

The four bills would require agency heads to prepare and keep up to date a list of all unclassified employes. Two would have the list filed with the civil service department and two would require the lists filed with the division of administration.

The proposals apply only to employees of the executive branch and exclude legislative and judicial employes.

PAR said the central listing could be obtained as a by-product of a central payroll which would provide the state a means of better policing its payrolls.

Such a system, PAR said, should be responsible for maintaining employe payroll records as well as writing paychecks for all state personnel in the executive, legislative and judicial branches.

The system should include classified, unclassified full-time and part time employes as well as consultants and contractual employes, PAR said.

PAR also said the administration-backed investment of idle funds bill still falls short of providing the kind of program the state needs.

The proposal does, PAR said, "expand the present state investment program by directing that state agencies as well as the state treasurer invest funds under their control."

It also removes from present law the two per cent maximum on interest earnings, thereby permitting a higher return to the state.

But PAR objected to the proposed bill on the following grounds:

—Maximum earnings are not assured.

—The provision for compensating the banks permits political patronage to be continued.

—No provision is made for central receipt and disbursement of state funds.

—Agencies would be permitted to retain earnings on their investment.

—There is no provision for relating the amount of state money which can be invested to the size of the bank.

Alf Landon Raps Request For Viet Aid

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — Alf M. Landon, one-time Republican standard-bearer, Saturday night called President Johnson's request for an additional $125 million for the struggle in Viet Nam "piddling."

Landon told a meeting of the American Institute of Banking that an extra $125 million "is a mere trickle to what it will cost in money and American blood to win."

"Time is running out on America in South Viet Nam. We have either got to get in to win or get out," the 1963 GOP presidential candidate said.

Landon said the American public was not discouraged about Viet Nam because the administration has taken the position that everything's "hunky-dory" and by labeling American soldiers as "trainees" and "advisors."

The Kansan charged that the administration was "trying to maintain a phony non-combat role that conceals from the American public the hard facts of life that exist in South Viet Nam.

"In the meantime, American soldiers, flying obsolete military planes, are being shot down.

"That's plain murder, for which the national administration is to blame for not furnishing our troops with modern equipment.

"How did we get into this fix? We got into it, to begin with, because the Eisenhower administration tried to brush off South Viet Nam.

"The Johnson administration still is not treating it realistically."

School Board Election Is Set In Winn Parish

WINNFIELD (Special) — School board election dates were set and two committee vacancies were filled in a meeting of the Winn Parish Democratic Executive Committee here Saturday.

The first primary to elect school board members in Wards 1, 4, 5, and 6 will be July 25. Deadline for candidates to file is 5 p. m. May 30. The committee set the filing fee at $27.

Candidates have until 5 p. m. June 15 to submit names to be chosen for election commissioners and each candidate is limited to three names for each voting precinct. The committee will meet June 27 to draw commissioners.

In other action by the committee, Jesse Temple was chosen to replace Ben Hutto as Ward 4 member and retired member at large, and P. F. Temple of Dodson was appointed to fill the vacancy of his brother, Bill Temple. Both vacancies were caused by death.

The Committee re-elected Eli Harrell as chairman, P. H. Harrel as vice chairman and Ray P. Eagles as secretary.

GAO Reveals Needless Costs

WASHINGTON (AP)) — The General Accounting Office said Saturday the army has been paying a private firm $237,000 a year to maintain its aircraft at Ft. Campbell, Ky., while trained mechanics are assigned to such tasks as kitchen police duty.

Comptroller General Joseph Campbell, in a report to Congress, said the practice has cost taxpayers millions of dollars.

The report was based on a study conducted from January 1962 to April 1963, and involved the 101st Transportation Company, a unit of the Strategic Army Corps (STRAC).

It said the unit was capable of doing all its own aircraft maintenance work but had transferred most to a commercial contractor.

The report said the Defense Department is making a check on the over-all situation and will submit a report by June 15.

SOUTHEAST ASIA

U.S. Fleet Units Near Crisis Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon, as is usual on occasions like this, had little to say about the location or possible intended deployment of military units in troubled Southeast Asia.

However, two already disclosed facts make it evident that:

1. An element of the 7th Fleet is standing fairly close to the Southeast Asian mainland, within an hour's flying time for planes of the fleet unit.

2. Another portion of the fleet happens to be at or on the way to the area of Mindoro Island, in the Philippines, to participate in this year's maneuvers of the annual joint exercises of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. Mindoro is about two days steaming time from the coastline of mainland Asia.

The fact that reconnaissance flights have been flown over Laos from the carrier Kitty Hawk show that a carrier strike group was within easy reach of the mainland as early as Friday.

Dispatches Friday told of Crusader jets from the Kitty Hawk making a surveillance flight to check on Communist troop disposition in Laos.

In its reconnaissance version, the Crusader has an operating radius of about 700 to 800 miles, allowing for time to work in a target area.

Presumably, launches of aircraft are being made from a distance of 100 miles or so off the coast of Viet Nam. The course would take planes across the narrow strip of Viet Nam and over Laos, there to make photographing runs and then head back to the ship with their information.

The Navy does not concentrate the entire 7th Fleet in any one area, but routinely keeps elements deployed in areas ranging the whole length of the East and South East.

A group from the 7th Fleet returned a week ago from the Indian Ocean to rejoin other units on the usual patrols in the China Sea and Western Pacific.

The 7th Fleet is composed of carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines, plus supply ships, tankers and repair ships.

The attack carriers now in the 7th Fleet are the Kitty Hawk, Midway and Bon Homme Richard.

In the fleet, at shore and on carriers, are about 650 planes, both Navy and Marine, and including both combatant and transport types.

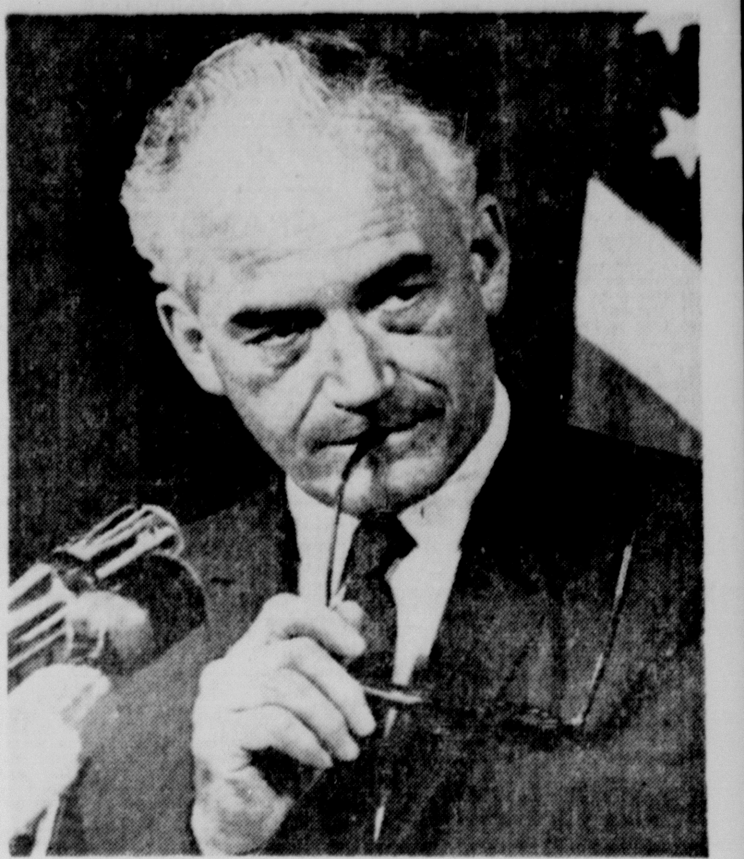
USL President Will Get LSU Honorary Title

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Dr. Joel L. Fletcher Jr., president of the University of Southwestern Louisiana, will receive an honorary doctor of science degree at Louisiana State University's 103rd annual commencement May 30.

A native of Grant Parish, Fletcher is graduate of Louisiana Tech and Iowa State College. He began his career as an agriculture teacher at Ansley (Jackson Parish) in 1917 and later was county agent for Union Parish.

He joined the USL faculty in 1920 as an assistant professor of agriculture and has been president of the school since 1940.

Fletcher also has an honorary doctor of science degree from Southwestern University at Memphis, Tenn., and an honorary LL.D. degree from Marquette University.



SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER is a study in concentration as he listens to a question during a news conference in Los Angeles Saturday. The Arizona senator, resuming his campaign for California's coveted 86 presidential convention delegates in the June 2 primary, said he planned to stick to the issues even though friends want him to attack what he called "many misrepresentations, the smears, and even the 'hate' literature that has been circulated in the campaign." Oregon GOP's Want Governor For Chairman

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — A final effort will be made Monday in Washington to win appointment of Oregon Gov. Mark Hatfield as permanent chairman of the Republican National Convention which is to open July 13 in San Francisco.

Mrs. Collis P. Moore, Oregon National committeewoman, told Oregon convention delegates Saturday she would push the convention committee on arrangements for such a recommendation.

The Republican Governors Association recommended last September that Hatfield get the appointment. However party sources in Washington indicated in late April that Sen. Thruston Morton of Kentucky would get the permanent chairmanship with Hatfield being named temporary chairman.

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Unusual Want Ad Brings Free House Painting

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore E. Wilkinson replied to an unusual Want Ad in the Kalamazoo, Michigan Gazette and had their home painted free by a mysterious Mr. John Doe.

"Mr. Doe" placed an ad which promised "absolutely free" paint to 10 Kalamazoo home owners who would write giving such information as age, family size and employment. After further correspondence and some telephone conversations, Mrs. Wilkinson was directed to pick up the paint at a local store.

According to Mrs. Wilkinson, 66, and her 85-year-old invalid husband, "it was just a wonderful gesture from a man who understands people and their needs."

KENTUCKY TRIP

First Lady Shows Scars Of Travels

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP)—Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson was showing the scars of her travels in Kentucky as she joined President Johnson Saturday at the dedication ceremonies of the George C. Marshall Memorial Library.

A small adhesive plaster was spotted on her left leg.

The White House explained that the First Lady had suffered a slight injury when she tripped going up the front porch steps at the mountain home of farmer Arthur Robertson in the community of Warshoal Branch, Ky., Thursday.

At the time, she didn't pay any attention to it and walked for almost an hour afterwards in the dusty rocky fields and roads talking to Robertson, his wife and seven children.

The busy First Lady virtually was relaxing on her trip with the President Saturday after her hectic overnight journey to Eastern Kentucky Thursday.

She sat in a front seat, alongside Mrs. Katharine Marshall, widow of the general who was honored in speeches by Johnson, former President Eisenhower and other officials at the library dedication.

Mrs. Johnson wilted with the huge crowd as she sat for more than an hour in above 90-degree heat on the parade grounds of Virginia Military Institute.

Someone hoisted a black umbrella over Mrs. Marshall, but Mrs. Johnson got no protection from the beating sun.

On the return trip to Washington, the presidential party stopped for about 10 minutes at the Roanoke, Va., airport, and Johnson walked one way along the fence, shaking hands with spectators. Mrs. Johnson, accompanied by Rep. W. Pat Jennings, D-Va., went the other way, also shaking hands.

In Lexington, Mrs. Johnson joined the President in looking over some of the items on display in the Marshall library, including such mementoes as the Nobel Peace Prize Marshall won in 1953, his Army dog tags and uniforms and a short-snorter dollar bill signed by Winston Churchill.

Short-snorter is a term applied to collections of paper currency, signed by friends, and kept as souvenirs during World War II.

They all admired the bronze bust of Marshall, agreeing with the general's widow when she said "I love it. Don't you?" The bust was done by First Lt. Nison A. Tregor.

The President called attention to two letters, personal appraisals of Marshall, written by the late President John F. Kennedy and himself.

Kennedy had said he was certain "future generations will study General Marshall's career as a model of statesmanship and human achievement."

Johnson wrote that though he did not know Marshall personally he considered him "a truly great American" and a man who "would not walk away from a duty or leave a job undone."

Scouts, Veterans Initiate Program For Bike Safety

Local Boy Scouts and Veterans of Foreign Wars are cooperating in a program new to this area to make bicycle riding for children safer.

On Memorial Day next Saturday, scouts in Monroe, West Monroe and Sterlington will be at schools to apply reflective tape to bicycles so that night riding will be less hazardous. The effort is known as the "Lite-A-Bike" program.

The VFW received the tape from the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. which donated it for the safety program.

Children who would like to have the tape on their bicycles should be at their schools between 9 and 11 a.m. on Memorial Day.

Presbyterian Negro Pastor Hits Optimism

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A leading Negro pastor of the United Presbyterian Church said Saturday it has too quickly begun congratulating itself for its militant involvement in the racial crisis and election of a Negro to its highest office for the first time.

The Rev. Eugene S. Callender, pastor of the Church of the Master and Moderator of the New York City Presbytery, spoke the challenge in a devotional message to the denomination's general assembly.

"Let us not point too quickly with pride," he said.

"Let us remember — as long as our church has segregated homes for the aged, as long as we invest in stocks of industries that do not have fair employment practices, as long as white Presbyterians continue to move out of their neighborhoods when Negroes move in, we continue to be wrong in the sight of God."

The 841 voting commissioners, representing 3.3 million members in 9,100 United Presbyterian churches, opened the annual assembly Thursday by electing the Rev. Edler G. Hawkins of New York as their moderator. He is the first Negro to hold the assembly's highest office.

A division developed at Saturday's session over whether the church's boards and agencies should name representatives to participate in civic affairs.

The Northumberland Presbytery in Pennsylvania suggested the assembly grant this authority and proponents indicated they need it in order to participate in urban renewal programs and other civil activities.

The assembly's committee on overtures recommended rejection of the proposal.

BLONDIE
by CHIC YOUNG
DO YOU KNOW WHAT I WAS THINKING, DEAR?
I THINK I'LL GET A JOB
NO-NO
I HAVE PLENTY OF TIME WITH THE CHILDREN IN SCHOOL ALL DAY-- IT WOULD BE FUN
SO MANY WIVES WORK THESE DAYS-- THINK OF THE ADDITIONAL INCOME WE'D HAVE OH, NO-NO
BUT WE NEED YOU HERE TO TAKE CARE OF OUR HOME
YOU COOK WELL-- YOU COULD HELP WITH THE MEALS, AND I COULD TEACH YOU TO MAKE BEDS
NO, NO
WHAT KIND OF A JOB DID YOU HAVE IN MIND ?
OH, I THOUGHT OF BEING A SCIENTIST OR A DOCTOR OR SOME INDOOR WORK LIKE THAT IT WOULD DISRUPT OUR LIVES--IT WOULD TAKE YEARS OF PREPARATION
IT WAS JUST A THOUGHT
JUST FORGET I EVER MENTIONED IT
5-24
HONESTLY, YOU CAN GET SO UPSET OVER THE LEAST LITTLE THING

TIME: THE ELEVENTH DAY OF THE MOON'S 13 2/3 DAYS OF DAYLIGHT.
TEMPERATURE, +81°!! THREE DAYS AGO IT WAS +200°!
BUT THANK GOODNESS FOR THESE INSULATED SHOES! THE GROUND IS STILL MIGHTY WARM.
THE FACT THAT THE MOON'S GRAVITY IS ONE-SIXTH OF OURS, MAKES LIFTING THIS STUFF VERY EASY.
WE WILL BE BRINGING BACK POSITIVE EVIDENCE OF THE ACCURACY OF OUR COUNTRY'S SPACE SHOTS.
U.S.A.
DON'T REMOVE YOUR GEAR UNTIL WE'VE REPRESSURED THE SPACE COUPE.
ACTUALLY, THE MOON DOES HAVE SOME ATMOSPHERE —WE FOUND THAT OUT.
HOW ABOUT GOING TO THE MOON'S DARK SIDE WHERE WE SAW THE WATERFALLS AND VAPOR.
INDEED! IT WILL BE DAYLIGHT OVER HERE IN ANOTHER DAY OR TWO.
MEANWHILE, WE WILL HOVER OVER THE AREA AND GET SOME SLEEP WHILE WE WAIT FOR DAYLIGHT TO SHOW US WHAT'S IN THIS VALLEY.
SINCE THEIR NIGHT IS 13 2/3 "DAYS" LONG—AND THIS IS THE ELEVENTH DAY —IT WOULD CORRESPOND TO ABOUT 5 A.M. MEASURED IN EARTH TIME.
WE'LL HOVER AS CLOSE AS POSSIBLE. IT'S JUST BEGINNING TO GET "DAYLIGHT."
HEY! LOOK!
NOT ONE WATERFALL, BUT DOZENS
BOILING WATER!
AND APPARENTLY THE STEAM CONDENSES INSTANTLY AND FREEZES ON THE CLIFFS.
I HAVE A HUNCH THAT WHERE THERE'S WATER, THERE'S VEGETATION AND ATMOSPHERE AND PEOPLE.
THEN WE'VE FOUND WHAT WE'RE LOOKING FOR.

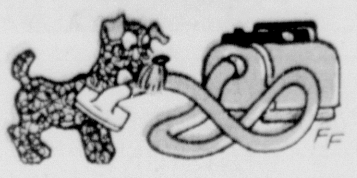
HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
Here's an idea for people with pets in the home. Our dog is long-haired, and I just couldn't keep up with his shedding. Here's what I did . . .

First I got him well acquainted with the vacuum cleaner (about three sessions to build up his confidence. Now each week I vacuum him as regularly as the rest of the house. It has eliminated the dog-hair problem, and I no longer wince when he and the children romp on the furniture.



But remember, it does take a little patience at first to get the animal used to the vacuum cleaner. Eventually he will love it!

Susan Hill

WINDSHIELD TRICK

DEAR HELOISE:
I have found a new use for plastic squirt bottles:

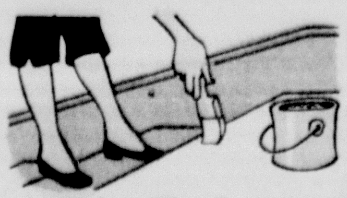
I fill one with water and keep it in the glove compartment of my car. When the windshield gets dirty I take the bottle and squirt. I turn on the windshield wiper, and presto . . . a clean windshield! (My car does not have an automatic washer gadget.)

Joe Eichenburger

EASY ON THE EYES

DEAR HELOISE:
If someone in your home has poor eyesight, or the lighting is dim on the stairways, it saves many a fall if you paint the first and the last steps white or a bright color.

L. N.



You are so right! Fluorescent paint is another good idea. The fluorescent stickers used on car bumpers also are excellent for this.

Heloise

NUT CRACKER

DEAR HELOISE:
Did you know that if you put Brazil or any other kind of nuts in your freezer for at least 24 hours before cracking and shelling them, the shells will pop off easily and leave most of the nut meats whole?

We leave the nuts in their original wrapper and put them directly into the freezer. Try it!

Elizabeth Garland

FROM HELOISE'S KITCHEN

DEAR FOLKS:
When you use a cast-iron skillet or Dutch oven to cook something in, have you ever thought of putting it BACK in the oven after washing it to prevent rust? This is especially good if the oven has been on, or if you have a pilot light.

Did you ever turn on a burner, set your favorite cast-iron piece over it to dry out, and forget it? Oh . . .

Heloise

IT'S A HOLDUP

DEAR HELOISE:
If your medicine cabinet is made of wood, you can glue small magnets to the unused wall space. It's a wonderful place to hold your nail file, tweezers, etc. It helps keep the cabinet neat, and the items can be found quickly.

Mrs. C. Holmes

RACK IT UP

DEAR HELOISE:
I keep my portable clothes rack (ordinarily used for drying clothes) next to my ironing board.

When ironing, I fold the articles once and lay them across the rack. This helps to dry out any dampness, and at the same time I do not clutter up my kitchen table.

E. L.

BIRD CAGE CARE

DEAR HELOISE:
I am ten years old. I have a bird. I have to keep his cage clean.

I found that I could take a magazine, tear off the front and back covers, cut it to fit the bottom of the bird cage, and put it on the bottom of the cage.

Every day I tear off a leaf or two, which leaves the floor of the cage clean.

Jennifer Jones

BREAKFAST SAUSAGE

DEAR HELOISE:
When frying sausage in my electric fry pan, I first line the pan with cooking foil. Fries beautifully and saves a messy cleaning job afterwards.

Evelyn Campbell

SPIKED RECIPES

DEAR HELOISE:
I keep a spike-type "frog," made to hold flowers, on the kitchen shelf.

I use this "frog" to hold my recipe cards while I am cooking. I set it on a shelf near by, and the card is at eye level at all times. It works like a charm—keeps my cards clean and it's heavy enough so the cards won't tip over.

Mrs. Larry Morris

TROUT, FOR INSTANCE

DEAR HELOISE:
For wives of fishermen:

After you clean a fish, use a toothbrush to clean the dark line from the backbone!

Use plenty of fresh water, and you will quickly have very clean fish. No trouble at all.

Mr. Ernil Anderson

PLASTIC BOUQUETS

DEAR HELOISE:
To keep the stems of plastic flowers from bending and causing a droopy bouquet . . . I insert the stems inside soda pop straws! Either large or small straws will do, depending on the size of the plastic flower stems. It sure makes 'em stand up straight.

H. R.

BLEACH JUGS

DEAR HELOISE:
The bottom portions of plastic bleach bottles (just cut the tops off) have many uses:

I use them under potted plants to protect my furniture and window sills from water seepage.

I also use them as indoor planters for starting garden or flower seeds, or food dishes for my pets, or just to hold odds and ends around the house and workshop.

All I have to do is cut them to the desired depth with a pair of scissors or a knife.

Cutting to shape is easy. Start to slit with a sharp-pointed knife and finish with an ordinary pair of scissors. The bottoms of the smaller containers make excellent soap dishes, too.

R. Scott

Large Group Of Suppliers For House

Materials used in the Formica World's Fair Model Home, now ready for public inspection at D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision, came from many suppliers in various sections of the nation.

Tommy Sanders of Tom Sanders Building Mart, who along with George M. Cox, is developer of the subdivision, gave a summary on the sources of some of the materials.

All of the yellow pine lumber came from Hunt's Lumber Company in Ruston, and west coast cedar studs are from various larger west coast mills.

The grey asphalt shingles, 300-pound giant Wood-Tex shingles are from Certain-teed Building products. They are of extra heavy weight. The impregnated insulating sheating came from the same place.

WINDOWS, FLOORS

The window walls are Anderson brand, and Montina Vinyl Corlon on floors is a product of Armstrong.

Owens-Corning fiberglass for added insulation was installed by Ouachita Inc. insulators. It is foiled faced and comes in large sections.

Spartan Sliding Glass Doors were manufactured by Clark Aluminum Company of Houston, Texas. The doors feature shatter proof safety glass, which provides added measure of safety, especially for children.

SHEET ROCK

The sheet rock wall boards for interior walls were provided by Bestwall Gypsum Co. of Dallas, Texas.

The Formica cabinets are from Yorktown Kitchen Cabinets, and mirrors by Pittsburgh, which also supplied the paint.

Century Readymix in Monroe was the source of concrete, while brick came from Acme Brick Company through distributor Monroe Brick and Tile.

Lighting fixtures were supplied by House of Light in Monroe, and landscaping was done by Roach Nursery of West Monroe.

World's Fair House Opens Here

A regional version of the Formica World's Fair House, a grey brick structure in the $45,000 class, will be open to visitors today in D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision, West Monroe, from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

The beautiful model home counterpart of the one now on display at the New York World's Fair, will be open to the public on Saturday and Sunday of every week through July 12 from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

The house was constructed by contractor Tommy Head of West Monroe, the only authorized World's Fair House builder in this area. George M. Cox and Tommy Sanders are the developers of D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision which fronts on a 40-acre man-made lake in the hill section of Ouachita Parish, approximately two miles from the intersection of Arkansas Road and White's Ferry Road.

GOLD MEDALLION

Classified as a Gold Medallion all-electric home, the house has 36 electrical circuits to serve lighting, central heating and cooling, and all appliances and fixtures.

It is situated on an approximately one-half acre plot which is bounded on two sides by the lake, and well shaded by an assortment of hardwood trees.

Featuring a little more than 2,900 feet of living space, the house has three bedrooms, separate dining room, kitchen and dinette combination, sewing, utility room combination, den (known as great room), two and one-half baths, living room, large split level patio, and double carport with more than sufficient amount of storage space.

It is served by all utilities, sewerage, water, and electric.

The lake nearby is stocked with bream and bass.

Howard Lance handled the interior decorating, and house plans were provided by Formica, while the planning for maximum efficiency in use of electricity was provided by Louisiana Power and Light company. Furnishings were provided by Dixie Bedding, and landscaping was done by Roach Nursery.

The floors are Montina Corlon by Armstrong in every place except the three bedrooms, living room, dining room, and dressing rooms in two bathrooms which have Lee wall-to-wall wool carpets.

Bathrooms have colored Kohler fixtures, and the dinette-kitchen has built-in Frigidaire turquoise colored appliances, and cabinets are walnut finished Formica.

Visitors to the model home will enter the front door into a foyer which leads into the hallway and directly into the living room. From there they will travel through the master bedroom with Anderson window wall which offers a beautiful view through tree shaded yard to lake.

INDIRECT LIGHTING

IN WORLD'S FAIR HOUSE

Lights, Intercom Unusual Features

The lighting fixtures and communications system in the Formica World's Fair House in D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision are features of unusual beauty and interest.

Supplied by the House of Light were lighting fixtures of such brands as Lightolier and Progress.

Lighting fixtures in the house vary from early American to traditional. There is recess lighting by Progress, and foyer pieces of wrought iron design manufactured by Acme Lighting Fixture Company.

VARIATION

The variation in lighting fixture designs ranges from white and gold wood grained ceiling fixtures in the master bedroom, to lights patterned after the design of old fashioned kerosene lamps which are in the den or great room.

Another variety of custom hand made lighting fixtures in the model home is that of Argee.

In planning the lighting, the home builders took into consideration that good lighting provides an extra dimension of decoration for antimation and loveliness.

Lighting in the model home is arranged to accent the mood of the furnishings and the construction features, giving full value to colors and textures, and enriching the setting.

EFFECTIVE USE

The arrangement of lighting fixtures has made the most of small areas and large areas within the home.

The beauty of lighting is found throughout the house from living room, to bedrooms, kitchen-dinette, den (or great room), bathrooms and so on.

The lighting in this model Gold Medallion — all electric— home is in its natural orbit, since there are ample electrical circuits to accomodate all types of fixtures.

beams carrying out the color effect.

There is a wood burning fireplace in the den, on which two ceiling fixed spotlights are focused. Old fashioned motif electrical lamps are the prime source of light for the den.

From the den visitors will move into dinette-kitchen combination with built-in electrical appliances, and all Formica cabinets in walnut finish design.

DINING ROOM

From there the tour will lead into the separate dining room with all-wool wall-to-wall carpeting. Glass sliding doors in the dining room and den lead out onto the two-level patio which is about 14 feet wide by 50 feet in length.

A grey brick planter along the side of the patio is well stocked with beautiful plants.

From the patio there is a commanding view of the lake.

Adjoining the rear entrance is a double carport with two large separate store-rooms. The house has asphalt shingles, gutters and downspouts.

An unusual feature of the World's Fair Model House includes skylights in hall and dining areas.

The setting for the home not only stands out well in spring and summer, but with an assortment of hardwoods, oak, elm, mulberry and gum, it will be surrounded by a brilliant show of colors in the fall when chilly temperatures perform their art on leaves.

To pinpoint the location of the home, the D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision is situated off of Wall Williams Road. Roads leading to the subdivision are hard surface, and broad paved streets are a feature of the housing addition.

Formica Used Effectively In Model Residence

TOTAL ELECTRIC LIVING

World's Fair House Here In Gold Medallion Class

The label of Gold Medallion Home has been applied to the Formica World's Fair House in D'Arbonne Subdivision, because it is designed for "total electric living."

Louisiana Power and Light Company assisted in planning for the electrical needs of the model house which has 36 electrical circuits.

Officials of the power company explained that "A Gold Medallion Home features a Gold Medallion Award on the outside and solid gold family living on the inside. Whether the Gold Medallion is embedded in the brick or concrete or featured as part of the door bell door knocker, or illuminated house number, it signifies that the house has been designed and built according to the highest standards of the electrical industry to bring the joy of total electric living to every member of the family."

SINGLE SOURCE

Louisiana Power and Light Company explained that there is a single source of energy. Clean efficient electricity lights and heats the house and powers any combination of the 166 electrical servants available today.

Gold Medallion Homes are wired for full Housepower. They have plenty of switches, outlets and electrical circuits to operate and control the electric appliances you own today as well as those you want to own tomorrow. And all that glitters in a total electric home is not gold—it's the pleasant system of light for living, working, playing and decoration featured in every Gold Medallion Home.

'HEART OF GOLD'

When it comes to the heating system, the heart of good home living, the Medallion Home has a "heart of gold." For it features clean, gentle electric heat, the most modern kind of heating available. And since many of the homemaker's golden hours are spent in the kitchen and laundry areas of the home, Gold Medallion Homes feature the major electric appliances to help her care for her family's needs and still have time for outside activities.

Gold Medallion Homes, like the gold in their name, will maintain their value in the years ahead because they are built for better living now as well as in the future.

FOR THE LADIES

Women not only like living electrically — they want more of it! Women influence the sales of electric appliances and right now it is evident they play a large role in influencing the trend toward total electric living in a Gold Medallion Home.

In a decade they have advanced from buying electric living piecemeal to buying it by the room full and now they are indicating they are more than willing to purchase it by the house-full.

What attracts women to electric living? The desire to live better electrically did not arise overnight. It was a gradual acceptance of electric living — from the small appliance in the home to the more major appliances and, finally, the realization that total electric living is a practical reality.

BETTER WAY

Today women consider electric living not only a better way of life but a more modern one. They are choosing it above others because it has the most to offer them.

After years of experiencing the benefits of electricity with small appliances they want them in the larger applications — electric heating for instance, or water heating. They like their bedrooms air-conditioned and they find there are real advantages in having their kitchens air conditioned as well.

Today's homemaker cheerfully clicks off the advantages of living electrically and wades deeper into its joys. Feminine satisfaction with electric powered convenience is zooming into a new sphere — the new home market. If the style and appearance of a new home is important to her, so is its electric living power. She is interested in the efficiency of the new way of keeping her home climate controlled with electric heating and air conditioning.

So if the electric toaster began turning women's heads toward department store windows in the twenties, the total electric Gold Medallion Home is stopping them by the side of the road in the sixties.

Holsum Bread To Be Displayed In New House

There'll be a display of something good to eat in the Formica World's Fair Model House at D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision when it opens today.

It will be Holsum bread and Nancy Cotton cakes, which will be familiar sights to the visitors to the home, since they are so widely used in the area homes at mealtime and at between meal snack times, too.

Officials of the bread company pointed out that the bread is ideally teamed with a model world's fair structure, since it is a model nutritional element, too.

The bread and the cakes will be fresh from the ovens of Cotton's Holsum bakers.

Air Cooling, Heating Unit Is Airtemp

A Chrysler Airtemp all-electric year around heating and cooling system to furnish "wall to wall comfort," has been installed in the Formica World's Fair House in D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision.

It was furnished and installed by Cheeks Electric.

The unit built to produce the finest climate comfort possible to obtain "will create in the model house the atmosphere of sparkling livability you would expect from the originator of air cooled residential air conditioning," said the manufacturers of the equipment.

They listed these points which are features of the system:

Freshness — the air is crisp, invigorating, pure.

Cleanliness — The air is healthy, clean. With windows closed against airborne dirt and germs, the entire supply of air in the home is gently circulated and filtered many times each day.

Comfort — The air is cooled, dehumidified. Chrysler's air conditioning units wring gallons of excess moisture from the air when outside humidity is oppressive.

Quiet — the sound of a good home — music, laughter, good conversation — or just plain quiet, unmarred by outside noises.

Invisible Family At Fair House

— Any time you want to make a big hit with your wife, write a love letter — to your architect.

The's the premise of the "invisible family" show designed to entertain the anticipated nine million visitors to The Formica World's Fair House.

Here's how the show goes:

As visitors enter the seven-room home, on the only hill at the New York World's Fair, they'll hear the voice of the "invisible father" — Daniel J. Jackson — telling his architect what he wants in a house for his wife and two children.

DETAILS

". . . a boy's room where he can hole up as in his own private fortress . . . a girl's room that can be a small beauty shop, a constant fashion showing, a trophy case for small victories . . . a living room with a touch of grandeur . . . a family room that can be an entertainment center and a place for rugged play . . . in short," Jackson says to his architect, "design the house so it's a love story . . . the house has got to say a lot of nice things to my family that I don't get a chance to say every day."

That sums up the father's specifications, but visitors also will hear the voices of other members of the family as well as the architect and the decorator.

These balanced voices of stage, screen, radio and TV personalities, backed by an original musical score, will provide the 14-minute commentary which will guide guests through the exhibit.

Evidences of family living will be seen on the tour. Doors will open and close mysteriously. A dress will emerge from a closet and begin waltzing around the room. A hand will wipe a section of Formica paneling and furniture will move.

Contemporary Motif Is Used

In general, a contemporary motif using Italian and French provincial, was carried out in the Formica World's Fair House in D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision.

The drapery was placed and color scheme worked out by decorator Howard Lance of Lance Decorating Studios here.

Lance described portions of the model house, pointing out that the den has a mahogany Formica wall, and the drapes are linen and cotton tweed in tones of beige and white. Drapes were accented with one-inch brass traverse rods.

The dining room is classic Italian provincial. It is formal, with walls of off-white deeper carpeting of the same tone, and is accented with acquas and greens.

FOCAL POINT

The master bedroom has as its focal point a scenic wallpaper behind the bed. It is in tones of greens and blues and the room is accented with deep blue carpet and very soft, airy dacron drapery in the green and blue stripes.

The bedspread is olive green with two matching light green French provincial chairs. Furnishings in the room, are antique white provincial. Adjoining the room is a luxurious dressing room with a completely lighted ceiling and the same type dark blue carpet. It has antique golden white chest that could serve as accent point.

PICTURE WINDOWS

The master bedroom, living room, and dining room "all have picture windows overlooking the lake, providing nature's own picture," said Lance.

The living room accents are in blues and greens. The sofa is classic Italian done in tones of beige and off white with an Italian olive green velvet love seat. It also is accented by two aqua chairs. On one wall there are two beautiful chests with a small brass gallery around the top. It is accented by blue and green pillows, and walls are off white with deeper tone carpet and drapery matching walls, as is the case in the dining room.

The other two bedrooms are off white and have matching color carpets and drapery in aqua tones. These identical rooms are connected by a bathroom.

World's Fair Free Trips Contest Set

Visitors to the Formica World's Fair House in D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision, West Monroe, will have an opportunity to win two free all-expense paid trips to the New York's World Fair.

In the contest, sponsored by the American Cynamide Company's Building Products Division, entry forms will be available to visitors at the model home. On these they will be able to fill out in a few words their description of what they like about the acrylite products used in the house.

PRODUCTS USE

These products will be found in the ceiling of the master bathroom, and the tub enclosures, in the skylight, and the screen used to separate the utility and sewing rooms.

It was emphasized that the competition is not a drawing, but is based on the impressions which the visitors give concerning the use of the acrylite products.

The winners will receive five days at the World's Fair with hotel accommodations provided, as well as food allowance and tickets to the Fair. In addition to this they will receive free transportation to and from the fair by Delta Airlines plane.

Mass Media Converged On World's Fair House

THE WORLD'S FAIR, N.Y.— Mass media have invaded The World's Fair House. During recent weeks a nationwide telecast, a newsreel film, a color television tape and network radio broadcasts have all been produced directly from the Formica House.

The World's Fair House was the focal point for a special two-hour Today show telecast the day after the Fair opened. Weekly half-hour telecasts, emanating from the Formica House, will be shown over the NBC-TV network as a regular part of the Today show every Friday, until the Fair closes.

More than 50 million people are expected to see a film of a tour through The World's Fair House, taken by Hearst Metrotone News. The film was released to movie theaters all across the country.

SHOWN AT FAIR

The ten-minute color television tape will be shown at regular intervals over the RCA closed television circuit network at the Fair. RCA has placed 300 color TV sets at high traffic areas over the fairground where visitors will be able to see continuous telecasts of activities on the grounds. The closed circuit network will be on the air 12 hours a day, starting at ten in the morning.

The basic design as created by Schmidlin and Leigh embodies many features of universal appeal, and the prime objective in creating the floor plan was to provide maximum use of all space with a minimum of effort in housekeeping.

By referring to the sketch plan, you will observe there are clear cut separations between the specific areas and their contemplated use in the house. For example, visualize the children returning home either from school or play — they enter the house through the side door — facing the driveway—and come into a separate entry with cloak room and lavatory immediately adjacent thereto. (They do not track through the kitchen, as in many of the present day houses.) From this side entry they may go directly to their own bedrooms, change their clothes, and either return to the out-of-doors or go directly into the Great Room (Family Room), through a door leading from the side entry. Here they may study, watch TV, or entertain their friends without in any way interfering with other members of the family.

VERSATILE KITCHEN

Notice, too, the placement of the kitchen — so located that it enables one to serve the dining room, Great Room, and also the patio — each with equal ease. A barbeque may be built in the kitchen where it would be available for year-round use, and placed sufficiently distant from the cooking range so that mother may be undisturbed in her area, while the children are broiling hamburgers for consumption on the patio, in the Great Room or in the breakfast area.

SPACE GALORE

Observe, if you will, the sliding glass doors leading from the living room, dining room, and the Great Room onto an enormous patio—which also has direct access from the kitchen. For those one-a-year affairs to which one likes to invite more guests than could possibly be crowded into one or two rooms, just visualize this lovely patio all set up for a buffet supper—the buffet table being in the dining room, and small tables on the patio. Here guests can wander in and out of the living room and Great Room at will, and have all the freedom and luxury of a very large establishment.

Vacuum Cleaner Central System In Model House

The task of house cleaning is greatly simplified in the new Formica World's Fair Model Home in D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision.

Using the vaccum cleaner is an easy operation with the special facilities featured in the house, in the form of a centralize vacuum cleaning system.

Installed by Hargus Insulation, it consists of a centralized unit, with ducts running to all rooms of the house. The person doing the cleaning simply walks around with a hose and whatever type of cleaning attachment is desired and the hose is plugged into an opening in the room leading to the central unit.

The dust is carried through the ducts to the central unit, where it may be emptied periodically. The hose is the only thing that must be shifted from one room to another in the cleaning operation.

Tommy Sanders, who with George M. Cox, is developing the D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision, said the centralized vacuum cleaner is the coming thing for households of the future.

Natural Look Trend Gains In Housing

The natural look promises to be one of the most important continuing trends in home decoration throughout 1964, according to some home decorating experts.

Interior designers are looking for more and more ways to bring the outdoors indoors, says one authority, and there are more brick and stone on interior walls, more roughhewn wood in ceiling beams and paneling, even exterior siding materials are being used as interior paneling.

Colors, textures, and designs of drapery and upholstery fabrics are keyed to natural woodsy effects.

PACING LOOKS

Pacing the natural look has been the development of a third dimension in resilient flooring materials. Many of the newest effects in sheet vinyl floors have a subtle texture or nubby effect that is as practical as it is handsome.

On the decorating side, texture adds interest to the individual flooring design which complements the use of natural materials elsewhere in the room.

On the more practical side, that gentle texture actually simplifies floor maintenance because it helps conceal scuffs and scrapes and tends to hide marks made by ladies' stiletto heels.

FIRST AVAILABLE

This three-dimensional effect in flooring materials actually became available more than 30 years ago when it was first introduced in embossed linoleum. Many homemakers will remember a red brick pattern in embossed linoleum in their mothers' kitchens. Today this same pattern is more popular than ever and can be found in kitchens as well as family rooms, dens, and other rooms of the home.

Only in more recent years have textured surfaces been introduced in the more luxurious sheet vinyl flooring materials.

Green Brothers Milk Is Stocked In Refrigerator

Visitors to the World's Fair Home, like most visitors to new homes, will want to browse throughout the kitchen, look at the built-ins, cabinets and appliances, including the refrigerator. Ninty-nine out of 100 people will want to look inside the refrigerator, and when they do they'll see it stocked with Green Brothers Quality Chekd milk.

Quality Chekd is recognized throughout this area as the sure sign of flavor. It's symbolic of Green Brothers Dairy's membership in the Quality Chekd Dairy Products Association. This Association is made of almost 200 independent dairies throughout the nation who join together in advertising, marketing and research. The high standards of quality must be maintained at all times. Regular checking is done by the national organization to see that its dairy members maintain these high standards.

Combining this, with the reputation which Green Brothers already has, serves as double assurance to homemakers that Green Brothers products not only taste better but they are of the highest quality possible.

ntle Care rescribed For Floors

Gentle care in cleaning floors such as those of Montina Vinyl Corlon which are featured in the Formica World's Fair House in D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision, will keep them in good condition for many years, according to experts in this line.

They advise against frequent scrubbings with strong household detergents, followed by heavy applications of wax.

Most floors are not worn away. They're washed away, said the experts.

NEW, BRIGHT

Properly maintained, good resilient flooring material should stay bright and new looking, even under the hardest wear.

There's nothing particularly difficult or time consuming about caring for vinyl floors. Strong soaps and hot water should never be used to clean a resilient floor, since they may fade or discolor the material and cause it to become hard and brittle.

The same goes for cleaners containing benzine, naptha, abrasives or harsh alkalis. Regular use of these cleaning agents can ruin even the most expensive vinyl floor.

SUCCESS KEY

The key to successful floor maintenance, according to most flooring manufacturers, is to spend a few minutes each day removing spots, spills, and loose dirt before they have a chance to get ground in.

It's also important to keep a thin, hard coat of wax or polish on the floor at all times.

Soap and water cleaning should be restricted to two or three times a y ear—just often enough to remove the dirt film and old wax that inevitably builds up over an extended period of time.

Another technique which flooring experts advise is to stay away from baseboards when applying wax or polish to resilient flooring. Since foot traffic is very light in the area directly adjacent to the wall, no protective finish is needed and wax buildup here can be avoided.

SUBDIVISION

D'Arbonne Hills Beautiful Setting

D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision, West Monroe, site of the new Formica World's Fair Model House, was opened about two years ago, after extensive planning and preliminary work.

The developers are Tommy Sanders and George M. Cox.

In a setting of picturesque rolling hills of west Ouachita Parish, it is located about one and one-half miles from the West Monroe city limits.

90 LOTS

There are approximately 90 lots plotted out with all facilities, water system, natural gas system, as well as paved streets.

Eventually, the developers plan to extend the developed area to include 250 lots.

The subdivision has lots fronting on a beautiful 40-acre lake which was constructed to fit the pattern of the setting and now is well filled with water and is stocked with bream, bass, and blue channel catfish.

It also has lots away from the lake. All lots have large shade trees on them.

SANDY LOAM

The paved streets have concrete curbs and gutters and land is a sandy loam with excellent drainage.

The lake will serve as a source of recreational activities such as fishing and boating. Boats are restricted to no more than three horsepower.

The subdivision is restricted.

A sign on White's Ferry Road indicates the proper turning point for persons driving to the subdivision.

Den, Patio Unusual In Model House

The den and a portion of the patio which adjoins it are located at a lower level than the other sections of the D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision Formica World's Fair House opening today for inspection by the public.

Three steps down from one side of the hallway lead into the den which has a large wood burning fireplace at one side.

PANELING

The den has Formica rosewood type of dark paneling and exposed beams which carry out the color effect and add to the pleasing atmosphere of the room.

Two ceiling spotlights are focused on the fireplace, and the main lighting for the room is provided by electric lights in the pattern of old fashion kerosene type lamps which hang from the ceiling.

Sliding glass doors in the den lead to the lower level of the large patio, which is 14 feet wide and 50 feet long.

The patio offers a choice vantage point for viewing activities around the 40-acre lake located behind the house.

A grey brick planter with an assortment of attractive plants in it runs along most of the outside of the patio, lending a special touch of freshness and color.

The patio offers plenty of useable space for persons to relax, and is well arranged to accomodate chairs and tables without being crowded.

Hardy Shrubs In Landscape Of Model House

Hardy basic shrubs were planted and some new shade trees installed in landscaping around the Formica World's Fair Model House being opened for public inspection in D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision.

Landscaping was carried out by Wiley Roach, head of Roach Nursery Inc.

In describing the place, Roach said, "This area has a beautifully contoured lake front site with large existing trees."

He said the yard was seeded to grass, and commented on the approach to the house.

"It has a very unusual driveway system," he added, "arranged so that as you drive you have a beautiful lake view. The setting of the place is on a curve turn, or cartwheel pattern of ground. The driveway system is long and it gives you a feeling of touring. You get a good view going into the building, which is spectacular, no doubt about that."

The nurseryman explained that "there is a planter box (a long grey brick planter structure) on the patio which has an assortment of evergreen foliage plants."

Model Home Specials In Dining Area

The dinette-kitchen and the dining room are attractive features of the new Formica World's Fair House in D'Arbonne Hills Subdivision of West Monroe, which will be of particular interest to the ladies touring the home.

The dinette-kitchen features built-ins by Frigidaire, including turquoise colored appliances, range-oven, refrigerator, disposall, and all Formica cabinets in simulated walnut finish.

WELL ARRANGED

The fixtures and appliances are well arranged and the setting is spacious to allow maximum efficiency and freedom of movement around the room.

The dinette-kitchen is located next to the dining room, which has wall-to-wall all-wool grey carpeting by Lee. The carpets were furnished by Dixie Bedding and Furniture Co.

Glass sliding doors in the dining room lead to the spacious patio.
